Must We Have a Fight?
New Band Wagon.
Cutting Down Space.
Wall St., Busy, Blue.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

AN ENGLISH newspaper suggests that Europe should unite against us in an economical boycott, as European countries united against Germany in 1914.

It would be too bad to have an industrial, economic fight. But, fortunately, we are ready for it, if it must come.

THE TEN BILLIONS that we sent to our dear friends in Europe last time would be spent on our own fight this time, and 100 billions more if necessary.

Three American workmen can produce as much steel as ten British workmen.

Ten American automobile mechanics can produce as many automobiles as 100 French, German or British mechanics.

We are meek and peaceful, but if they want fight, they probably can get it.

A NEW Republican band wagon has started on its way toward 1932, labeled "wet" and Dwight W. Morrow, the first passenger, sits smiling on the top seat. Other seats will be crowded soon, for Mr. Morrow, "moderate wet," beat his dry opponents in New Jersey more than 3 to 1.

MR. EINSTEIN says space is the important thing. He may be right, but the genius of man is making space less important every day.

Yesterday, at a World Power Conference in Berlin, high powered scientists discussed the latest possibilities of applying electric and other power.

At the same time the United States National Electric Light Association was meeting in San Francisco.

SCIENTISTS, using the world wide radio system provided by M. H. Aylesworth, head of the American National Broadcasting System, talked and listened to each other as though they were in one room, instead of being thousands of miles apart.

IN SAN FRANCISCO, Owen D. Young, chairman of the General Electric Company, talked and listened to the men in Berlin. In London, Marconi, great Italian, talked to the Berlin and San Francisco scientists.

Delegates representing the German government talked to Americans in San Francisco where Matthew S. Sloan, president of the National Electric Light Association, gave information about American methods.

WHEN Owen D. Young finished with the Berlin scientists, our Thomas A. Edison, greatest of them all, walked to the microphone in New Jersey and talked to Berlin, San Francisco and London at the same time, men in all three cities hearing him, within the same fraction of second.

That is a real miracle.

A BUSY and somewhat agitated day in Wall street yesterday. 4,425,630 shares of stock being sold. The selling was orderly, no sign of panic. There is comfort in the reflection that somebody must have bought everything that was sold.

A FEW months ago, twenty million Americans were buying foolishly. Now they are selling foolishly.

Later on they will regret today's selling as much as they recently regretted hasty buying.

IN NEW YORK, some man, probably a maniac, killed two and wrote to a newspaper promising to kill another last night, and 13 more later.

For reasons not clear the killer selects as victims men sitting with women in cars parked in isolated places.

In his district the parking of such cars will probably diminish during the next few evenings.

KILLING without motive, it may be impossible to find him as it was impossible to find the notorious "Jack the Ripper" who had killed so many women in London.

The incident should convince men, and their women companions especially, that it is foolish to risk murder, robbery and disgrace, as thousands do how every day.

CHICAGO struggling with the gangster problem, anxious to learn who killed a Chicago Tribune reporter, will realize that you cannot overcome organized crime by pursuing details. You might as well try to cure smallpox by concentrating on one sore.

It would be worth while to send a commission to learn from Mussolini how he managed to wipe out the Mafia, and other secret societies in Sicily. It was not done gently, but it was DONE.

A REVOLUTION, starting in Southern Bolivia is important because the revolutionary force is said to be composed of "Indians and Communists." Communist superstition, like religious superstition, grafted upon ignorant Indian minds, may lead to serious trouble.

SCHOOL BOY KILLED IN BLAST

Playmate Escapes Injury as Student, Making Flares In Basement, Loses Life

Harold G. Ewens, 17, high school student, was killed by an explosion of gunpowder with which he was experimenting in the basement of his home, 1480 Greenmont avenue, Dormont, today, while a playmate, only a few feet away, escaped unscathed.

Jack McCandless, 10, of 1479 Greenmont avenue, was behind a furnace when the powder let go. Mrs. Ewens, mother of Harold, was on the second floor telephoning. She ran to the basement and helped carry her son to the back porch where he died in 15 minutes. She is suffering from shock.

DIES IN 15 MINUTES

The blast ripped off young Ewen's fingers and tore his body.

According to the McCandless lad, the two had been experimenting with powder, making flares for six or seven months. Ewens, a junior in Dormont High School, was much interested in science.

Today Ewens had filled the inverted cone of a glass orange squeezer with powder, placed a wick in it and was preparing to make a flare by lighting the wick.

HIGHLY EXPLOSIVE

The powder was a mixture and police believe it was of a more highly explosive character than that previously used by the boys.

Ewens had planned to attend the annual commencement exercises tonight at Dormont High School.

Young Ewens' father, Harold G. Ewens, Sr., employed in the sales department of the Carnegie Steel Company, was at work when the accident occurred. He was summoned home by neighbors. The dead youth was his only child.

One window of the cellar was broken by the explosion.

Gilbert Htichcock After Norris' Seat

OMAHA, June 19.—(AP.)—Former United States Senator Gilbert M. Hitchcock, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee in the Wilson administration during the World War, today announced his candidacy for the Nebraska Senate seat now held by Senator George W. Norris. Hitchcock is a Democrat.

U. S. Senator Baird To Marry This Week

CAMDEN, N. J., June 19.—(AP.)—United States Senator David Baird, Jr., will be married within the next two or three days to Mrs. Francis H. Smith, of Camden.

The couple will sail immediately for Europe, returning in time to join the campaign for election of Dwight W. Morrow as United States senator.

New York Gives Byrd Triumphal Welcome

Crowds Jam Streets to View Pageant; Mayor Extends Greetings.

NEW YORK, June 19.—(AP.)—Aerial conqueror of both ends of the earth, Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd set foot again today at 10 a. m. (eastern standard time) on the turf of Lower Manhattan, from which he sailed 20 months ago on a pilgrimage of exploration into the white wastes of Antarctica.

ROAR WELCOME

Surrounded in sea and sky and on the land by a roaring welcome in which planes and harbor craft and cheering thousands joined, he debarked from the city welcoming tug Macom to receive from the City of New York the third and by far the most boisterous greetings it has tended to him for his achievements of exploration by air.

Mayor Walker hailed Byrd as a great scientist and a still greater human being. He said:

GREETED BY MAYOR

SUNDAY CHANGE VOTED IN POLL

Results to date in the poll of Edgewood will be published tomorrow.

Three of the smallest boroughs of Allegheny County, Ben Avon Heights, Bradford Woods and Chalfant, widely separated in distance and in the degree of their objection to the Blue Laws of Pennsylvania, register opposition to the closed Sunday in the poll of the county by the Sun-Telegraph.

The vote is close in Bradford Woods. An equal number support enforcement and repeal of the law, the tie being broken by the modificationists. Ballots from Ben Avon Heights favor repeal over enforcement by a ratio of 7 to 1 and Chalfant voters advocate repeal by a ratio of 8 to 1. The votes are divided:

	Ben Avon Heights	Bradford Woods	Chalfant
Enforcement	4	10	4
Modification	2	5	3
Repeal	22	10	35

The total of 93 ballots to date from these small residential communities is relatively substantial.

Staggering Not Enough To Warrant Dry Raid

The Federal Court here holds that the mere fact an intoxicated man came from the premises is not sufficient evidence on which to base a search warrant. He might have been intoxicated when he entered, or he might have taken liquor in and consumed it on the premises, without the knowledge of the owner.

Judge F. P. Schoonmaker so ruled in an order handed down today, quashing two warrants executed on a club in the buildings of the Krivan Hall Association at 628 Garfield avenue, Springdale. Evidence obtained in the raids was ordered suppressed. The information had charged the association and Joseph Lukas with possession of liquor for sale purposes, but there was no evidence of a sale.

The court pointed out that an affidavit by prohibition agents, who had the premises under observation April 3, in which they said they saw two men in a visibly intoxicated condition leave the place, did not, however, disclose whether these men were sober when they entered, and there was no evidence from which it could be inferred they had bought liquor while there. The court took the same view regarding alleged intoxicated men said by agents to have left the premises on two other occasions.

The affidavits further disclosed that the agents went to the front door of the club premises, saw a peep-hole in an inner room and detected a strong alcoholic odor emanating from the place. The court held that the Krivan Hall Association is a fraternal organization, that there is nothing uncommon in fraternal buildings being arranged with outer and inner doors, on which there are peep-holes, and that there was no probable cause to justify search warrants.

MANIAC SPARES THIRD MARKED FOR DEATH

Amazing Series of Killings Interrupted; Police Take His Threats Seriously

International News Service.

NEW YORK, June 19.—The "massacre maniac" apologized today for not committing his third murder as advertised.

In a letter flavored with symbols and code, the madman who has already killed two men explained that the man marked for death in College Point at 9 o'clock last night had saved his life by returning one of the "missing papers" and $37,000 in blackmail money.

The action of the almost-doomed victim, wrote the madman, also saved five others, including a tall blonde woman.

But the brain-cracked correspondent took occasion to give a final warning to seven other persons slated to die by his hand.

BLACKMAIL PAID

The latest letter from the "Massacre Maniac" reads:

"Dear Sir:

"I beg to thank you for publishing the code message sent you.

"W. '. XVG of C. P. (College Point) has returned the Philadelphia XV 340 to me tonight—also 37,000 dollars of blackmail money, thanks to God, if I may use his name."

The killer then listed in code their names, one of which was deciphered as meaning a police detective.

The maniac then ran into a review of his slaying of Joseph Mosinski, who was with Catherine May, 19, in an automobile on a lonely Long Island road, and of Noel Bowley, young radio salesman. Betty Ring, daughter of a policeman, was in a parked car in another Long Island "lovers' lane" when her escort was killed.

EXONERATES GIRLS

In both cases, the maniac politely escorted the girls to a bus station after murdering their men.

The writer declared that neither girl had anything to do with his two shootings and he further ex-

BEREGSZAZY, Hungaria, June 19.—(AP.)—One person was killed and 50 wounded, of whom 20 are not expected to live, as the result of a fight starting in an altercation between a farmer of Likva, celebrating his daughter's marriage, and a youth from a neighboring village.

JONES LEADING BRITISH GOLF BY STROKE

Bobby Finishes Brilliantly After Shaky Start and Displaces Horton Smith

HOYLAKE, England, June 19.—(AP.)—Bobby Jones today scored a par 72 in his second round of the British open golf championship and led the field with a two-day score of 142.

Jones, after a shaky start, came home brilliantly, covering the last nine holes in 35 strokes.

He displaced Horton Smith from the leadership when he posted his score, the tall Missouri pro having scored 145 in two days to lead the field in mid-afternoon.

With two-thirds of the field reported and most of yesterday's leaders accounted for, Leo Diegel, MacDonald Smith and Archie Compston were tied at 147 for third place behind Bobby Jones and Horton Smith.

Long Jim Barnes was in sixth place with 148 and Henry Cotton held seventh with 149.

Don Moe, young Portland (Ore.) amateur, turned in a score of 73 to go into a tie for third place with a total of 147.

REED PROLONGS SENATE TERM

WASHINGTON, June 19.—(AP.)—Efforts to get agreements for final votes on the veteran's relief bill and the rivers and harbors measure failed in the Senate today, clouding the prospects for an early adjournment of this session.

Senator Reed, Republican, Pennsylvania, killed a proposal by Senator McNary, of Oregon, the assistant Republican leader, for a vote today on the veterans bill. Reed said he favored many provisions but was so opposed to others he wanted more time than would be presented by today's debate to discuss the legislation. His stand was believed to have disrupted plans for an adjournment by the middle of next week.

STOCKS HIGHER, TRADING QUIET

NEW YORK, June 19.—(AP.)—The stock market appeared to have completed its latest phase of liquidation today, and turned quiet, after a swift upturn at the opening, such as normally follows a selling climax.

More than twoscore issues sold up $2 to more than $10 a share, cancelling a large part of yesterday's loss. Prices fluctuated uncertainly for a time during the morning, as the initial rally attracted considerable hangover liquidation, but the entire list again developed a strong tone around mid-day.

The market opened with a flurry of short covering, and leading stocks were taken in blocks of 1,000 to 10,000 shares at sharply rising prices.

The commodity markets, both domestic and foreign, also rallied, but in the main, Wall street was inclined to await further testing of price levels before drawing any decisive conclusions as to the trend of the speculative markets, since so many recent rallies of late have proven so short-lived.

COUNTY HEAD WITH BRIDE IN EAST

Commissioner, 63, Woman Of 37 Get License Here, Married in Philadelphia

Joseph G. Armstrong, 63-year-old chairman of the Board of County Commissioners, was married at 1 o'clock today in the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel, Philadelphia.

His bride was Mrs. Ethel Wilson, aged 37, of the Rutledge Apartments, 600 South Negley avenue, this city, widow of the former president of the Continental Coal Company.

The Commissioner and his bride obtained the marriage license here yesterday and then left in her automobile for the East.

Commissioner Armstrong kept his matrimonial plans secret from his most intimate friends.

SON ASTONISHED

Even his son, Joseph G. Armstrong, Jr., expressed astonishment at the news that his father had obtained a marriage license. Today, however, he received a telegram announcing the marriage and wired his father congratulations.

All that could be learned from office associates of Commissioner Armstrong was that he had left the courthouse about noon yesterday.

The Commissioner was smiling as he departed and had the happy mien of a bridegroom, they recollected.

Office attaches had believed he was slipping away for "a quiet vacation."

It was learned that soon after leaving his office yesterday he appeared at his home at 919 Car-

Train Kills Former Sewickley Resident

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., June 19.—(AP.)—Robert F. Richey, 60, formerly of Sewickley, Pa., was killed today by a westbound passenger train while walking along the tracks at Midland, Pa., near here.

Richey, formerly a painter, had left Sewickley several years ago. He also had lived in Coraopolis and Wheeling. He is said to have no near relatives.

School Boy Strucks By Baseball Dies

WEST CHESTER, Pa., June 19.—(INS.)—Howard J. Collins, 18-year-old Chadds Ford High School graduate, died in Homeopathic Hospital here today. He was struck in the left temple by a baseball last Tuesday when attempting to run from first to second base during a game between Chadds Ford and Trainor high schools.

Fixing of Tags May Bring Absolute Parking Ban

Recommendations for the absolute elimination of automobile parking in the triangle section of the city are under consideration today before the Better Traffic Committee following surveys which show that as a result of political "fixing" the police enforcement of the parking evil has practically collapsed.

It is asserted that owners of approximately 46 per cent of the cars tagged by the traffic officers escape the penalty imposed by the city ordinance regulating parking. The majority of these tags, according to information reaching the committee, have never reached the city treasurer.

It is declared to be common knowledge that a large percentage of the missing tags have been "fixed."

The Bureau of Traffic Planning reported that the last check of parking on prohibited streets and on those in limited territory showed an increase of 25.4 per cent in violations.

The Better Traffic Committee today also considered the appointment of a successor to Traffic Engineer Burton W. Marsh, who resigned. The position pays a salary of $7,500 a year.

CONSTABLE ACCUSED OF AIDING FUGITIVE TO ESCAPE

Schneider Blames Political Foes; Denies Knowing Man Arrested in Holdup

Information charging John Schneider, of 1632 Tustin street, First Ward constable, with being an accessory after the fact in the escape of a fugitive, in numerous holdups and in the felonious shooting of Patrolman Florence Bruner, was to be filed before Alderman Leo Rothenberg late today by City Detectives Walter Monaghan and Tom Morgan.

Schneider was detained after police accused him of aiding Harry Andreini, accused of holding up John B. Stauff, messenger for the South Hill Trust Company, and robbing him of $2,300. Stauff died from shock following the holdup.

This information against Schneider was decided on after a conference between District Attorney A. T. Park and the two detectives. Park said that he would demand that Schneider be held in $10,000 bail.

Schneider intimated that the whole procedure so far as he is concerned is an attempt on the part of his political enemies to "frame" him. He said he doesn't even know Andreini.

Several weeks ago, he said, he was standing on the steps of the City-County Building when a man more than 70 years old took a swing at him in an effort to draw him into a fight.

Schneider refused to issue a statement. He said:

"If there are any statements to be made, let Pete Walsh give them."

Walsh recently succeeded Schneider as Republican chairman of the First Ward.

Policeman Fred Smith, of East street, this morning, detectives say, admitted that he had been influenced by Schneider to release Andreini several months ago when Andreini was a fugitive from justice. Smith did not know the man was a fugitive.

An alleged attempt was made by Andreini to escape from his cell in Central Police Station last night, police say.

RUSE SCENTED

Andreini, after being returned to his cell from the detective bureau, removed his trousers and hid them. He called Wagonman William Pottmyer to his door and demanded his trousers. Pottmyer called detectives, and they found Andreini's trousers, cut in shreds and hidden in his cell. The police say they believe the prisoner hoped to lure the one policeman into his cell and, by a surprise move, obtain his gun and attempt to shoot his way to freedom.

Schneider was named, detectives say, by Andreini during a grilling late yesterday.

Last September while driving he was stopped by Patrolman Smith in East street, North Side. The officer demanded his driver's and owner's cards, and when he failed to prove ownership of the machine in which he was riding Smith started to take him to the police station.

RELEASED

Andreini, according to his own story, detectives say, suggested that Constable Schneider be called to vouch for him. The two then called upon Schneider, Andreini told detectives, they say.

Schneider suggested that Andreini be released, detectives say. He is alleged to have stressed to the officer the importance of Andreini's brother as a politician in the upper Fifth avenue district. Patrolman Smith finally released Andreini, after being convinced the man was all right, detectives say.

Andreini was arrested Monday morning an hour after two bandits held up and robbed Stauff on Grandview avenue.

They fled with $2,237, and after kidnaping a motorist, Andreini escaped to McKees Rocks, where he was later arrested.

The shock of the holdup is blamed for the death of Stauff, the messenger, Tuesday night in the Passavant Hospital. Detectives yesterday took into custody Harry Manning, 27, of 1104 Vickroy street, as Andreini's accomplice.

Detectives Monaghan and Morgan say Andreni has admitted numerous robberies. They say that he participated in the robbery of Regis Carr in Carr's home in Robinson street, North Side, last August, and that he is the man who shot Detective Florence Bruner when Bruner trailed him to Magee street.

CORPUS CHRISTI CELEBRATED

By E. W. PRENDERGAST,
Staff Correspondent.

LATROBE, Pa., June 19.—The green hillside surrounding St. Vincent Archabbey today took on the gala colors of religious pageantry as hundreds of priests, brothers, children and parishioners observed the Feast of Corpus Christi.

Following a solemn high mass in the Archabbey Church, a procession of more than 200 priests—many of them Pittsburghers—and a host of children passed over flower-strewn paths to the campus. Surging behind were nearly 5,000 visitors and church folk.

On the campus, Bishop Hugh C. Boyle gave the blessing at one altar, then moved to another for the benediction. The feast, generally observed Sunday, was permitted today by a special dispensation from Rome.

Approximately 170 priests from the Pittsburgh district, here on retreat, joined in the celebration. Sixty priests of the Benedictine order also were in line. The mass began at 9 o'clock, with Prior Felix Pellner, O. S. B., as the celebrant; the Rev. P. B. Sivak, O. S. B., deacon, and the Rev. P. Valentine Koehler, O. S. B., subdeacon.

Among them were Prior Felix and Archabbot Alfred Koch. Venerable Fathers Gilbert Kirby and Harold Philips. Revs. P. Sebastian McKay, P. Timothy Sues, P. Ernest Gensheimer and P. Hilary Kalb, all Benedictines.

Nature's Beauties Call for Silence

This is the secret of our intercourse with those persons of whom our friends will say, or think, what can you find to talk about? Talk about? Why, nothing; the enigmatic person remains, with us as with all the rest of the world, silent, inarticulate, incapable, sometimes, of any nice making of formula.

But we know that our companion is seeing, feeling, the same lines of the hills and washes of colors; the same scudding or feathering out of clouds; is living, in the completest sense, in that particular scene and hour; and knowing this, it matters nothing how long we trudge along the road or saunter across the grass without talking.—Violet Paget, in "Hortus Vita."

son street and packed a suitcase. He did the packing himself instead of trusting it to his daughter, as had been his custom on other occasions.

LEAVE IN BRIDE'S AUTO

The commissioner first met Mrs. Wilson at the silver wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Bowden, August 4, 1929, in Rutledge Hall, South Negley avenue.

Friends of Mrs. Wilson claim that "it was a case of love at first sight."

Mrs. Bowden said:

"Mrs. Wilson was a friend of mine and of County Commissioner Armstrong, a friend of my husband. They both came to the party, where they became acquainted."

Mrs. Wilson is described by her acquaintances as a charming woman. She drives her own automobile.

Until a month ago she worked in the office of the Continental Coal company in the Westinghouse building. Her former husband was Claude Roland Wilson. The couple had no children.

The Commissioner's daughter, Miss Dorothy Armstrong, dismissed questions about his absence from the city with this terse comment:

"I don't expect him back for a couple of weeks."

Bars Lift For Child Locked Out as Alien

CHICAGO, June 19.—(AP.)—The baby the law locked out can come to America now, for its mother finally has become an American.

Nine years ago Fred Spears, then in the Navy, found a young woman wounded in Vladivostok, where his ship was anchored. He carried her to a hospital, and later married her.

In the Philippines Spears was joined by his wife. Later, the baby was left in China. It could not enter America because it was neither American-born nor of American parentage.

Another Britisher Plans Hop to U. S.

LONDON, June 19.—(AP.)—The Daily Mirror today said C. S. Wynne-Eyton, former squadron leader in the royal air force, secretly was hastening plans for a trans-Atlantic flight from Ireland to the United States and hoped to start before Capt. Charles Kingsford-Smith.

FAZIO MAY FACE TAX CHARGES

Philip Fazio, Clairton beer baron, will face charges of defrauding the government by evasion of income tax and conspiracy to violate the prohibition laws, if he sticks to his story of having paid $350,000 for "protection" in Allegheny county during his seven-year career as a bootlegger.

In the prosecution of evasion of income tax, where a profit is proved and a return has not been made, the government can assess the tax, plus 6 per cent simple interest over the period of profit, or the seven years Fazio was in business, plus a penalty for evasion and a jail sentence at the discretion of the court.

Also prohibition department officials can bring charges of conspiracy against Fazio, along with those he paid money for permission and protection to operate. Fazio still is sought by county detectives, the search being directed by District Attorney Andrew T. Park, who wishes to question Fazio regarding his story.

CHICAGO MAYOR BACKS CLEANUP

CHICAGO, June 19.—(AP.)—Mayor William Hale Thompson, emerging from a long silence today, pledged the full co-operation of his administration today in the campaign to evict gangsters from Chicago.

The Mayor issued his first public statement on the crime situation at the moment a council committee launched an investigation of the conduct of the police department under Commissioner William F. Russell, who retired under fire Monday.

Police Commissioner John Alcock, his successor, today named Lieut. John W. Norton chief of detectives to succeed John Stege, and appointed Capt. John Ryan assistant chief of detectives in place of John Egan.

MORROW PLANS EARLY RETURN TO MEXICO

Will Wind Up His Affairs At Embassy, Then Plunge Into Jersey Senate Battle

WASHINGTON, June 19.—Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow, Republican nominee for Senator in New Jersey, expects to leave soon for Mexico in a new role—that of a grandfather.

Word reaching here today was to the effect that the "blessed event" of Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh was expected almost any day now at the Morrow home in Englewood, N. J.

Secretary of State Stimson announced that the ambassador would confer with him early next week, preparatory to returning to Mexico.

WILL WINDUP AFFAIRS

While in Mexico, Morrow will windup his affairs at the embassy in view of his impending resignation to take up the senatorial campaign in New Jersey. Stimson said there were no indications yet when the ambassador would resign.

No political event since the 1928 election has so aroused and interested the politicians of the Capital as the victory of Morrow in the New Jersey primary by the astonishing plurality of 300,000 votes.

Morrow ran as an anti-prohibitionist. Other than his own outstanding personality and record of achievement, he presented no issue save that of repealing the Eighteenth Amendment. And he defeated one of President Hoover's closest friends, Franklin W. Fort, who made the issue clearcut by standing as a bone-dry.

MANY EXPLANATIONS

There are almost as many explanations and interpretations in Washington of Morrow's tremendous victory as there were votes for his dry opponent.

The anti-drys, of course, hail the banker-diplomat as a new Moses, the new and better type of anti-prohibitionist who will furnish the leadership for their movement in the future. Their jubiliation is almost boundless.

The drys, divided and admittedly somewhat downcast over the magnitude of Fort's defeat, seek to minimize the result with the explanation Jersey always was moist anyway.

Even President Hoover was moved to the unusual action of a public statement, which, in view of all the circumstances, was both interesting and significant.

DONE FOR NO ONE ELSE

In none of the other primaries has Mr. Hoover felt called upon to issue any pledge of support to the victor. Even when a member of his cabinet, James J. Davis, was nominated in Pennsylvania, the White House was silent.

It is undeniable that already there is a considerable movement under way to promote the presidential possibilities of Ambassador Morrow. This has its roots principally in (X) groups—the anti-prohibitionists and the so-called "big business" interests, which never were more than lukewarm in their support of Mr. Hoover. And, since the business depression, they have been scanning the political horizon with appraising eyes. Only the future can tell the result of this movement.

Dry Padlocks Sought On 2 Places Here

Preliminary liquor padlock injunctions were granted by Judge F. P. Schoonmaker in Federal Court today against two places, pending final hearings September 9. One is a club and bar, second floor, 3800 Fifth avenue, James J. Mullen, alleged proprietor, and the other is a two-story frame building with a bar in the basement, Oak Hill, Andrew Rahaw, alleged proprietor. Purchases of liquor in both places were alleged in affidavits filed by dry agents.

Truck Driver Hurt In Crash With Car

Harry Woods, 32, of 74 Van Bramm street, is in St. Joseph's Hospital following a collision today of a milk truck and a street car at Brady and Sidney streets.

He was driving the truck east on Sidney street as the car came south on Brady. Woods was cut and bruised.

HEARING ENDED ON LAKE CARGO RATE CASE

Adjournment Taken to Fall After Pittsburghers Win Tilt Before Commission

WASHINGTON, June 19.—(AP.)—Cross-examination of J. D. A. Morrow, president of the Pittsburgh Coal Company, today concluded the taking of testimony by complainants in the lake cargo rate case before the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Adjournment was ordered until October 4, when the defendants will present their case.

At the fall meeting in Chicago, the respondents, comprising southern coal operators and railroads participating in the lake cargo market, will present witnesses to answer allegations heard this week from operators in Eastern Ohio and Western Pennsylvania.

Witness yesterday were Mr. Morrow and A. B. Ackerman, rate and transportation expert, of Chicago, who submitted an exhaustive study of costs involved in the haul of coal from both southern and northern mines to Lake Erie ports for trans-shipment to Lake Superior ports.

TALKS TO EMPLOYES

Under limited cross-examination, Ackerman disclosed he had conversed with trainmasters, yardmasters, dispatchers, telegraph operators, roundhouse foremen, weighmasters, road and track foremen, bill clerks and section hands in his quest for minute information on the amount of coal and water consumed, depreciation of cars, lubrication and stress of locomotives on the Baltimore and Ohio, the Ohio Central Lines of the New York Central, the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie, Erie, Monongahela Connecting and Pennsylvania railroads.

Although the Baltimore and Ohio, New York Central and Pennsylvania railroads objected to admission of Ackerman's testimony on the ground it was not obtained from accredited officials, Examiner Bardwell, however, admitted the testimony. He observed the information submitted by Ackerman "was easily obtainable by the railroads, which can correct any irregularity or discrepancy."

Bardwell ruled Ackerman need not disclose the names of his informants.

Ackerman declared his survey held convinced him that the present rates on Northern and Southern coal are disproportionate and "unduly prejudicial."

PRODUCTION AIRED

When Morrow took the stand, the testimony veered from transportation problems to production conditions. He described the quality of coal produced in the general Pittsburgh area and in such sub-districts as the Butler-Mercer, Freeport, Connellsville, Irwin, Greensburg and Connellsville veins. The general quality of the coal, he said, was of the low volatile type, used principally in the production of coke and by-products, and was in demand for commercial purposes rather than for domestic uses.

The witnesses described loss of business in the lake market, and said he and Pittsburgh competitors were retaining a foothold in that market at a loss. The outlet for Pittsburgh coal is narrowing in every direction, he declared.

Marchand Slayer Loses Court Fight

BUFFALO, June 19.—(AP.)—Lila Jimerson, Cayuga Indian woman, must stand trial a second time for the murder of Mrs. Clotilde Marchand, wife of the artist, Henri Marchand, or abide by her plea of guilty to second degree murder charge, Supreme Court Justice Harris ruled today. Her first trial, on a first degree murder charge, was terminated when she collapsed and was removed to a hospital. While there she pleaded to the reduced charge.

Upon her discharge from the hospital her attorneys contended the trial judge exceeded his authority.

Acres of Flowers Seen in Holland

AMSTERDAM.—No traveler will ever forget his first sight of the acres and acres of myriad colored flowers in bloom in Holland. The spectacle is breathtaking and every season of the year sees the land in some new beauty. In the spring the bulb fields near Haarlem hold carnival from February, when the crocus blooms until August and then the late gladioli are in flower.

The vision of a square mile of tulips in full bloom, in every hue of the rainbow, is worth a visit to Holland from any distance.

Five Officers Face Liquor Sentences

BARTLESVILLE, Okla., June 19.—(AP.)—Five Ottawa County officers faced sentence today in Federal District Court for conspiracy to violate the national prohibition law.

They are Guy D. Orr and Ed Anderson, justices of the peace; Pete Vaughn, Cardin, Okla., chief of police; Jim Hendricks, former Cardin constable, and Earl Thompson, Cardin constable.

3 Free in Cemetery Row Involving Braddock Man

BARNESVILLE, O., June 19.—Three local men hired by Charles Persons, of Braddock, Pa., to remove from his lot in a local cemetery a unique monument erected by his brother-in-law, L. F. Froehlich, in memory of Mrs. Froehlich, were released for lack of evidence when their case was called in a justice court. A warrant against Persons has never been served.

Froehlich used pieces of rock and other minerals of varied hues collected during six years of travel in every state in the Union to make the stone, which he valued at more than $1,000. Persons objected to his sister's grave being marked by such a stone and had it removed.

is even greater. You are one of the finest human beings alive in the world today. Welcome home forever."

Byrd replied:

"I stand here as a spokesman for 70 odd men. I wish to give to you our sincere gratitude for this greeting. I know of no other man who could make me feel so graciously welcome as Mayor Walker."

Chancellor Elmer Ellsworth Brown, of New York University, then conferred on Admiral Byrd the honorary degree of doctor of engineering. When he addresesd him as "Dr. Byrd" the crowd roared.

The ceremonies over, the admiral was escorted back to his automobile and left for the New York Advertising Club on Park avenue for a welcome home luncheon.

SENDS GREETINGS

Admiral Byrd broadcast his greetings to the city from the recently installed radio telephone aboard the Macom. He said:

"It's good to get back again. It's good to have this reception. It's good to have Grover Whalen greet me here a third time. This is a good chance to express my appreciation for the send-off New York gave me."

Mrs. Byrd was waiting at Pier A and greeted her husband there. They had time for only a word and then were parted, the admiral entering one car and Mrs. Byrd another.

As the open car carrying Admiral Byrd swung around Bowling Green Park into Broadway, the ticker tape, which had been floating down in small streamers for several minutes, came down in a regular paper snowstorm.

Police, arms locked together, made a living wall barely wide enough for the cars to creep through.

Like a great wave rolling in from the sea, a continuous roar of cheering swept through the massed thousands in the street as the admiral's car rolled up the "glory trail" to City Hall.

Awaiting the admiral at City Hall were three who really had a personal interest in the proceedings. They were Richard E. Byrd, Jr., and the admiral's two little daughters, Evelyn and Katherine. They were fairly dancing with excitement.

RICHMOND PROGRAM

RICHMOND, Va., June 19.—(INS.)—Arrangements have been completed for the reception of Read Admiral Richard Evelyn Byrd here Saturday when the noted polar explorer returns to his home state.

Governor Fisher Congratulates Byrd

HARRISBURG, June 19.—(AP.)—Telegrams greeting Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd and Paul A. Siple, Erie boy accompanying the Byrd expedition, on their return to the United States, were dispatched to New York today by Gov. Fisher.

Tourists in Holland Can Get Tulips Free

AMSTERDAM—The miles and miles of tulip fields in Holland are a rare sight in spring. But the Dutch grower is no sentimentalist; the bulb fields would soon disappear, an unprofitable industry, if he did not send his workers out, day by day, to cut off the full blooms and thereby strengthen the bulbs for future flowering.

The tourist is welcome to as many flowers as he can carry away from the "refuse pile" beside every patch.

GULF BUYS REFINERY SITE

Plant on Neville Island To Rival World's Largest; Begin Expansion Program

The Union Gulf Corporation has purchased 120 acres of land on Neville Island and plans to start construction work on one of the largest refineries in the country within 10 days.

The refinery will be the eastern terminal of the pipe line to be built from Tulsa, Okla., to this city. Its construction will mark the first step in a major expansion program being started by Union Gulf to increase its sales in this territory by making oil production in new Western fields directly available.

Union Gulf is a newly-formed subsidiary of the Gulf Oil Corporation. It was financed on Monday by the offering of $60,000,000 in bonds through the Union Trust Company.

The land was purchased from the Davison Coke and Iron Company. It extends across the island and is directly west of the Davison plant on the eastern end.

While officials of Union Gulf admitted the purchase of the refinery site they would not make public the extent of their plans for the new production unit. It has been learned, however, that the refinery will cover practically the entire 120 acres and the cost will total millions of dollars.

representing nearly 30 per cent of the total of 338 votes cast in the three boroughs at the recent primary election. The poll total represents 69 men and 24 women voters.

The ratio of more than five votes for repeal to each vote for enforcement is maintained in the latest tabulation of ballots from Allegheny County, arrgegating 47,802 and divided as follows:

	Men	Women	Total
Enforcement	3,972	3,338	7,310
Modification	2,268	1,363	3,631
Repeal	25,026	11,835	36,861

All cities, boroughs and townships of the county have now been embraced in the poll, with the exception of 12 boroughs awaiting distribution of ballots. Sharpsburg, Springdale and Swissvale are the latest boroughs to be included in the canvass.

JOYCE GONE, POLICE FIND

Anthony (Spongy) Joyce, police character who lay near death in Presbyterian Hospital from gunshot wounds, has disappeared, police learned today. According to hospital authorities he was pronounced fit by physicians, paid his bill and left the hospital June 14. Inspector Charles Faulkner ordered his arrest, for his part in the shooting at the home of his brother-in-law, Robert D. Hartman, 527 Jacksonia street, May 27, in which Joyce was wounded. Hartman is at liberty on bail charged with wounding Joyce.

Marseilles Fair Plans Under Way

MARSEILLES.—(INS.)—This city is beginning its preparations for the Sixth International fair, which will be held here from September 13 to 28. The character of this exposition is particularly Mediterranean and French colonial, with a large number of exhibits from Algiers.

The committee of organization declares that the number of entries is already mounting to more than those of previous years. Last year over 600,000 entries were exhibited.

Early Broadcasters Arise at 5 O'Clock

NEW YORK.—(AP.)—Radio gets the three Landt brothers and Howard White out of bed at 5 a. m. daily. The four must crawl out that early for their daily program. Their schedule calls for arrival at the NBC studios at 6:45 so that they will have an hour to rehearse before their Morning Showers program is broadcast.

Gatti-Casazza and Bride, Ballet Dancer, Sail

NEW YORK, June 19.—(AP.)—Giulio Gatti-Casazza, general manager of the Metropolitan Opera Company, and his bride, Mme. Rosina Galli, danseuse and ballet mistress of the opera company, were on a honeymoon aboard the liner Vulcania today, bound for Cannes, France.

The couple, who met 25 years ago, when Gatti-Casazza was director of La Scala in Milan and Mme. Galli was a dancing student there, were married yesterday by Msgr. John A. Duffy at St. Joseph's Catholic Church, Jersey City.

Friends of Gatti-Casazza and his bride nor members of the Metropolitan company knew of the marriage until bride and bridegroom were aboard the liner.

He is 63 years old and Mme. Galli is 34. Two years ago his marriage to Mme. Frances Alda, opera singer, was dissolved by a divorce in Nogales, Mexico.

With Gatti-Casazza came to the Metropolitan in 1908 from La Scala. Mme. Galli was dancing with the Chicago Opera Company. Later she joined the Metropolitan.

Members of the Metropolitan said that (illegible) the couple return in October, Mme. Gatti-Casazza will continue as ballet mistress and as director of the ballet school, but will not dance on the stage again.

'Diamond Queen' Stripped Of Gems to Pay Bill

PARIS, June 19.—(INS.)—Miss Mabel Boll, of New York, the so-called "Diamond Queen," who made a non-stop flight from New York to Havana with Charles A. Levine, lost her "title" today when police here seized her jewels for alleged non-payment of a dressmaker's bill.

The seizure was made in a fashionable hotel off the Champs Elysees, where Miss Boll is staying.

According to the police, Miss Boll was awakened in her hotel room yesterday morning by a detachment of gendarmes empowered to collect the amount of the bill, said to be $3,000 or else seize her jewels.

With the gendarmes came a locksmith, armed with his tools and prepared for work. Unless she turned over her jewels voluntarily, Miss Boll was warned her safe would be opened and her world-famed diamonds taken by force, the police said.

Confronted with this threat, it was said, Miss Boll handed over the valuables which gained her international renown when she made several attempts to embark upon a trans-Atlantic flight with Levine after the later had flown as a passenger on Clarence Chamberlin's successful hop from New York to Cottbus, Germany, in 1928.

Soon after the seizure, Miss Boll began negotiations with her dressmaker for settlement of the the bill. It is understood her jewels will be returned tonight.

Tilt Over 'Miss America' Involves Two Continents

MIAMI, Fla., June 19.—(AP.)—An argument over the eligibility of winners of a Miami beauty contest spread across two continents today.

G. A. Trice, president of the pageant held here during the winter, said Miami officials had decided to disqualify the first and second place winners and designate Miss Margaret Ekdahl of Tampa, Fla., who won third prize, as the "Miss America" entrant in a forthcoming international beauty fete at Rio De Janiero.

But whether the power to select a substitute entrant for the South American pageant still lies with Miami officials and what the attitude of the sponsors of the South American show would be was not known.

Charges brought by R. B. Brossier, Orlando, Fla., publisher, alleged Miss Janet Eastment, Fort Worth, Tex., who originally was declared "Miss America," and Miss Alberta McKellop, second prize winner here, were ineligible. Officials said they had received no reply after demanding of Miss Eastment that she disprove the charges or return a loving cup and $2,500 first prize money.

'VISITING TEXAS TO REST,' SAYS CLARA BOW

'It' Girl of Movies Denies Settlement of Balm Suit, Bares Hollywood Romance

DALLAS, Tex., June 19.—(AP.)—Denying friendship for a Dallas professional man had brought her here, Clara Bow, the "It" girl of the movies, today told Associated Press staff men that tales of southern hospitality had lured her to Texas.

Desiring a rest between pictures, Miss Bow said she had sought a quiet place where she could get away from Hollywood. She declared:

"I'm tired of it all. We had so many friends here who had begged us to try southern hospitality, we decided on a moment's notice to come to Dallas and many of our closest friends didn't know it."

DENIES BALM SETTLEMENT

Referring to the published reports she had made a $30,000 settlement of a threatened $150,000 alienation of affections suit brought by a Dallas woman, wife of the professional man figuring in the story, Miss Bow said:

"I didn't even have the money to pay such a thing. My money is tied up in a bonus trust fund which the studio inaugurated, and it can't be touched by anybody."

After reference to a Hollywood man she is "thinking of marrying," she continued:

"This terrible thing had to come along and might 'blow up' my romance in California.

"We had planned to stay until the 29th, but if they keep bothering me, we may leave in two or three days. The studio wired me last night to leave at once, but that is impossible."

NEW SUITOR RUMORED

HOLLYWOOD, June 18.—(INS.)—With the revelation that Clara Bow, famous red-haired "It" girl of the movies, had settled a reputed alienation of affections action for $30,000 in Dallas, Tex., Hollywood learned today that another suitor has supplanted Harry Richman, New York cabaret youth she was to marry.

The new suitor is Rex Bell, who played opposite Miss Bow in a recent motion picture. Bell's real name is George F. Beldam. He was born in Chicago, October 16, 1905.

Bell's only comment here today was:

"I refer everything to the lady."

KING TO RULE NATION ON U. S. LINES

Occupies Real 'Workshop' as Office; Plans Era of Brisk Efficiency for Country

By FREDERIC K. ABBOTT.
Copyright, 1930, International News Service.

BUCHAREST, June 19.—King Carol II, of Rumania, Europe's newest and most colorful monarch, wants to run his country the way an American industrial magnate does his business. He declares:

"Already I have a Carnegie Tech (Pittsburgh) man on my efficiency staff, as well as several agricultural engineers from American universities."

(The Carnegie Tech man referred to is Dimitri Demetrius Dimancescu, who was graduated with the degree of Bachelor of Science in 1922.)

In an exclusive interview with International News Service today, the King outlined in detail his aims and ideals. Sitting behind a huge desk, Carol revealed his desire to put kingship and politics on a purely business basis.

FIRST REAL INTERVIEW

It was the first interview Carol had granted to an individual correspondent since his dramatic flight from exile in France and seizure of the throne from his son, Crown Prince Michael.

King Carol received the correspondent in a tiny room on the second floor of the royal palace.

His first words were almost apologetic. He said, signifying the tiny room with a sweep of his arm:

"This is my office."

He went on:

"My conception of a king's job is to sit down at a table with politicians and thrash out difficulties, to cut red tape and to act as arbitrator in clearing up a situation.

HAS HORROR OF RED TAPE

"I have a horror of red tape. You in America have made efficiency your watchword. I want the same word to be the slogan of Rumania.

"Since my return, I have spent more than 15 hours daily at this desk, trying to find out how best to economize in time, money and effort.

"That is the way the American business man works and my ambition is to run Rumania as he runs his business. I am convinced many of your customs, methods and habits would greatly benefit Rumania.

Carol said he wanted as many Rumanians as possible to go to America, for education and broadening. He recalled:

"I visited the United States in 1921 and, at the time, investigated several colleges and universities. I found them excellent."

WOULD LIKE TO VISIT U. S.

At the conclusion of the interview, King Carol was asked if it might be hoped he would soon visit America.

He rose from his chair and offered his hand, saying:

"Nothing would give me more pleasure. I promise to find the first available opportunity to do so. But, as you say in America: 'I've got a big job on my hands right now.'"

GANDHI SPURNS PEACE OFFER

BOMBAY, June 19.—(INS.)—The Nationalist civil disobedience campaign gained a new spurt of vigor today with the government intensifying its fight against nonpayment of land taxes and the failure of peace negotiations with Mahatma Gandhi, Nationalist leader now in jail.

The negotiations, aimed at bringing about a truce in the Indian situation until after the round table conference in London next fall, were understood to have been instigated by Prime Minister Ramsey MacDonald. Sir Prabhasanker Pattani discussed the truce with Gandhi in the cell at Yerrawada Jail, near Poona, where Gandhi is held by government authorities.

When the government refused to Gandhi's demand that three points of the 14 original peace conditions framed by the Nationalist leader be considered immediately Gandhi, it was reliably reported, called off the discussions.

REED TO ACT ON POSTMASTER

WASHINGTON, June 19.—Action on the vacancy in the Pittsburgh postoffice looking to the appointment of a successor to Postmaster George W. Gosser will not be taken before the first of next week, Senator David A. Reed announced here today.

Senator Reed said he expected to make a trip to Pittsburgh for a conference with local leaders before making a recommendation to the postmaster general and the President. He hopes to go to Pittsburgh either Monday or Tuesday.

Will Hays Elected Head of Film Group

PARIS, June 19.—(AP.)—Will Hays, American motion picture industry dictator, today was elected chairman of the joint committee of film magnates and producers here to study international trade matters. The committee will meet this evening to discuss foreign offers relating to patented sound devices.

Blast Kills Children; Man Escapes Unhurt

HUNTSVILLE, Tex., June 19.—(AP.)—Three of his children were killed in a field near their home yesterday by a dynamite explosion which tore the clothing from James Cadenski without injuring him.

The Cadenskis walked unexpectingly to the spot where the dynamite charge was exploded.

Florida River Towns Cut Off by Floods

FORT MYERS, Fla., June 19.—(AP.)—La Belle, a village 35 miles from here, virtually was marooned today as a result of flood waters from Caloosahatchee River, which has risen several feet in the past week, due to heavy rains.

Boats were necessary to reach the town. Alva, situated between La Belle and Fort Myers, also reported high water and the main streets of La Belle were inundated to the depth of from one to two feet.

Gang Suspect Gets Term, Names Lingle

CHICAGO, June 19.—(INS.)—Anthony "Red" Kissane, said by police to be a gangster, today faces a possible sentence of one year in jail and a $200 fine, following his conviction on a charge of carrying concealed weapons.

Kissane, it was testified, told police he carried a revolver because he was "working" for Alfred J. Lingle Chicago Tribune reporter, slain 10 days ago by a gangster.

DAYTON PLANS GUILTY PLEA

WASHINGTON, June 19.—(AP.)—Expected to be placed on trial next week, Dexter Churchill Dayton, 26-year-old confessed strangler of Marjorie O'Donnell, former Pittsburgh newspaperwoman, may plead guilty to a second degree murder charge, it was indicated today.

Counsel for Dayton discussed with District Attorney Rover the reported willingness of his client to plead guilty to second degree murder, and risk being sentenced to life imprisonment, rather than face a jury on a first degree murder charge.

Blase Chicagoans Leave Bomb in Alley

CHICAGO, June 19.—(AP.)—Two days ago a garbage collector found eight sticks of dynamite leaning against the alley door of the Broadway Garage. The fuse had burned within an inch of the dynamite. The garbage collector picked it up and deposited it gingerly in an ash can. Early today persons living in the neighborhood notified police that the dynamite was still in the can. Police removed it. There was enough, they said, to have wrecked the neighborhood.

Train Sets Record For Theater Date

NEW YORK, June 19.—(AP.)—A record has been smashed so that Enrique Olaya, president-elect of Colombia, could get to the theater on time. The Pennsylvania Railroad cut its fastest time between Washington and New York to 3 hours and 56 minutes, a reduction of four minutes.

$27. Buys Historic Bar, 2 Bottles, 2 Glasses

NEW YORK, June 19.—(AP.)—The bar of the historic Belmont, Park avenue and Forty-second street, with a gin bottle, a seltzer bottle and two drinking glasses added, sold for $27 at public auction.

The buyer was Irving Finn, of the Bronx.

The first bid on the bar was $2, and not until the auctioneer put the bottles and the two glasses on top was the next and final bid made.

The hotel will be razed.

LAKE TRAGEDY QUIZ FUTILE

CLEVELAND, O., June 19.—(AP.)—Coast Guard boats and a National Guard airplane failed to find trace of the bodies of three young men or the boat in which they were reported to have gone to their death early Saturday, as Safety Director Edwin D. Barry conducted a futile inquiry to determine how or if they really died.

It was announced that the search will be renewed today. In closing his investigation, Barry blamed the sinking of the craft on "too much of a party and an unsafe boat." William H. Brown, of Dormont, Pa., father of William Brown, one of the missing youths, left for home, declaring he would return if the bodies, when found, should show any signs of violence or if any other developments should arise.

Olive France, 24, who repeated at the investigation her story that she was the lone survivor of an early morning boat-ride, said two of the men argued while floundering in the lake after the boat overturned.

3D KILLING OFF, MANIAC SORRY

onerated J. Moisset, a friend of Miss May, who was brought from Chicago by authorities for questioning.

The madman added a postscript in which he denied a story that he is a maniac inspired by some secret love code against violators of his belief.

He insisted he did not kill anyone he did not know.

The letter was sent to the New York Evening Journal and was declared by handwriting experts to be the same handwriting as other letters sent by the maniac.

A previous missive, purporting to come from the madman in which he said he had killed a man on the Boston Post road last night, was termed counterfeit after examination by handwriting experts.

MARKS ? FOR DEATH

In the murder apology missive from the maniac, he listed the newly-marked persons for death in code, as follows: X 14, X 21, Y 2, O 6, X 7, 8 1, V 4.

The only way they may continue to live is to follow the directions in this code message:

N. J.—C. C. K.—2—23—A. V. H.—3X—R. G.—4 MLT—RP 49—6.

The New York police department, which threw its full man power into an all night and futile search for the gun-prowler, today took the messages in the madman's letters seriously.

Code experts in Washington and Chicago, who have worked on war enemy code messages, have been hired to decipher the jargon if possible.

Auto Crash Kills Veteran Detective

SAN FRANCISCO, June 19.—(INS.)—Police here today are mourning the loss of Capt. Eugene Wall, killed in an automobile accident near Santa Cruz.

On the force 39 years and captain of detectives from 1910 to 1913, he had solved many murder mysteries.

French Army Plane Blown Into Italy

NICE, France, June 19.—(AP.)—A French military amphibian plane, participating in maneuvers near here, driven by a high wind, fell into the water near the beach at Vintimille, the first Italian town across the border, killing the pilot and observer and injuring a mechanic and a radio operator.

DENIES CANNON GOT IMMUNITY

WASHINGTON, June 19.—(INS.)—Filing the Senate Lobby committee's report absolving Bishop James Cannon, Jr., from answering questions concerning his political activities in the 1928 presidential campaign, Senator Caraway, (Dem.), of Arkansas, its chairman, heatedly denied this afternoon that the churchman had been given immunity.

He insisted that the rule which protected the bishop from interrogation on his stock market transactions and his handling of a $48,300 fund, received from E. C. Jameson, New York capitalist, had been invoked similarly to safeguard the rights of Claudius H. Huston, Republican national chairman; John J. Raskob, Democratic national chairman; Josephus Daniels, former secretary of the navy, and Henry H. Curran, president of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment.

Caraway added that the committee always had ruled that witnesses could not be questioned about political activities, since its powers were limited to investigation of lobbying.

Chicago Endurance Fliers Up 8 Days

CHICAGO, June 19.—(AP.)—Aloft 184 hours at 7:40 a. m., the airplane City of Chicago soared today seeking a new world endurance refueling flight record.

The pilots, Kenneth and John Hunter, dropped a note to Sky Harbor airport officials early today that the engine of their plane showed no effects of the eight days' ordeal.

State Investigates Power, Light Rates

HARRISBURG, June 19.—(INS.)—The Public Service Commission today is conducting an inquiry into the rates, charges and regulations of the Edison Light and Power Company of York; the Abington Electric Company, operating in Lackawanna and Wyoming Counties, and the Renovo Edison Light, Heat and Power Company.

Fighting Smallpox In Arkansas Town

ELDORADO, Ark., June 19.—(AP.)—The district surrounding and including Calion, with a population of 1,000, was ordered quarantined by Union County health authorities as a preventative measure against an outbreak of smallpox there.

New Aide to Carol Worked Way Through Tech Here

Dimitri Demetrius Dimancescu, who is on the efficiency staff of King Carol, of Rumania, was graduated with a degree of bachelor of science in the department of machinery production at Carnegie Institute of Technology. His classmen of Tech alumni remember he supported himself through four years in the Pittsburgh institution. Previously he had served his country three years on the Eastern front during the World War.

Still suffering from wounds received in the battle of Oituz, where he was shot down, Dimancescu entered Tech in September, 1920.

HAD POST WITH ENVOY

He was an attache of the Rumanian legation at Washington and while in Pittsburgh had a position with the Rumanian consulate.

He was a member of the APX fraternity, the International Forum, the Cosmopolitanic Club, the Radio Club and the Civic Club of Allegheny County. After graduating he returned to Rumania.

TOWNS OFFER U. S. PEN SITES

WASHINGTON, June 19.—Offers of land for the proposed Federal penitentiary to be constructed either in Pennsylvania or Southern New York were pouring into the Department of Justice today in anticipation of the opening of bids on June 23.

Pennsylvania proposals have been received from Mercer, Ellwood City, Kane, Corry, Wyalusing, Beaver, Bear Lake, Union City and Sunbury, Senator David A. Reed revealed. Other bids came from Northumberland County, Ridgway, Elk County and from Meadville and Warren. Properties will be inspected within 30 days after the bids are opened.

The department specifies that the site shall include about 1,000 acres, to cost not more than $100 an acre, must have coal, gas and electricity close by, and water on the property. It shall be on a paved highway and on the railroad.

If you need help with your housecleaning, see the "Situations Wanted" ads in the Classified Section.

Rain Shrinks Skirt Style at Races To Knee-Length

ASCOT, England, June 19.—(AP)—English society women, profiting by their experiences in yesterday's deluge, today attended the Royal Ascot week racing attired in short skirts that barely covered their knees. The heavily accented styles that marked the resumption of the Royal Ascot have been laid away for the time.

The King and Queen with the royal party arrived at the track in motorcars just before the first race.

Many society women alighted from their luxurious motorcars carrying small suitcases with changes of clothing in case of a repetition of yesterday's downpour.

Arliss and Wife Start for England

CHICAGO, June 19.—(INS.)—George Arliss, veteran character actor, was en route to New York today where he will embark for a trip to England.

Accompanied by Mrs. Arliss, not to mention a collection of 24 walking sticks, Arliss stopped off here yesterday upon his arrival from Hollywood.

3 BANKS CLOSE, RUNS FOLLOW

DETROIT, June 19.—(INS.)—Two banks in Hamtramck, a suburb, did not open their doors today. Police were called to disperse the milling crowd of depositors who gathered in front of the institution, clamored for their money. No violence resulted however.

The closed banks are the State Bank of America which, at the last report, had $1,311,760 in deposits, and the Merchants and Mechanics Bank, a private institution.

Ungrounded fears led excited depositors to storm two other banks. Police also were called to disperse them.

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., June 19.—(AP)—The Bankers Trust Company here failed to open for business today.

Spanish King Goes For London Visit

MADRID, June 19.—(AP)—Premier Berenguer announced King Alfonso would depart tonight for a visit to London. His majesty will return to Madrid within 15 days.

Motorist Spanks Woman Driver After Crash

HANFORD, Cal., June 19.—(AP)—Exasperated by a woman driver, John Sorder, 44, forced her to the curb, yanked her from the car, turned her over his knee, and spanked her.

At least that is the story of Mrs. Merle Fitting, who had Sorder arrested. She said she and a woman companion were motoring when the car collided with Sorder's. She continued on her way after the accident but was overtaken.

The court will decide whether the alleged spanking was justified.

Flathead Power Project Reopened

WASHINGTON, June 19.—(AP)—A petition for rehearing of the Flathead River power case was filed with the Federal Power Commission by Walter H. Wheeler, of Minneapolis, unsuccessful applicant for a preliminary permit to develop the Montana site.

Wheeler's petition set forth he was ready to make still more attractive terms, involving the development of five power sites. Wheeler maintained he should be given an opportunity to have this proposal heard.

WIFE ABSOLVES HARRY FRICK

Harry Frick, 21, of 15 Augustine street, whose automobile struck and injured his wife, Geraldine, Monday night, has been absolved of blame by his wife and was discharged today by Magistrate William J. Soost in Traffic Court on a hit and run charge. Mrs. Frick's bruised leg had recovered sufficiently to enable her to leave the hospital last night. She now is at her home, 356 Flowers avenue.

Mrs. Frick today explained that as her husband is out of work they are living with their respective parents for a time. She met him Monday night. After she stepped off the curb, the car skidded and she was not able to avoid being hit.

Her husband dashed into a house to telephone for a doctor and just then the other man in the case, for several years a friend of the Fricks, came along and remained to be of what service he could, the wife said. The ambulance came for Mrs. Frick before Frick had returned.

2 IN BOAT SAVED BY EX-KAISER

AMSTERDAM, June 19.—(INS.)—Ex-Kaiser Wilhelm II stood revealed in a heroic light today.

While enjoying a motorboat cruise on Kager Lake, near Leyden, an accompanying craft caught fire after an engine explosion and the occupants, a man and woman, were seriously injured.

The former kaiser rushed to the burning boat and rescued the occupants.

The man and women rescued by the ex-kaiser later were identified as Count Doehnoff and the Countess Lehndorf, both well known in Central European society.

Congressmen to Ask Russian Coal Report

WASHINGTON, June 19.—(AP)—The House Ways and Means Committee intends to ask the State, Treasury, Commerce and Labor departments and the Tariff Commission for a December report to Congress concerning Russian coal.

Chairman Hawley announced this decision today, saying the committee had postponed action until next session on the Brumm bill which would prohibit importation of anthracite mined by convict or conscripted labor. Action on the bill will await the departmental reports.

Pittsburgher Named Director by Dyers

ERIE, Pa., June 19.—(AP)—Henry Washers, Jr., of York, was elected president of the first Pennsylvania convention of cleaners and dyers. Other officers chosen were:

M. M. Fath, Lebanon, vice president; James Coughenour, Connellsville, secretary; Albert Gerban, Harrisburg, treasurer, and S. S. Raymond, Oil City, Bert Van Tessell, Erie, C. H. Werner, Pittsburgh, and I. E. Humphrey, Meadville, directors.

Councilman Struck By Bullet, Boy Held

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., June 19.—(AP)—City Councilman Dan R. Schnabel was wounded in the cheek by a stray bullet, and police arrested Horace Stewart, 16, who said he had been shooting at bottles with a small-caliber rifle. Schnabel was riding by in an automobile when the bullet shattered the glass of the car and struck him.

Aimee Speeding To Coast Welcome

CHICAGO, June 19.—(AP)—The cry, "bless you, sister," sounding from 200 throats, sped Aimee Semple McPherson toward home and Angelus Temple, Los Angeles Disciples from her two Chicago churches were at the station to bid her goodbye. She said a tremendous home welcome awaits her.

New York to Return Fire Death Suspect

NEW YORK, June 19.—(AP)—Kierkos Karlos, 30, was ordered extradited in Essex Market Court today to Harrisburg, Pa., where he is wanted for murder. A Pennsylvania warrant charges Karlos burned an unidentified man to death in an auto there September 21, 1928, in a plot to collect life insurance.

Voliva's Smoking Ban in Zion Defied

ZION, Ill., June 19.—(INS.)—Some of the more daring citizens of this city openly puffed on cigarets today in direct violation of the edict of Wilbur Glenn Voliva.

The campaign against smoking began with the arrest of Francis Hurst, 19, under an old law declared unconstitutional by the Supreme Court 16 years ago. Hurst was released on $400 bond.

Boy Falls Victim To 'Unloaded' Rifle

GETTYSBURG, June 19.—(INS.)—An "unloaded" gun today had claimed another victim, with the death of James Allamong, 13, of Iron Springs, 10 miles west of here. James, with two younger brothers and Kathryn Stewart, 9, a neighbor, were playing with a .22-caliber rifle last night when the gun was discharged and the bullet struck the boy in the left temple.

SOUCEK'S BEST HOP NO RECORD

WASHINGTON, June 19.—(AP.)—Lieut. Apollo Soucek, U. S. N., was credited with exceeding his previous seaplane world altitude record in a recent flight but the new mark will not be recognized as an official record.

The National Aeronautic Association said the calibration of the barograph carried aloft by Soucek last Friday registered 39,140 feet, which lacked 76 feet of setting a new mark. The old record was 38,560, but new rules of the Federation Aeronautique Internationale, governing body in sporting aviation, require that the old record must be surpassed by 200 meters, or 656 feet.

Soucek was forced down to a "dead stick" landing on the attempt when an oil feed line burst. Assigned to sea duty on the Pacific Coast, he will be unable to make another attempt to increase his record.

CONVICT GREEN IN BANK CASE

Max Green, of 1036 Lemington avenue, was found guilty today of conspiracy to embezzle and of being accessory to embezzlement of funds of the Western Savings Bank of Pittsburgh.

As soon as the sealed verdict was read, the trial of William J. Carlton, of 2116 Carson street, on the same charges, began before Judge Joseph M. Swearingen. A third man, George A. Coleman, previously pleaded guilty and turned state's evidence against Green yesterday and was to take the stand against Carlton today.

Sentencing of Green and Coleman was postponed to await the outcome of the Carlton trial.

TEACHERS VISIT WESTINGHOUSE

Following the inspection the teachers were served dinner at the plant. The following Westinghouse officials spoke: D. L. Sawhill, D. R. Dohner, H. D. James, A. E. Lofberg and A. M. Dudley.

Ritchie Approved For Fourth Term

BALTIMORE, June 19.—(AP.)—A session of the Democratic State Central Committee was turned, amid pleas for party harmony, into an indorsement of the fourth-term candidacy of Gov. Albert C. Ritchie.

The Governor made the plea for harmony. The party leaders applauded an address by State Senator David G. McIntosh, Jr., for a time himself a candidate for governor, who urged all his adherents to support Ritchie. Mayor William T. Broening, of Baltimore, has announced for the Republican nomination.

Hurt in Collision, Two Ask $50,000

Suit for $50,000 damages has been brought by Margaret Torrence and her husband, William E. Torrence, of Coraopolis, against W. J. Stewart, of the same town, for personal injuries, as a result of a collision between two cars. The accident happened March 5 at Montour street and Fifth avenue, Coraopolis, through the negligence of Stewart, it is alleged. Mrs. Torrence sustained injuries about the head, neck and chest. The plaintiffs are represented by Attorney Herman C. A. Hofacker.

Spanish Air Scandal Centers on Herrera

MADRID, June 19.—(INS.)—A sensation was caused here today when a suit, charging carelessness in checking airplane supplies, was filed against Lieut.-Col. JOHNSON TAKES TREATY FIGHT TO PEOPLE

Scores Naval Pact as Un-American, Dangerous In Nationwide Broadcast

By KENNETH CLARK
Universal Service

WASHINGTON, June 19.—The London Naval Treaty is unfair and unjust to the United States and should be rejected, Senator Hiram W. Johnson (Rep.), of Cal., declared last night, because:

1. It is un American.

2. It imperils American seaborne commerce.

3. It endangers national security.

4. It basely surrenders America's traditional naval defense policies.

5. It places America's naval future under foreign dictation.

6. It gives America not boasted parity on the high seas but marked inferiority.

7. It is a political treaty designed for petty political advantage.

8. It contains the germs of international misunderstandings.

ANSWERS STIMSON

Sen. Johnson, leader of the Senate anti-treaty forces, hammered home these points in a militant speech broadcast over the national network of the Columbia broadcasting system. It constituted a direct reply to the speech over the same radio a week ago by secretary of State Stimson, head of the American delegation at London.

Rebelling against the Administration's drive "to ram through the treaty" without full facts and mature consideration, Senator Johnson carried the fight to the American people.

He spoke in short, explosive sentences in baring the injustices of the treaty.

The reason advanced by Secretary Stimson for hasty ratification of the pact was characterized as "the argument made by every foe of democracy."

NAVY HOSTILE

The high command of the Navy, almost to a man, Johnson recalled, opposed the treaty "to their undying honor." The few who favored it, he said, took the easy road which may lead to favors and preferment.

It is untrue for treaty supporters to say that the pact gives America parity with Great Britain, he asserted, for it accentuates the present disparity. Of the abandonment of 5-3 ratio with Japan bought at a high price by America in 1922, Johnson said:

"And the destruction of this ratio, in case of difficulty imperils our seaborne commerce and endangers our national defense. And not only is it an abandonment of the necessary ratio agreed to at Washington, but it makes of our boasted parity a mere iridescent dream."

His opposition is based, Johnson said, not as an opponent of disarmament, not as a big Navy man, but as an American.

"It is as one grown old in public service, to whom the safeguarding of the nation's future is far more important than an immediate petty political triumph, that I take issue upon an instrument utterly lacking in the consummation of its high-sounding purposes, and in its terms unfair and unjust to the United States."

REVISED RATIOS

Aside from permitting Great Britain to dictate the type of cruisers she wants the United States to build, the treaty, Johnson explained, will provide the following ratio in combined cruisers, destroyers and submarines in 1936:

United State 5; Great Britain 5.7; Japan 3.6.

The so-called escalator clause, he added, makes a mockery of naval limitation.

Touching the documents withheld by President Hoover, Johnson said:

"To refuse the Senate, as in this case, where the country's future security is at stake, whatever may be relevant and pertinent, is to destroy its co-equal power in treaty making and relegate it to mere subordination to the executive.

"This the Constitution does not do. Where the signers of the treaty use a part and then refuse the remainder, there is in the refusal neither justice nor fairness nor candor."

SOUNDS WARNING

Warning against the internationalism permeating the administration, Johnson declared:

"Whatever incense may be burned at the altar of internationalism; whatever hosannahs of praise may be sung to peace and good-will, whatever genuflections may be made to the power that demands at all hazards a treaty as a demonstration of achievement and accomplishment, this document that is sought to be crammed down the throats of the American people has with in it not only the germs of future misunderstanding and ill-will; but above and beyond all this, it is unjust and unfair to our country.

"It robs us of that which we thought by sacrifices we had obtained in 1922. It may imperil our marvelously growing commerce, now equaling that of any nation on earth, and endanger even our national defense; and after all the boastful utterances concerning parity, it yields us only inferiority.

"It does not measure up to our material necessities and it falls short of our ideals.

UN-AMERICAN PACT

"It is a treaty that is un-American, and Americans should reject it.

"The testimony that has been adduced demonstrates that if we build up under the London treaty, and, of course, it is of no use whatsoever to us unless we do, it will cost us $1,071,000,000. By some sort of arithmetical legerdemain, it is constantly asserted by the advocates of the treaty that results in economy for us, because figuring first upon how much it would cost us to replace certain battleships, which upon the mere suggestion of the countries involved, could have been eliminated, and then adding a complete new building program which doubtless never would have been consummated, the treaty devotees reach a sum almost as great as that rendered necessary by the treaty itself.

"The fact is, if we enter into this treaty, we have got to carry on, and we have got to spend more than a billion dollars, and spend it building in part, ships that are of little benefit to us, and which cannot adequately perform the proper function for our Navy.

"I express my humble opinion that the demand for immediate ratification and for no delay is not fear that this treaty may become a part of a political campaign, but fear that it may not become a part of the ensuing political campaign.

NOT MADE ON MERITS

"It is a treaty that was made, not because of its merits, but because by certain people it was deemed necessary to have a treaty. It becomes thus a political treaty for use in the domestic politics of the nation.

"I would take it out of politics, if I had the power, by postponing its consideration until after election. Not only would this take it from the political arena and not permit it to be used as a buffer and an alibi in a political campaign, but it would give us a short four months for the people of the United States to understand it and, understanding it, to express themselves concerning it.

"Four months will do no harm to this treaty if it be what the Secretary of State and its signers say it is. If they are right, this brief time will justify them, but if they are wrong, and we act with the haste that they desire, then an irreparable injury, which never can be undone, will have been inflicted upon our country.

"It is nonsense to deny a people the right of investigation of what may affect their future welfare, and the denial upon the ground that international relations may be intimately discussed is a counsel of fear which should frighten nobody."

Highlights of Johnson Attack on Navy Treaty

WASHINGTON, June 19.—(Universal)—Highlights of Senator Johnson's attack on the London Navy Treaty in his radio speech last night follow:

"It is a treaty that is un-American, and Americans should reject it.

"After all the boastful utterances concerning parity, it yields us only inferiority.

"I take issue upon an instrument utterly lacking in the consummation of its high-sounding purposes, and in its terms unfair and unjust to the United States.

"In 1935, if the nations meet again, and our representatives adopt the theory apparently adopted by them at London, again we must yield to yet unknown and worse conditions."

"Notwithstanding this 5-3 ratio Japan demanded at London equality in submarines with us, and our representatives obligingly yielded."

"And the destruction of this ratio 5-3 with Japan, in case of difficulty, imperils our seaborne commerce and endangers our national defense. And not only is it an abandonment of the necessary ratio agreed to at Washington, but it makes of our boasted parity a more irridescent dream."

"The fact is, if we enter into this treaty, we have got to carry on, and we have got to spend more than a billion dollars, and spend it building, in part, ships that are of little benefit to us, material necessities and it falls short of our ideals.

"It is a treaty that is un-American, and Americans should reject it.

"The testimony that has been adduced demonstrates that if we build up under the London treaty, and, of course, it is of no use whatsoever to us unless we do, it will cost us $1,071,000,000. By some sort of arithmetical legerdemain, it is constantly asserted by the advocates of the treaty that results in economy for us, because figuring first upon how much it would cost us to replace certain battleships, which upon the mere suggestion of the countries involved, could have been eliminated, and then adding a complete new building program which doubtless never would have been consummated, the treaty devotees reach a sum almost as great as that rendered necessary by the treaty itself.

"The fact is, if we enter into this treaty, we have got to carry on, and we have got to spend more than a billion dollars, and spend it building in part, ships that are of little benefit to us, and which cannot adequately perform the proper function for our Navy.

"The escalator or 'escape' clause, of course, makes a mockery of naval limitation.

"The first rule of good sportsmanship is never to hit a man who can't hit back. Officers of the Navy cannot personally respond to the assaults made upon them by the Secretary of State and the sponsors of the London treaty.

"For each officer of the United States Navy who took the easier course and agreed with the administration, at least six, with a courage that does them infinite credit, demonstrated the iniquity and inequity of the London treaty. These officers—dared to tell the truth.

"It is a treaty that was made, not because of its merits, but because by certain people it was deemed necessary to have a treaty. It becomes thus a political treaty for use in the domestic politics of the nation.

"I would take it out of politics if I had the power, by postponing its consideration until after election. It would give a short four months for the people—to express themselves concerning it."

REED TO DEFEND NAVAL TREATY

WASHINGTON, June 19.—(AP)—A reply to Senator Johnson's attack on the London naval treaty will be broadcast tonight by Senator David A. Reed (Rep.) of Pennsylvania, a delegate to the London conference. He will tell "why the London naval treaty should be ratified" over the National System at 7:30 p. m. Pittsburgh time.

Secretary of State Stimson said today he would not answer the Californian.

Clemency Denied 2 Doomed Slayers

The Board of Pardons today declined to recommend to Gov. John S. Fisher commutation of the death sentence imposed on William Henry Sled and Martin Avery, Negroes, who shot and killed Henry Kretz, Sr., a druggist of 1800 Center avenue, in the attempted holdup of his store June 21, 1929. Sled and Avery are under sentence to die June 30.

Holdup Nets $74 In Crafton Heights

Two holdup men leaped from an automobile with revolvers drawn and robbed Charles Teitz, 431 Chalfont street, of $74 in Kramer way, Crafton Heights, today, then re-entered their machine and sped away. Teitz is employed as a truck driver and collector by F. M. Fabry, meats and groceries, 605 Curtin avenue.

State Worker Dies Near Hebron School

Peter Berline, 75, an employe of the State Highway Department, fell dead at his work today on the Frankstown road, near Hebron school. Death was due to cerebral hemorrhage. Berline lived in McCutcheon lane, Penn township.

VOTERS RETURN LEAGUE FOE IN SCHALL

Blind Senator, Winner in Primary, Condemns Court And London Naval Treaty

Universal Service

MINNEAPOLIS, June 19.—An uncompromising foe of the League Court will be returned to the United States Senate by the renomination of Minnesota's blind senator, Thomas D. Schall.

Also, it is entirely probable Schall, a power on the Naval Affairs Committee, will fight ratification of the recently negotiated Naval Treaty, which he warns "will come back to haunt us."

ELECTION CONCEDED

The Senator explained his stand on these two subjects yesterday, as he was receiving congratulations on the decisive victory he achieved in Monday's Republican primaries, when he rolled up a margin of more than 75,000 votes over his opponent, Gov. Theodore Christianson. Schall's victory in the November election is conceded.

Concerning the League Court and the Naval Treaty, he said:

"Entrance into the court means entangling alliances and an embarkation into political morasses which common sense tells us we should avoid.

SCRAPPING 'OUTRAGE'

"And on top of this an attempt is being made to jockey us into a naval agreement which will come back to haunt us, I fear, when it is too late to correct our mistake.

"We destroyed 19 battleships and I consider that a damnable outrage. None of the arguments I have yet heard have sold me on the naval pact.

"Unless there are better ones set forth than those thus far advanced, I will vote against the parity plan."

Remarries to Regain Rights of Citizenship

LONDON, June 19.—(INS)—For nearly a year Marie Williams, Glasgow soprano formerly with the Manhattan Opera Company, was a woman without a country.

This was remedied here today when she was re-married to Serge Radzinsky, New York tenor also once with the Manhattan company.

The ceremony made her a provisional American citizen. Their previous marriage in Russia had been held illegal.

Build Cars to Carry Navy's Helium Gas

CHICAGO, June 19.—(AP)—The General American Tank Car Corporation is now producing for the aeronautics division of the United States Navy special tank cars to be used in transporting helium gas, it was announced by Elias Mayer, president of the company.

The cars will be used to transport helium gas from the Amarillo, Tex., field to the naval air base at Lakehurst, N. J.

Jurors Disagree On Dog Gambling

LONDON, O., June 19.—(AP)—Failing to agree after several hours deliberation, the jury trying Perry Van Scoik, charged with permitting gambling at the West Jefferson Kennel Club, was discharged.

Atlanta Reformers Sweep City Primary

ATLANTA, Ga., June 19.—(AP)—Atlanta has answered an investigation of a "graft ring" in the municipal government by piling up overwhelming pluralities for reform candidates for city offices.

James L. Key yesterday won the Democratic nomination for mayor. The Democratic nomination in Atlanta is considered tantamount to election.

William E. Saunders, convicted of bribery, and J. Allen Couch, mayor pro tem, and one of five councilmen and aldermen awaiting trial on "graft" indictments, were beaten decisively in their campaigns for re-election to the City Council.

Convict Enters Ohio Pen, Asks for Cell

COLUMBUS, O., June 19.—(AP)—Ellsworth Ward, 25, Akron, walked into Ohio penitentiary late last night, presented a sheaf of papers to Warden P. E. Thomas and asked for his quarters. He came unaccompanied to begin serving a term of from one to 20 years for manslaughter.

France Calls Envoy Home From Canada

OTTAWA, June 19.—(AP)—Georges Jean Knight, French minister to Canada since 1928, has been recalled to Paris to take over the post of chief of press services in the foreign affairs ministry.

His eyes were those of a maniac—fierce, glaring and sadistic. I fairly shuddered at his ferocious thrusts and the bloodthirsty manner in which he wielded the colossal scimitar. I was next to get it. The flesh around my heart throbbed and I already felt the cold steel of this Shylock's knife; he hovered close to me and hissed, "one pound." There was no Portia to defend me. I hung my head and waited. The crowds were screaming, "Give it to him." I reached in my pocket for the gold and stretched it to him. There was a thrust, a jab, a splurge of yellow. Paper rustled; some one grabbed my gold; I heard a bell toll. Then I was shoved back, back, and when I opened my eyes I was out of the frenzied mob and in my hands was a pound of McCann's best butter.

GONE 17 YEARS, SEEKS ESTATE

MEMPHIS, Tenn., June 19.—(AP)—A brother of Joseph Martin, once a wealthy Memphis cotton broker who disappeared 17 years ago in England, sat in a chancery court witness chair yesterday and heard an attorney for five other brothers and sisters attempt to prove that he had "framed" the report that Joseph Martin is alive and somewhere in Mexico. A million dollar estate left the family by William Wood, grandfather of the Martins, is being divided in court.

N. Hill Martin also at one time prominent in Memphis business, reiterated statements made by his attorney, S. M. Neely, that Clarence S. Eldridge, of Los Angeles, had told of knowing Joseph Martin in Mexico and on a boat bound for Yucatan in 1927.

The hearing was held to take depositions to declare Joseph Martin dead and to partition the estate.

Radio star enthusiastic about new shave

EDWIN WHITNEY of "Real Folks"

EVERY Monday night at 9:30 when you listen to the "Real Folks" program over WJZ or KDKA, you hear the voice of Edwin Whitney, one of the stars in the radio world. Would you ever guess that Judge Whipple, Bill Perkins and Grandpa Overbrook are one and the same Whitney? They are. Mr. Whitney has a pet enthusiasm and he wants to tell you men about it. It's a new shaving method—the best and easiest he's ever found.

The important part comes first—a film of "Vaseline" Petroleum Jelly spread over the beard. Next the lather and then he follows his regular shaving routine. But with what a difference! No razor pull, and the "Vaseline" Jelly prevents all soreness and leaves the skin soft and smooth. Better-looking, too.

If you want a real comfort shave, follow Whitney's suggestion. Buy a tube or jar of "Vaseline" Jelly at the drug store today and try it tomorrow morning. You'll like it, too!

Jacket Costumes

A Fashion-Thrift Event for Women and Misses

$10

It must be the casual air of prints that makes printed jacket costumes so popular. . . . Anyhow, everybody seems to want one for jaunting about town or for sports wear, and here is a fresh, new collection specially priced.

Some like them light, some like them dark, so we have made the choice in this group as varied as possible. . . . Costumes of silk and of rayon crepes.

. . . Light-color grounds and delicate pastel grounds, with the patterns in bright or soft colors.

. . . Navy blue grounds, also some in black, with white figures or dots.

. . . Costumes with sleeveless dresses in fifteen different styles, and jackets in regulation or bolero models.

MEARS TO HOP TOMORROW

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., June 19.—(AP.) Arriving last night from Detroit where he had his airplane overhauled, John Henry Mears, who aspires to regain the round-the-world speed record, announced he will take off tomorrow morning for Harbor Grace, N. F., on the first leg of his proposed globe-girdling flight.

The ship will be piloted by Fred Melchior, who flew Mears here from Detroit. They plan to fly from Harbor Grace, across the North Atlantic, to Valencia, Ireland.

Mears has twice circled the world in record time, his fastest mark being bested last summer by the Graf Zeppelin.

Thomas J. Rossi, Scranton, president; George F. Douglas, Philadelphia, vice president; Lloyd A. Terry, Meadville, chaplain; A. J. Dougherty, Pittsburgh, secretary; James J. Mack, DuBois, conductor; Joseph J. Ashoerger, Wilkes-Barre, treasurer; John W. Young, Hanover, inner guard; Frank J. Smith, Carnegie, outer guard; John H. Bailey, McKeesport, James Aumen, Gettysburg, and James Evans, Easton, trustees.

KILL 1, CAPTURE 2 AS SLAYERS

EL PASO, Tex., June 19.—(AP.)—Mexican Rurales have killed one Mexican and captured two others alleged to have robbed and slain J. W. McIntyre, American stage driver, between Columbus, N. M., and Casa Grandes, Chihuahua, May 28.

Federico Terrazas, 26, was shot and killed in attempting to escape from the Rurales under command of Maj. A. Orosco. Samuel Terrazas, 30, and Urbio Tarango, 28, offered no resistance. They were taken to Ascunsion, Chihuahua. William P. Blocker, American consul at Juarez, was advised yesterday, and are said to have confessed.

LIQUOR FOUND BENEATH MOSS

OCALA, Fla., June 19.—(AP.) Two railroad boxcar loads of liquor, hidden behind bales of moss and valued by officers at $170,524 at wholesale bootleg prices, were seized and destroyed by the Federal prohibition agents here.

The liquor was shipped from Moss, a small station on the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad. One car was consigned to New London, Wis., and the other to Cleveland, O.

United States Commissioner Caruso said that the two cars seized were half of a four-car shipment, two cars of which slipped past the officers. One hundred bales of moss were used to conceal the shipments of liquor seized.

Baby Runs in Path Of Car Mother Drives; Killed

ERIE, Pa., June 19.—(AP.) Running to get a toy, Alfred Wagner, 2, ran into the driveway of his home as his mother was backing her automobile from the garage. Struck by the machine, he was killed.

Frederick Man Head Of Maryland Eagles

FREDERICK, Md., June 19.—(AP.)—Charles P. Cramer, of Frederick, was elected state president of the Fraternal Order of Eagles at the convention here. Cumberland awarded the 1931 convention.

Other officers elected were J. Philip Roman, Cumberland, vice president; W. S. Sudler, Baltimore, secretary; Robert G. Witter, Frederick, treasurer; Howard Galbreath, Cumberland, conductor; D. C. Cook, Brunswick, chaplain and John W. Krause, Cumberland, Harvey Wachter, Hagerstown, and A. P. Miller, Lonaconing, trustees.

All Sales Must Be Final

She thought:
"I hate to say 'no' again, but 'B. O.' spoils you as a dancing partner."

Yet, to be polite,

She said:
"Too bad I didn't know about the dance sooner. I'm dated up for that night."

Girls always had "another date"—until he ended "B.O."
(Body Odor)

HE KNEW he wasn't popular with girls. But he never suspected why until one day a clerk in a drugstore suggested Lifebuoy to him.

That simple change in toilet soaps changed his whole life! For it ended the fault that had made girls unwilling to go out with him. "B.O.", the polite name for a condition people dislike even to mention—body odor . . . No more turndowns now. Girls accept his invitations gladly. He knows the easy way to keep perspiration odorless.

Hot weather no excuse

Even if the thermometer is up in the nineties—even if we are perspiring more freely—no need to let "B.O." offend. Just take this simple precaution.

Millions of particular men and women, realizing how quickly others notice "B.O.", have switched to Lifebuoy to be safe. And they like this delightful toilet soap more and more every day. Everything about it. Its bountiful, creamy lather—even in hardest water. Its pleasant, extra-clean scent that vanishes as you rinse. The gentle antiseptic lather that cleanses so thoroughly—purifies pores so deeply—removes every trace of "B.O."

What a complexion soap!

Women add a special word of praise for Lifebuoy as a complexion soap. Its bland, deep-cleansing lather gently frees clogged pores of beauty-stifling impurities—freshens dull skins till they glow with healthy radiant loveliness. Adopt Lifebuoy today.

PITTSBURGHERS GO ABROAD

NEW YORK, June 19.—Mrs. C. F. Malcolm and daughter, Miss Madge Malcolm, of Pittsburgh, sailed for Europe on the Aquitania to spend the summer abroad.

The Pittsburgh seagoers said they intended to spend most of their time motor touring through England, France and other countries.

Others sailing for Europe were Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Bacon, Mrs. E. R. Bradstreet and William B. Wilson, from Pittsburgh.

Aquitania's passenger list on this sailing includes the Princeton University 150-pound crew, with Charles H. Moore, of Sewickley, as one of the oarsmen. The crew will compete in the English Royal Henley Regatta on the Thames July 2.

Historians Meet For Founder's Day

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., June 19.—"Founders Day" of the Westmoreland-Fayette branch of the Historical Society of Western Pennsylvania will be observed at the Historical House, West Overton, Saturday. Dr. John W. Oliver, head of the department of history of the University of Pittsburgh, will speak.

Priest to Celebrate 25 Years in Pulpit

MOUNT PLEASANT, Pa., June 19.—The silver jubilee, marking the twenty-fifth anniversary of the ordination of the Rev. Charles A. Janda, pastor of the Visitation Church, will be observed Sunday.

KONJOLA PROVES MERITS IN THIS STUBBORN CASE

Stomach and Kidney Troubles Readily Yield to New and Different Medicine.

"The medicine with more than a million friends." "The most talked-of medicine in America." Konjola, the really proven medicine for men and women of all ages, has actually earned the right to be so named by all its friends. The experiences of these friends prove it. It is their enthusiasm at relief from serious ailments that has made this medicine famous.

They gave this great medicine a chance and Konjola made good. Read the experience of Mr. Irvin Myers, Box 34, South View, near Pittsburgh. Next see the Konjola Man at the Dow Drug Store, Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, Pittsburgh. He will explain to you, tell you what it is, and what it does and has done. Here is what Mr. Myers told the Konjola Man:

"For the last six or eight months I suffered from stomach and kidney trouble. Food failed to digest and after each meal I bloated with gas. During the night my rest was disturbed six to eight times by irregular bladder actions. Severe pains settled in the small of my back because of the kidney trouble. I was very constipated and had dizzy spells.

"A friend told me about Konjola and its merits. When I heard how it had helped him I decided to give it a trial. Within two weeks a remarkable change took place. The gas and bloating have disappeared. I never have to rise during the night and my back does not pain any more. Constipation is ended. I feel stronger and much better in every way. I am glad to recommend Konjola."

Konjola contains no alcohol, no nerve-deadening drugs, no heart-depressing chemicals. It needs no such hazardous ingredients its seeming wonders to perform. All that is asked for Konjola is that it be given a chance to prove its merits.

The Konjola Man is at the Dow Drug Store, Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, Pittsburgh, where he is meeting the public daily, explaining this new and different medicine. FREE SAMPLES GIVEN by the Konjola Man. Konjola is also sold by all Dow Drug Stores in Pittsburgh and vicinity.

FLAYS CAPITAL PROPAGANDA

MILWAUKEE, Wis., June 19 (AP).—The charge that officials in Washington in the interest of the most widespread propaganda in the entire country was made by William J. Davis, Washington representative of the National Electric Association, in an address before the association's convention here today.

"Propaganda holds sway from the White House to the most obscure clerk. It is noteworthy that many a suspicious editor who frequently checks free publicity seldom balks at printing news manufactured by government officials for the purpose of influencing public opinion. The mere stamp of the federal government on a bulletin does not establish its news value.

The annual trophies for outstanding newspapers of the nation was made by E. Emmerich of the Manitowoc, Wis., Enterprise, world's highest honor, the trophy for greatest community service.

Lee A. White of the Detroit News told the convention that there is no conflict between the great metropolitan newspaper and the rural weekly.

American Priests Hurt in Polish Taxi

WARSAW, June 19.—(AP).—The Rev. Bryan Kaith and the Rev. Charles Szigula, Polish-American priests injured in an automobile accident, are resting comfortably in the Zakopane Hospital. They refused to give their home addresses in the United States and said they had come to see their parents near Krakow.

Both were injured while traveling in a taxicab.

Two Struck by Bolt In Youngstown Hurt

YOUNGSTOWN, O., June 19.—Two men were hurled when lightning struck a transformer wagon of the Youngstown Welding Company being used for welding on the Center street bridge. The victims, Ralph Schwartz, 21, of Sharon, Pa., and Alex Myers, 46, were knocked unconscious.

'Jakey' Suits Ask $255,000 Damages In Ohio Court

CAMBRIDGE, O., June 19.—Suits for damages based on paralysis resulting from jamaica ginger now aggregate $255,000 in Gregory County Court.

The jamaica ginger paralysis epidemic which swept the county last spring led to 10 such suits being filed. The latest is by Stefan Durat, against Andy Chapek. Durat says the ginger contained poison and that as a result he is unable to walk without a cane or crutches.

Luther L. Johnson seeks a similar amount from W. G. Wilson & Son, grocery at Old Washington. He too suffered paralysis.

Two French Army Fliers Die in Crash

VENTIMIGLIA, Italy, June 19.—(AP).—Two French army aviators were killed and a third injured when an amphibian bomber was forced to land at the mouth of the Nervia River after its motor had failed.

Sergt. Guillet and Sergt. Pogan were killed and the mechanic Casacoli was hurt.

DRYS BEATEN, 3 SENTENCED

SCRANTON, Pa., June 19.—(AP).—After Aldo Magnelli, Harrisburg, pleaded guilty to having led a mob which attacked and beat four prohibition agents in that city last May 8, Federal Judge Watson sentenced him to two years imprisonment in the Franklin County jail and to pay a fine of $600.

Richard Christ and Anthony Camellio, both of Harrisburg, also pleaded guilty to having been in the gang that attacked the agents. Each received sentences of six months in the York County jail and $200 fine.

A fourth defendant, James Reedy, pleaded not guilty and was freed. The case was heard by Judge Watson without a jury.

The case grew out of an attack on Clyde Fowler, Harold Langford, Paul Anspach and William Schultz, prohibition agents, under the Pennsylvania Railroad overpass in Second street, Harrisburg.

Receiver for Ohio Bank Sues Its Directors

WOODFIELD, O., June 19.—Holding directors of the closed First National Bank of Lewisville responsible for its collapse, Joseph Gamble, receiver, has filed suit for $79,515.35 in Federal Court in Columbus. The action, legal authorities say, may set a precedent.

The suit charges the directors were responsible for the bank's losses, alleging carelessness, neglect and investment of funds in questionable securities. The directors are C. E. Ketterer, William H. Distler, C. W. Young, J. W. Zerger, L. P. Neuhart, Charles Felock and G. M. Thornberry.

Cripple Aids $3,000 Bank Holdup in Ohio

CELINA, O., June 19.—(AP).—Mercer County officers are hunting two robbers who held up the First National Bank of Rockford, near here, and escaped with $3,000.

Only the cashier, C. L. Discher, and a customer were in the bank at the time. They were forced to lie on the floor while the thieves scooped up all the loose money in one, a cripple about 50 years old, sight.

A WORD TO THE WISE

When tempted to over-indulge

"Reach for a Lucky instead"

Be moderate—be moderate in all things, even in smoking. Avoid that future shadow* by avoiding over-indulgence, if you would maintain that modern, ever-youthful figure. "Reach for a Lucky instead."

Lucky Strike, the finest Cigarette you ever smoked, made of the finest tobacco—The Cream of the Crop—"IT'S TOASTED." Lucky Strike has an extra, secret heating process. Everyone knows that heat purifies and so 20,679 physicians say that Luckies are less irritating to your throat.

"Coming events cast their shadows before"

Your Throat Protection—against irritation—against cough

*In the U.S. Public Health Reports of 1923, Volume 38, Page 1271, we find the following: "Among short men less than 5 feet 7 inches in height an excess (in weight) of 20% involves an added mortality of 30% above normal. A 40% excess adds 80% to the mortality." We do not represent that smoking Lucky Strike Cigarettes will bring modern figures or cause the reduction of flesh. We do declare that when tempted to do yourself too well, if you will "Reach for a Lucky instead," you will thus avoid over-indulgence in things that cause excess weight and, by avoiding over-indulgence, maintain a modern, graceful form.

59th ANNIVERSARY KAUFMANN'S

DIVA'S SON ASKS REHEARING

LOS ANGELES, June 19.—(AP.)—Henry Schumann-Heink, son of Ernestine Schumann-Heink, filed a petition with the State Supreme Court here for a rehearing of his rejected appeal from a conviction for grand theft.

Schumann-Heink, former president of Schumann-Heink & Co., a stock and bond corporation with offices in Los Angeles and other cities, was convicted of depositing 12 shares of the company's stock as collateral for a personal note. The stock was alleged to be the company's property.

Convicted in October, 1928, he obtained a reversal, but was again convicted. A new trial was denied and he was placed on five years' probation.

ASK HIGH HONOR FOR STALIN

MOSCOW, June 19.—(AP.)—The bestowal of the newly-created "Order of Lenin" upon Joseph Stalin, Russia's strong man, has recently been urged upon the Presidium of the Central Executive Committee by Communist district parties and trade unions throughout the country.

The order, the highest within the gift of the Soviet union, was created two months ago as a reward for those who have rendered the country extraordinary service. It has not yet been given to anyone.

The Presidium was asked to give the decoration to Stalin for his contribution to the revolutionary cause and strengthening the dictatorship of the proletariat.

Plane Falls, Burns; Three Men Injured

LOCK HAVEN, Pa., June 19.—(AP.)—Three Lock Haven men were injured in an airplane crash here. As Frank Gibson, 26, the pilot, was bringing the plane to a landing, it struck a telephone line and fell.

The plane caught fire, but Gibson and J. Arlington Myers, 21, and Joseph Crick, 21, were able to scramble out before they were seriously burned. The plane was destroyed.

$2,000 for Firemen Fighting Mine Blaze

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., June 19.—Checks aggregating more than $2,000 have been forwarded to South Brownsville, Rice's Landing, Fredericktown and Waynesburg firemen by the W. J. Rainey, Inc., for services of the four departments last month when fire swept the Pitt Gas mine at Clarksville.

Man's Body Found, Starvation Victim

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., June 19.—Believed to have been the victim of starvation, the body of John Galas, 95, Masontown, was found under a house at Gray's Landing by a group of children.

Junior Order Hosts Go to Rock Springs

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., June 19.—Annual outing of Junior Order United American Mechanics lodges of Southwestern Pennsylvania will be held Saturday at Rock Springs Park, Chester, W. Va. Two special trains, one leaving Brownsville and the other starting from Greensburg, will convey several thousand persons to the park.

National Highway To Open in Week

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., June 19.—The National highway between here and Uniontown, closed for the last few weeks for reconstruction work, will be opened to traffic within the next week, officials announced today.

Open Sat. Till 6 P. M.

4 GUILTY IN RUM BLAST DEATHS

READING, Pa., June 19.—(AP.)—A jury which deliberated more than eight hours returned a verdict convicting four men of manufacture and possession of illegal liquor in connection with the explosion of a still February 19. The explosion wrecked the building, killing two men who were passing.

The defendants are Alex Klingerman, Philadelphia, said to hold the lease on the building; John Mango, Charles Buscontini and John Mancuso, all of Philadelphia. Luke Bierman, of New York, has forfeited his bail and cannot be found. Two others are under indictment.

Gold Star Mothers Sailing for Home

PARIS, June 19.—(AP.)—"Party E" of American Gold Star mothers and wives will leave Paris today to sail for the United States on the Inner America.

The Michigan and California mothers and wives making up "Party F" are now visiting the graves of fallen sons and husbands in battlefield cemeteries.

Storm Forces Down Pittsburgh Fliers

BRADFORD, Pa., June 19.—Two Pittsburgh aviators, flying from Bettis Field to Bradford, were forced to land in a potato patch along the Allegheny river near Kinzua by a heavy rainstorm. Neither man was injured.

They were Pilot A. C. Taylor and David Register, a student pilot. They continued their flight after the storm cleared.

FERRY ST. FIRE TIES TRAFFIC

Fireworks stored in a building at 106 Ferry street were a source of peril today when fire broke out on the second floor of the building.

Capt. H. C. Brockett, of Engine Company No. 1, was assisted against the blaze, and 25 employes of the James L. Stewart Company, compositors on the third floor, were driven to the street.

The fire tied up traffic in the Boulevard of the Allies for 15 minutes.

Starting in the laboratory of the Thermatomic Carbon Company on the second floor from an overheated flue, the blaze spread to the third floor before it was extinguished.

Capt. Brockett suffered a sprained ankle when he stumbled over a fire hose and was rushed to the Allegheny General Hospital.

Battalion Chief George Spaar estimated the damage at $500.

Court Denies Writ To Halt Gas Waste

LONG BEACH, Cal., June 19.—(AP.)—Holding that millions of dollars worth of property would be virtually confiscated if the petition were granted, Superior Judge Crawford denied an injunction to the state to restrain waste of gas in the Signal Hill oil field.

Judge Crawford said the word "unreasonable" before "waste" in the law meant that the waste should be such as to shock the sensibility of a Court of Chancery before it should be prevented by legal action.

Nicaragua Bandit Activities Subdued

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, June 19.—(AP.)—Headquarters of the Nicaraguan National Guard reported an unusually quiet week for bandit activities in the northern section, and said what contacts national guardsmen and United States Marines have had since Augustino Sandino is supposed to have returned resulted disastrously for the bandits.

Reports have been received that the rebels chieftain again is in Merida, Yucatan.

Ex-Arab Policeman Accused in Attack

JERUSALEM, June 19.—(Jewish Telegraphic Agency.)—A discharged Arab policeman has been arrested in Jaffa as a suspect in an attack on Police Capt. F. M. Scott, of Tel Aviv, stabbed in a scuffle with an Arab crowd following the execution of three Arabs at Acre.

It is believed the former policeman swore vengeance against Scott because of the dismissal. Scott's condition is not serious.

Ground for Franklin Memorial Broken

PHILADELPHIA, June 19.—(AP.)—Ground was broken on the parkway for the Franklin Memorial and Franklin Institute Museum, a civic undertaking for which a campaign for $5,000,000 was successfully ended.

The memorial to Benjamin Franklin will contain evidences of his greatness as an American and scientist, and exhibits of the nation's progress in mechanical arts and sciences.

Lone Plane Involved In Ban Upon Soviet

BALTIMORE, June 19.—(AP.)—The statement that a prospective order for 50 war flying boat was involved in the recent disapproval by the State Department of the sale of military airplanes to Soviet Russia was made by Glenn L. Martin, head of the manufacturing company bearing his name.

LUZERNE VOTE APPEAL SET

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., June 19.—(INS.)—Saturday morning at 10 o'clock the question of the validity of perforations in the primary ballots used in 374 Luzerne County precincts will be before the County Court again as attorneys for Francis Shunk Brown continue their efforts to have the ballots declared illegal. Brown, apparently defeated in the primary election for the gubernatorial nomination, can wrest the nomination from Gifford Pinchot, should the Luzerne ballots be thrown out.

The court yesterday set Saturday morning as the time for hearing the appeal of the Brown forces. The action of the Brown attorneys in going again to the court, paves the way for an appeal to the Supreme Court, when the court, if it does, again rules the perforations legal.

SLEUTHS' CARS TAGGED, ANGRY

City detectives protested vigorously today when a motorcycle patrolman tagged their automobiles for violating the anti-parking rule in Water street.

"That's the orders," was the only explanation said to have come from Traffic Inspector Jacob Dorsey.

The detectives assert they use their own cars to run down criminals as the one city owned detective car rarely is available. They park their machines near Central station, they say, to save parking fees and to keep them free for emergencies.

The detectives are planning to carry their protest to Traffic Court in event they are summoned to appear.

Fox Film Contract Largest on Record

NEW YORK, June 19.—(AP.)—An announcement today said the largest single contract ever made for the sale and distribution of motion pictures has just been signed, through which the entire output of Fox Film Corporation for the coming year will be used by the complete Publix chain of 1,031 theaters.

The transaction, involving millions of dollars, virtually guarantees record gross revenues for the Fox Film Corporation, the announcement continued.

Pardons Asked For $15,000 and $1 Thieves

HARRISBURG, June 19.—(AP.)—A plea for a boy who spent more than 10 years in prison as the result of stealing $1 from a church poor box followed one for a man who had been imprisoned less than six months for the embezzlement of $15,000, before the State Board of Pardons.

Attorney General Cyrus G. Woods commented:

"This boy has been serving 10 years for the theft of a dollar and here a little while ago we had a man who took $15,000, has served less than six months and everybody wants him out."

The boy is Robert Charles McWilliams, Philadelphia.

In the case of Milton Carren, Allegheny County, who took $15,000 from the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company the company and several individuals appealed to the board to recommend his release.

Anne Relates That She Is Afraid to Risk Marriage

CHAPTER XIII.

The next day Eaton asked Anne how the evening had gone.

"It was fun," Anne told him. "But did you know that Allan Lawson doesn't mean to work—ever?"

Eaton laughed at her gravity.

"Why should he?" he answered. "He inherited several millions on his coming of age. There'll be more, later. The business is safe enough. Safer without the boy than with him, I imagine. There's an older brother, a sound sort, not clever but a plugger. This one's a wild kid, but harmless. By the way, he's the catch of the season in his home town," he added watching her keenly.

Anne tilted her chin. A gesture which not quite unconsciously drew the attention to the soft red curves of her mouth.

"I can't imagine wanting a man who didn't work either with his hands or with his head," she said. "Think of a husband always underfoot. One who went about throwing $10 bills around."

Eaton chuckled. "I don't think Allan would be much under anyone's foot. Did he really? I mean, throw the bills around?"

"More or less."

"So you can't imagine wanting Lawson," mused Eaton. "Well, what sort of man could you imagine wanting?"

"No kind at all! But if any," Anne contradicted herself, "one who'd fought his way up. He needn't have a lot of money, but he'd be the sort who'd want to make it. Not for the money itself, but for the success it stands for. A big man with vision; a man who'd be willing to take risks and be a sport if he lost out; a—well, a man!"

After a moment's silence Eaton said: "And I think a man such as you describe would want a girl like yourself."

Then Sanders came into the office and Anne slipped out without answering. At her desk she thought:

"I wonder if I've been an idiot. Of course, I was describing him. I meant it, all right—but I meant him to know it, too. And he got back at me, rather. I left the opening. Men," thought Anne further, "hate to be too consciously flattered. Still, he might have thought I spoke of a type all business women meet, and if he also thought it applied to him—well, there's no harm done."

Anne Puzzled

It was not the first time she had said such things to him. Once, not long since, she had remarked, in speaking of a man whom Eaton knew in a business way and upon whose attraction for women he had commented, that "such men" were always married.

"But not always happily married," he had ended the discussion quickly.

Since then, she had been thinking.

From the little she had seen of Linda and Eaton together she had reached the conclusion that while they were excellent friends, they were not emotionally involved one with the other. And because she now admitted to herself that Eaton attracted her strongly, she marveled at the dullness—or coldness—of the other woman. She thought, shrewdly enough, that the time would come when Larry Eaton would turn elsewhere for a warmer comfort.

But it was impossible not to follow that to its logical conclusion. She knew now that Eaton was not indifferent to her presence, to her nearness. She had seen him flush when, occasionally and accidentally, their hands had encountered.

If she were right, if he cared little for his wife and Linda cared little for him, if he should seek elsewhere and, in seeking, chance upon the nearest person—herself—what would she do?

She told herself defiantly that she would be hurting no one save herself; that no one need ever know. She could keep a clear mind even in a disturbed body. For she did not love Lawrence Eaton, she argued, it was merely that he attracted her as no other man had ever attracted her and that he was englamoured in her eyes by his position as her employer.

Seeks Distraction

Love, she thought, must be something different, something sweet and sane and tender.

No, she did not love Lawrence Eaton, but she wanted him. She wanted, too, quite honestly, the business protection and surety that a love affair with him would afford her. She was not ready to admit that such protection and surety is built upon shifting sand.

And consciously and unconsciously she began deliberately to trouble Eaton. But he made no sign and she began to believe that she was a fool to dream of risking so much to dream of entering into a more intimate relationship with her employer—a relationship of excitement and danger, of half measures and half loaves, which could lead to but one of two conclusions: complete rupture or complete surrender.

She began to go out again with O'Hara. She was not consciously cruel in thus encouraging that hopeful young man. She was simply seeking distraction. But when they were alone together, Ted became more urgent, and when they were with others, his crowd did not interest her. It consisted mostly of "arty" young people who did a great deal of talking in loud voices and who did not, to Anne's mind, accomplish much. The Lindstroms were, of course, the exception: delightful, successful people in their middle 30s.

Nils Lindstrom was a painter of some note, and his wife a sculptor, her specialty being the charming vital figures one sees in so many lovely gardens. Her children—there were three—sat to her for fat urchins and slender 10-year-olds.

Anne liked the Lindstroms and went often to their studio. And she went often to see Sara and the new baby, a girl, who brought her welcome with her.

Toward midsummer Eaton took his secretary to Southampton with him. Linda was giving a house party and had persuaded him to show himself, although his work pressed. She had captured some visiting lions. Jameson was included and several pretty women.

Eaton worked with Anne during the mornings of the week-end, but Linda arranged for her to go to the beach for swimming and relaxation, and tried to make her comfortable and at ease.

A Second Visit

It was out of the question that Anne should fit into the party, since she had neither the clothes nor the desire. Her meals were served in the small sitting room of her own suite. Linda saw that she had plenty to read, and a car was put at her disposal.

An odd position, reflected Anne without bitterness—neither servant nor guest.

But a little later that summer she went down again when only Mrs. Lucien and Jameson were there, and was, on that occasion, a guest as the others were.

"Be sure to take Miss Murdock swimming," Linda told her husband one morning. "Dick and I are golfing. You'd better knock off work by 11."

Later, on the fairway, Jameson asked:

"Are you wise? Aren't you throwing them together too much?"

"My dear Dick!" said Linda, amazed and a little offended.

"But in view of what you told me—that the girl might be interested—?"

"What of that? He can't bring her down here and work her to death without my taking a hand. She has to have some recreation."

"Linda," Jameson exploded, "you are either a saint or a fool."

She turned her alert brown eyes to his. "Neither," she observed quietly.

Oh, she knew, she knew now, how much Jameson cared, without a word spoken, and she was turning to him for the companionship her husband did not give—had never given her.

So, dismissing Anne and Eaton from her troubled mind, she wondered instead: "Am I seeing too much of Dick?"

Vacation Time

And a little after 11, Eaton and Anne were sunning themselves on the hot white sands before their swim. Anne had tanned slightly; a faint golden glow lay like a veil on her white skin. Her hair was bound with a blue gypsy handkerchief, and she sat with him under Linda's gay umbrella and watched the sea with eyes as blue as the water.

And Eaton, looking at her, thought: "Am I being wise?"

He knew that he was not. Yet did not care, not wishing to look beyond this blue-and-gold moment of sun and sand and sky and—Anne.

Anne's two weeks' vacation fell in September. She had thought to welcome it, and Mrs. Murdock made great plans for her. Breakfast in bed every morning and lazy hours on the sun-porch. It was to be a peaceful, restorative period.

"You look peaked," Molly scolded; "you've been overdoing. If you go on like this I'll speak to Mr. Eaton, that I shall."

"Mother, I'm all right; please don't worry."

"A mother knows," remarked Mrs. Murdock darkly.

After the first day or so Anne found herself bored. When the week-end came with Labor Day to lengthen it and the Lindstroms asked her and Ted to their cottage in the Catskills, she accepted.

The Lindstroms' rented cottage was attractive and the Lindstroms were hospitable people in the true sense of the word. They permitted Ted and Anne to amuse themselves. Mealtime was a happy-go-lucky, hearty affair, and Anne, playing with the attractive, intelligent, well-brought-up children, or sitting mouse-still near Nils while he worked, or helping Mrs. Lindstrom with her apparently effortless housekeeping, felt rested and envious.

For unconsciously the Lindstroms were showing her the other side of the matrimonial picture. From Friday to Tuesday she was with them, observing their unostentatious, deep regard for one another, sensing the close-knit, beautifully patterned fabric of a happy family life. She said as much to Joan Lindstrom.

"It's wonderful to be here with you. There's something so restful and happy about the way you and Nils and the children live."

Joan looked at the girl quickly. "I'm glad you feel that," was all she said.

"Most people seem so—feverish. There's so much bickering and quarreling."

"Every one goes through a period of that adjustment," Joan told her. "Nils and I have had ours. It's in back of us. It wasn't easy when we were poor and struggling and so ambitious, and the children came along to complicate matters. But if people love each other enough they'll win through."

Anne said, more to herself than to the listening woman: "There's Jim and Sara. They love each other and yet—oh, I don't know—they have so many worries. The children are underfoot and Sara gets overworked and nervous, and Jim—Jim's like most men, impatient when things aren't going smoothly. It does seem to me that nothing I've seen of marriage — except yours — would make me feel I wanted to risk it."

"You're wrong," said Joan. "There are many happy marriages. I think you see the others because you are looking for them. Aren't you trying to find excuses for yourself, Anne?"

"I wonder?" Anne told her and smiled tremulously. "Perhaps I'm a coward. Mother and father, now—they're happy, I suppose. But it seems to me," Anne said youthfully, "that their marriage is so—dull."

"You're too close to your own people," Joan pointed out. "Happiness right under the eyes is hard to see."

But Anne was turning over another problem in her troubled mind. "How many people who marry really love each other?" she asked.

"As to that, it depends on what you mean by love," Joan answered. "There's just the youth urge, of course, the mating instinct, the purely physical attraction. That passes, unless it has a foundation of trust and respect and comradeship upon which one—or rather, two—may build safely and enduringly."

"But how is one to know?" Anne persisted, feeling Joan had touched her own case.

Joan shook her tawny, cropped head. "There's no rule. But if ever you meet a man whom you'd follow barefoot and hungry and thirsty to the world's end and back, a man you'd work for and work with, you can be pretty certain. It's not the man you can be happy with—for women in their curious way can be happy, after a fashion, with a dozen different men—it's the man you'd be desperately, achingly unhappy without who is the man for you. But you have to find out for yourself, Anne."

Anne Sweet to Ted

To herself Joan observed, sorry but not astonished: "She's not in love with Teddy, then."

Because the Lindstroms were happy because they showed her a side of intimate life which she had hitherto known only from books or glimpsed fleetingly, Anne was particularly sweet to Ted O'Hara during that visit.

If Ted had asked her then she might have said yes, partly because of this influence which caught and held her, and partly because she was aware that in her ceaseless preoccupation with Eaton she was drifting into a desired danger, a danger which blinded her to standards of ethics and morality.

As a result of her talk with Joan on that last night at the Lindstroms', Anne wondered how close to each other Eaton and his wife really were. She felt a full depression and at the same time, picturing the laughing face Eaton had turned to her at the beach that day, she experienced a deep, dreadful troubling of the blood, a clouding and flaming of the senses no longer new to her.

Yes, if Ted had asked her . . . But he did not ask her. And this was due to Joan Lindstrom, to whom he also went for advice.

"I love her. I've asked her to marry me about 100 times. Sometimes she seems to care—a little," Ted told his hostess. "Other days—well, I'm less than the dust, that's all."

"I don't usually give advice," said Joan. "Still go slow, Ted. She's at that restless, uncertain stage. Don't try to rush your little Anne into a decision."

So he did not speak, but tried to content himself with being a good playmate, and Anne returned home as dissatisfied as ever. There was only one thing to which she could look forward with pleasure, even with a sharp and desperate longing—her return to the office. To the man in the office.

Especially YOUNG MARRIED MEN Should Arrange Insurance Trusts

Here is the way one young Pittsburgher looks upon the Life Insurance Trust as it applies to his life.

"MY WIFE is just 26. On the face of insurance statistics on the average length of life of American women, she should live another 32 years. We have one boy.

"If I should die now, my wife would receive a considerable amount from insurance. She might be able to handle it well, or she might not. Judging from the way women have been swindled out of insurance money, the chances are she could not keep it during all those 32 years.

"It would probably work out so that she would have a lot of money for a few years, and then none.

"It only recently occurred to me that it would be much better to fix things so she would receive a steady income all through her life, instead of a lump sum that might be quickly lost. If I died, she would probably go back to work; and the money she could make, added to the income from my insurance, would make life very comfortable for her and the boy.

"That's why I am getting ready to place my insurance in an Insurance Trust with The Colonial Trust Company. My wife will not have to invest the money; The Colonial Trust Company will attend to that. She will receive a steady income as long as she lives. And if the sickness or accident occurs, The Colonial will help her meet that emergency with additional ready money. She'll be safe—always."

THE OFFICERS in the Trust Department at The Colonial Trust Company will be glad to confer with you on an Insurance Trust.

Daughter Finds Man Dead on Rural Road

POTTSTOWN, Pa., June 19 — (AP) — The body of George Wahl, 51, retired baker and former councilman, was found near his automobile on a country road. The throat was slashed and a razor lay nearby.

The body was found by a daughter, who had been searching for Wahl. His friends said he had suffered financial reverses.

Mr. Stanley Forbes Tells How Cuticura Healed Pimples.

"I was troubled with large pores, pimples and blackheads. The pimples were very hard and red and festered over. They were scattered all over my face. For fifteen years I tried other remedies but with no success.

"I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample. My face started to clear up after using it so I purchased more, and after using one cake of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment I was completely healed." (Signed) Stanley Forbes, River Crest Sun, Astoria, L. I., N. Y., Sept. 16, 1929

There are times when Constipation is unusually depressing

Here is sincere advice for women too sensible to take drastic drugs.

CONSTIPATION is ALWAYS a condition to be gotten rid of as quickly and as thoroughly as possible.

But there are times when an intestinal tract clogged up with waste accumulations, can be particularly disturbing and distressing. Thousands of women have found this to be true; any doctor can confirm it.

Women of all ages have found in Flaxolyn a pleasant and most effective aid in bringing about gentle elimination. When temporary Constipation threatens before or during this sensitive period, it will be well worth while to give Flaxolyn a trial.

Flaxolyn contains no drastic or habit-forming drugs. It is rich in sun-dried and air-dried herbs, which are effectively combined with highly approved vegetable extracts, bile salts and organic medicinals.

Flaxolyn's mild, yet thorough, action upon the intestinal canal is derived from its combination of such potent herbs as Licorice from Spain, Aloes from the Barbadoes Islands, "Sacred Bark" from California, Dandelion Roots, Senna Leaves from Arabia. Flaxolyn also is a mild diuretic to the kidneys, thanks to its African Buchu Leaves and Uva Ursi. This gentle stimulating action holds added benefits to many.

FLAXOLYN

Please Accept This Liberal Offer

For your own sake, do not delay...give Flaxolyn a trial today. In doing so, you do not risk a single penny. Tear out this coupon and hand it to your druggist, who gladly makes this offer: If Flaxolyn does not satisfy you as to results, by the 6th pleasant spoonful, you are at perfect liberty to return the partly-used bottle and get your money back! This certainly is fair to you and shows the great confidence which we have in Flaxolyn.

Real Estate

John A. Higbee has sold to James T. Shay a 12-room brick house at 200-02 Frankfort avenue, West View, and an eight-room frame house at 208 Frankfort avenue on a lot 280x105 feet for $23,000. The buyer deeded in exchange at a value of $25,000 a 100-acre farm in Crawford County, near Saegertown, Pa. The difference was paid in cash. The deal was made through S. V. Thompson of the A. B. Fortescue agency.

One-half acre with three brick houses, a one-story office and a two-story warehouse at Mission and Quarry streets, South Side, has been sold for Samuel Brodie to Morris Craig for $16,000. The buyer will use the warehouse for his business. The deal was made through the Alschlander Krasnow Company.

A large theater building in Potomac avenue, Dormont, has been conveyed by the Hollywood Amusement Company to Warner Brothers Theaters, Inc. The lot is 60x111 feet.

The Duquesne Steel Foundry Company has conveyed to the Continental Roll and Steel Foundry Company three tracts along the Ohio River in Moon Township. The transfer is the result of a recent merger.

In Mt. Lebanon, Peter Donati, builder, has purchased from the Beverly School Land Company, 39x225 feet in Seneca drive, Beverly School plan.

A brick residence and garage in Craftsmont avenue, Twenty-eighth Ward, has been sold by Edmund J. Jubilou to Henry A. Beck. The lot is 54x224 feet.

A house in Whipple street, Fourteenth Ward, at the Swissvale borough line, has been sold by John E. Jones to Harold M. Shields. The lot is 30x110 feet.

In Bellevue, Samuel B. Williams, et al, sold to Helen Sohn, 100x150 feet with a frame dwelling at 219 Woodlawn avenue.

A house in Southern avenue, Nineteenth Ward, lot 25x124 feet, has been sold by Elmer E. Baer to Lemuel E. Jones for $9,500.

A property on the south side of Lowrie street, North Side, lot 25x220 feet, has been sold by John J. Schmidt to Emil E. Miller for $9,000.

Building permit applications included:

Fifteenth Ward—Arthur Vernon, brick and tile dwelling, 6320 Lilac street, $6,000.

Nineteenth Ward—M. Bopa, brick dwelling, 2329 Wenzil street, $5,000.

RESEARCH OF YEARS GIVES RESULTS

Steel Mill Man Finds World's Tonic.

"Nothing I ever got hold of did me as much good as World's Tonic," said Stephen Sohu, who is employed in the steel mills at Brackenridge, Pa. "I guess it must have been the terrific heat and the sudden changes from hot to cold that first started my troubles. My head got stuffy, and when I left the hot mill and got into a colder place I had to breathe through my mouth. After a while I had roaring noises in my head, and my tongue was coated heavily when I got up in the mornings. Soon my stomach began to worry me, and I thought I would have to give up my job because nothing I ate agreed with me. Any medicine I took for it seemed to do no good.

"One of the men in the mill who came from my old home across the ocean told me of World's Tonic. He said it was like some of the medicines in the homeland. I got a bottle, and the first one straightened out my stomach so that I could eat comfortably. I kept right on with it and one morning woke up with my head clear. Since then I have gained in health every day, and now my work does not wear me out. You bet our family tells all the others what a wonderful medicine World's Tonic is."

Hundreds of men working in the terrific heat of the steel mills suffer just as Mr. Sohu did. The sudden changes and the smoky, foggy atmosphere give them no chance to get well unless they find the right help. World's Tonic is the result of years of research to find the medicine that would help correct these very catarrhal conditions, and the testimony of many of your neighbors and friends tell how well it does this for. World's Tonic is a prime favorite with many families right around this neighborhood. It is sold at Dow's, May's & Liggett's, Mayflower, and all other first class drug stores. (A-22)

BYRD ON RADIO TONIGHT MAY TELL OF EXPERIENCES AT SOUTH POLE

We Now Present

By DARRELL V. MARTIN,
Radio Editor.

REAR ADMIRAL RICHARD BYRD may be expected to relate some of his experiences at the South Pole when he talks tonight as guest of honor at the Merchants' Association dinner in New York. KDKA and WJAS will be the Pittsburgh stations.

The two Rudys, Vallee and Wiedoeft, will get together on the Sunshine Hour, WCAE at 8 o'clock.

Inasmuch as Frances Owen had a pecuniary interest in the Dempsey-Tunney fight when Tunney took the so-called long count in Chicago, we may expect him to do a description of this bout with much gusto, WJAS at 8 p. m.

Frances Harrell

Dance music will come from London on the 6:05 broadcast of WCAE. Frances Harrell, famous stunt flier, will entertain KDKA fans at 5:07 and at 11:30 o'clock listeners of the pioneer station will hear a brand new orchestra from the William Penn—Bobby Meeger of the Middle West.

From dog sleds in the Canadian Northwest to grand opera is the story of John Moncrieff, basso, who will sing "Mephistopheles' Serenade" from Gounod's "Faust" over WCAE at 9 tonight.

SUNNY SIDE UP

She was tiny with gorgeous blue eyes.

"Now, there's Cousin Lora," her mother prompted, directing the bit of heaven to WCAE's popular entertainer. "Tell her what you want."

In nervous excitement the child burst into tears.

"Here, here," consoled Cousin Lora kindly as she took the little one into her arms. "What can I do for you?"

More tears and a few sniffs.

Then, "My ambition (sniff) is to sing (sniff, sniff) over the radio (sniff, sniff, sniff)."

"Fine," replied Lora. "And what would you like to sing?"

Sniff, sniff, sniff . . "Sunny Si-i-de Up."

From Syd Weinschenk, Sunday editor, vacationing at Niagara Falls: A postcard of America's scenic waterfall. In the center of the mist a large "X" and on the back of the card this merry inscription: "Wish you were here-X."

Some would say that's not so hot.

MONKEY BUSINESS

Remember we told you about Amos and Andy stock being circulated by Allen Thrasher, clever KDKA announcer. Well, on one of those shares he wrote, "For further information call Hiland 0626." And someone did!

PRESENTING
PHILCO
TONE-CONTROL

PHILCO again steals a march on the radio industry and announces a remarkable improvement in radio reception—CONTROL OF STATION TONE—operated by YOU.

Here is the radio feature you have always wanted—personal, intimate control over the radio TONE QUALITY.

Now, sitting quietly in your own home listening perhaps to the music of the great Philco Symphony Orchestra—or entertaining your guests with the liveliest of dance bands, you can bring in the music the way YOU like it, by the turn of a knob on the front of the set.

Classical music, great singers, famous artists can be heard the way YOU have always longed to hear them; with rich, full sonority, perhaps; or again, you may like your tone as brilliant as a brass band. You can have either, or BOTH, with Philco Tone Control. Again, you may like your favorite dance orchestra bright, crisp, snappy or mellowed down to match the changing mood of a party. Both are yours now, with this wonder-working device.

Speaking voices, momentous messages from our public men, can be brought in with a realism only surpassed by their actual presence. And finally, for the radio stations which come in harshly or accompanied by crackles and buzzes from interfering electrical apparatus, in your particular section, you can subdue the stridency and noise and enjoy many additional fine programs.

Philco Tone-Control
BRILLIANT · BRIGHT · MELLOW · DEEP

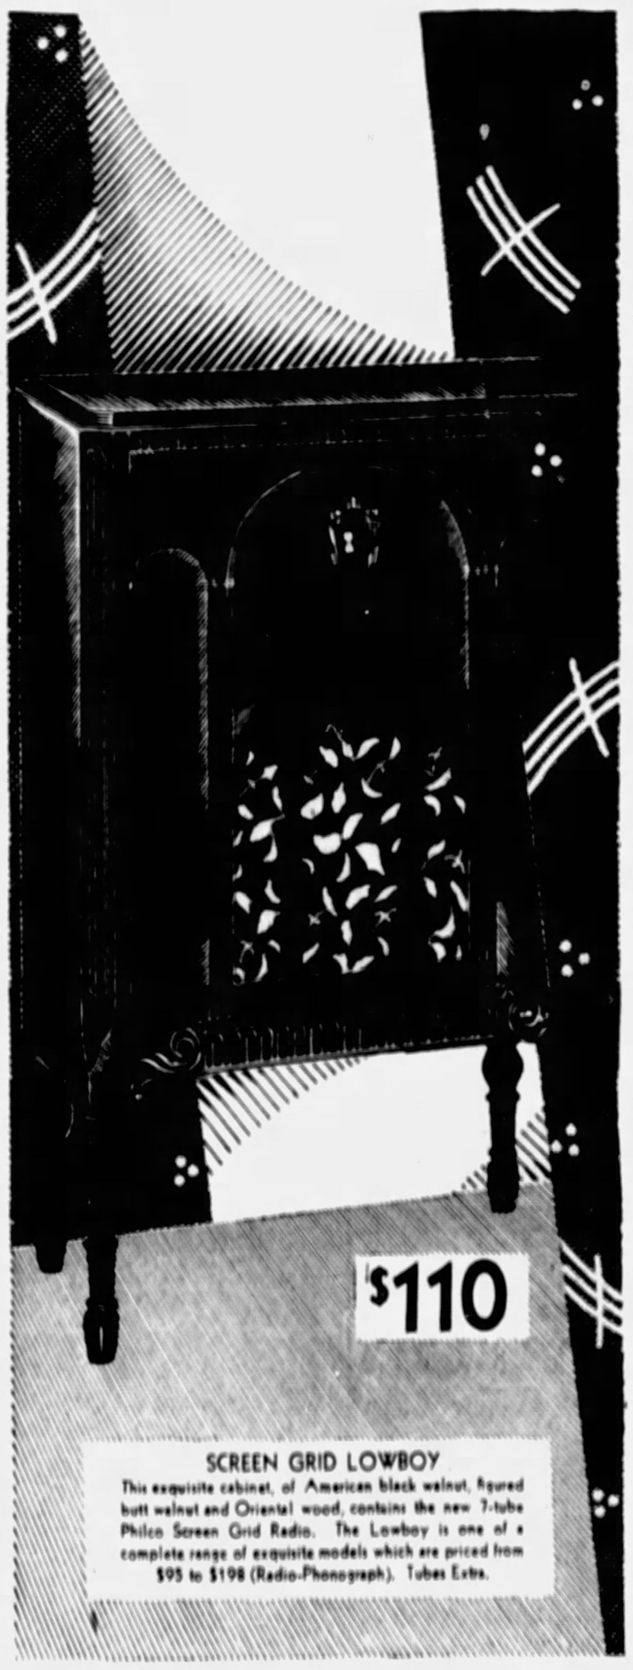
You can turn the Philco Tone Control to these four positions of TONE QUALITY. You can change speech or music to suit your taste. You have a PERSONAL CONTROL over the tone sent you by the station. You operate it yourself with this knob on the front of the set and vastly increase your sphere of radio entertainment. It is truly "radio's newest miracle."

It is the four positions of TONE CONTROL on the new Philco Radios which give you these marvels. At a mere turn of the knob you have reception which is "brilliant"—"bright"—"mellow"—"deep."

Each and every Philco has balanced units which produce the true, clear, UNDISTORTED Philco tone—new, exclusive circuits of great selectivity—wonderful distance range and power—reduction of static and background noises—new, improved electro-dynamic speaker, and a new Station Recording Dial on which you can permanently log your favorite stations.

The Philco Screen Grid Plus has, in addition, AUTOMATIC VOLUME CONTROL, which counteracts fading, so you can not only get, but HOLD and ENJOY, distant programs—enormous power; built-in aerial—a super-radio for those who want EXTRA performance.

These new instruments are housed in beautiful cabinets—furniture of which you can be proud, priced from $95 to $198 (Radio-Phonograph). Philco Radios are available for operation on AC or DC electric current, or by battery. Ask your nearest Philco dealer for a free demonstration of Philco Tone Control today. No obligation, of course, and easy terms when you decide to buy.



SCREEN GRID LOWBOY
This exquisite cabinet, of American black walnut, figured butt walnut and Oriental wood, contains the new 7-tube Philco Screen Grid Radio. The Lowboy is one of a complete range of exquisite models which are priced from $95 to $198 (Radio-Phonograph). Tubes Extra.

"Tell me, pretty maiden—are there any more at home like you?"

THE bold, bad Nineties are here again. Dear, dear, what wicked people. (Laughter!) They took joy rides at 20 miles an hour in their new gasoline buggies. They wore bustles — and everything. Here's a talking picture of those gay old days, with Marion Davies playing one of the famous Florodora Sextette. She has never been funnier! And what with songs and gayety and the pretty Florodora girls, you're going to have the time of your life!

Fun and Fortune for Everyone!

The Movietest
A Game of Skill for Everybody!

As usual, the Sun-Telegraph does the unusual.

Fascinating as it may be—delightful as it is, THE MOVIETEST will mean still more to the readers of the Sun-Telegraph.

THE MOVIETEST is going to be PROFITABLE.

Numerous prizes are being selected—prizes that will be worth winning.

Yet no person entered in THE MOVIETEST will be required to compete against any other person from the standpoint of obtaining subscriptions. It isn't that kind of a contest.

THE MOVIETEST IS "A GAME OF SKILL FOR EVERYBODY."

The schoolboy has the same chance to win as the college professor.

The stenographer has the same opportunity as the bank president.

This engrossing new feature calls upon you to make use of the brains with which you were born. It calls for good, common "horse-sense" — in other words a type of mental ability that is just as apt to be found in a grammar-school pupil as in a university graduate.

Haven't you often wondered just how much natural ability you have?

THE MOVIETEST is your one big chance to find out.

You'll Find Additional Details About This New Feature in Tomorrow's Issue of

THE PITTSBURGH SUN-TELEGRAPH

Note—This Is a New Contest Open to All Readers of the Sun-Telegraph, Whether or Not They Are Participating in the Talking Picture Favorites Contest.

COX CRITICISES G. O. P. POLICY

DAYTON, O., June 19.—(AP.)—The present federal administration is inconsistent in engaging in promoting peace through disarmament and, at the same time, passing a tariff bill which means economic war, James M. Cox, Democratic presidential nominee in 1920 and former governor of Ohio, told the National Association of Retail Grocers convention here last night. He said:

"I am not disposed to blame the President. I think he is as sincere a man as ever occupied the office, but he was caught up in a maelstrom of privileged politics and no man but a super Republican could have swum out."

Baby Meets Death In Watering Trough

BRADFORD, Pa., June 19.—(AP.)—Daniel Arthur Causer, 2, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Causer, of Bullis Mills, near here, was drowned in a barrel of water used as a watering trough for livestock.

BUSINESS CLUB MEET OPENS

READING, Pa., June 19.—(AP.)—The national convention of the American Business Clubs opened here yesterday with 400 delegates present.

The Rotary, Kiwanis, Lions, Exchange, Reciprocity, Monarch and Advertisers' clubs of the city sent representatives to the opening.

Golf and sightseeing were on yesterday afternoon's program. A caravan of motor cars carried delegates to points of interest.

The children can learn to play on a used piano. Buy one at a great saving through the Classified Ads.

HELD AS GIRL'S KIDNAPER

TUPELO, Miss., June 19.—(AP.)—Jack Austin, alias Jack Lambert, arrested in Chicago yesterday, is wanted here for the kidnaping of Miss Anna Mae McCarley, 19.

Authorities said he was charged with placing her under the influence of a drug and taking her to Mobile, Ala., under promise that he would secure work for her. He deserted her there.

She returned home several days later and said the man, who gave his name as Lambert, told her they had been married. He was described as a hosiery salesman.

Joint Boat Ride by Catholic Branches

A joint boatride which will be held by Court Pittsburgh, Catholic Daughters of America, and Pittsburgh Council, Knights of Columbus, this evening on the steamer Washington. Miss Coletta Beck and John McShane are co-chairmen. Dancing and cards will be the amusements.

Steel Treaters to Hold Banquet Here

The annual banquet and reception of members will be held Saturday evening in the Mayfair Hotel by the American Society of Steel Treaters. Preceding the banquet guests will attend the Giant-Pirate game at Forbes Field.

Seventh U. P. Church Will Hold Outing

The annual picnic of the Seventh United Presbyterian Church, Forty-fourth street, will be held Saturday in Rhododendron Grove, Highland Park. A mushball game between the married and single men will be the feature.

BOLTS HIT HOSPITAL AND REFINERY

SIDE WALKS of PITTSBURGH

by WILLIAM PFARR

Elmer Kenyon, who graduated from the faculty of Schenley High School into the lecture ranks of the Theater Guild, had hoped to be on the ocean today, half way to Europe. Elmer, after an active year, has been anticipating the vacation, not only for the advantages of the old country, but so that he may rest his vocal cords for the 1930-31 season. But Elmer has had to postpone the trip; his great Dane, Harry, has rheumatism.

For many, many years Brother Amman, of Duquesne University, has been smoking a corncob pipe. In its tiny clouds of smoke he sees quiet and contentment. He was strolling over Duquesne's campus the other day when his trusty pipe exploded with a sharp snort in four directions. Left in Brother Amman's mouth was the helpless stem. Somehow or other a cartridge had lodged in the bowl of the pipe and when Brother Amman had smoked down to the bottom the cartridge made itself heard. Brother Amman is now smoking cigars.

Whether they're economically sound we don't know, but price-cutting wars are interesting.

The latest one has occurred in a business block in Carnegie. One store offered a novelty toy for $1. Its neighbor immediately marked down the same to 69 cents. A third store put out a 68-cent sign, whereupon a fourth shop offered the piece fo. 59 cents. The toy was that Amos 'n' Andy miniature taxi-cab. And we are going to refrain from saying that the storekeepers are regusted . . . Ain't dat sumpin'?

At the Central police station masters of ceremonies apparently are not held in high regard. Proof: When he was playing at a local theater recently, Dave Appolon was robbed of $28 and a pair of trousers. He reported the theft to police, who described him, on their records, as Dave Apollon, night watchman.

Charles J. Flynn is a young Irishman of Larimer. His hobby is collecting coins and autographed pictures. The other day he sat himself down and dispatched a neat note to none less than the former Kaiser, in retirement at Doorn, Holland, asking his erstwhile majesty for an autographed photograph. Flynn was pleasantly surprised when an early mail brought him the picture and a note from the Kaiser's secretary. Unfortunately, Flynn is Irish, the Kaiser is German and the letter was written in German.

Rud Boulton, assistant curator of birds at Carnegie Museum, goes places and brings back things. His honors he has earned, although the Rotary Club was probably extravagent last week in describing him in its luncheon program as "MR. RUDYARD BOULTON, Assistant Creator of Birds."

Rudy Vallee has worked hard for his fame. In college he tooted the saxophone between classes so that he might pay his tuition. When he organized his own band, he trooped from one-night stand to one-night stand offering music to the masses of the provinces. Success finally greeted him with open arms and today his fame has reached new heights, for the Stein Song, as sung only by him, has been selected as the theme song of the Bridgeville dog track.

BOSTON, June 18.

This sweeping victory of Dwight Morrow is going to give many an anti-dry candidate false encouragement. He was running on something besides a platform. He could have run as a Bolshevik and won. The only thing that will keep other states from following New Jersey's example will be there just ain't any more Morrows.

I said yesterday Daniel Webster wrote the dictionary. Well, these Harvardites have been calling me up before daylight telling me it was Noah Webster and not Daniel. How was I to know? I never read the book. I never could get interested in the thing. Well, anyhow, the mistake will only be noticed in Boston.

Yours,
WILL.

Morgan Learns Anne's Name Through Ruse

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Dean Ward Kent, a successful young college graduate, gets drunk while celebrating on New Year's Eve. His automobile, going at top speed, crashed into another machine and two persons are fatally injured. Kent is charged with manslaughter and sentenced to serve seven years in the penitentiary. Duncan Morgan, a handsome chap who had been a bank clerk, is sentenced to the penitentiary for robbery. He has been in prison before and does not fear the new sentence. Kent is assigned to share a cell with Morgan and "Machine Gun Butch" Schmidt. Schmidt, a hardened criminal, is now serving life for murder. Schmidt takes a pack of cigarets from Kent's pocket and then knocks him unconscious when he calls a guard.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER IV.

Three thousand men who had failed to "beat the rap"—killers, con men, gunmen, sluggers, absconders, embezzlers, dope fiends, burglars—that sinister other limb of society, were herded in the Big House. They were jammed into cells, crammed into workshops, crowded into mess halls. They were fed on tainted meat, beans and prison slum. Their surliness was met with curses, their grumblings with blows and their aggressiveness with solitary confinement in the cooler.

Tower guards nervously paced the prison parapets, always on hair-trigger to release their hellish machine gun bullets, and guards who were not allowed to carry firearms, used their bludgeons at the flimsiest provocation. The warden was openly anxious. Sometimes the general sentiment of the prisoners, who were caged like menagerie animals, manifested itself in a pandemonium of mass yelling, which the guards could not quiet. Here in the Big House the prison code was peremptory and omnipotent. It was more zealously observed among the prisoners than was the law by which so-called decent people live. It was the code of mutual protection. Don't squeal! Don't stool!

Morgan's Interest
Wants to Know Name Of Girl

It was the code of the underworld where the double-cross inspired a swift and violent death. In prison it was the prisoner against the world. And in prison, as in every other walk of life, there were traitors. Kent, who had had his first lesson the night he entered prison and who still felt the dull throb in his jaw where Butch's fist had landed, quickly learned the credo in a hundred little ways. He had learned, too that there was an undercurrent of unrest which preshadowed violence. The prisoners were becoming more bold and brazen every day.

Morgan, who singled Kent out always when they were in the narrow recreation yard, sought by careful questioning to draw from him the name of the girl in the picture. He had never returned the photograph to Kent, but always had kept it close to his heart. Kent had become angered when he found the picture gone the morning after Butch had silenced him, but he dared say nothing. And Morgan admired him the less for it—a man who would wrangle and turn fink over the theft of his cigarets, but who choked down when the picture of his girl was stolen!

Jealousy
Begins to Hate Kent Because of Girl

Morgan surmised that she must be his girl. She did not look like his sister. He had said he was not married. But try as he could, Morgan could learn nothing about the girl. He looked often at the little picture as he held it half concealed in the palm of his hand, and he felt an impulse to demand of Kent that girl's name and address. He began to grow jealous over her and to secretly hate Kent. A week after the boy had entered the prison, Morgan walked over to him in the recreation yard.

"Don't take it so hard, Kid," he began sympathetically.

Kent flared up.

"Don't take it so hard! Hell! This sort of thing might be all right for—er, Butch or men like him. But for me it's different. I never was meant for such treatment and such atmosphere."

"Oh, Butch and the rest aren't so bad. It never meant anything for Butch to knock off a human life. But he's a good guy—most killers are regular guys. Nothing pussy-foot or underhand about them."

"You can't tell me on Butch or—well, he's not my kind. Anyway he bullies me from morning until night."

"I guess if you was walking along with your gal on the outside you wouldn't give me and Butch a knockdown, eh?"

Name Revealed
Kent Angry When Anne Is Mentioned

"Say, damn you, don't bring Anne's name in this!" shouted Kent.

"Anne—Anne—who's Anne?" Morgan was hopeful.

"Anne Marlowe—my fiancee—and don't talk about her—I tell you, don't talk about her in a place like this—I won't have it—"

Kent was excited. Tears welled in his eyes. His body shook with emotion. Morgan was sympathetic:

"There, there, Kid, I guess I know how you feel. You're right—Anne Marlowe shouldn't be brought into any discussion here. Not Anne Marlowe."

He pronounced the name with lingering deliciousness. Kent glanced at him suspiciously. But Morgan was looking away, his lips moving. Anne Marlowe! So that was her name. Anne Marlowe! How simple and beautiful. Just like her picture. Morgan walked away, groggy, paying no further attention to Kent. Morgan passed through the crowd of prisoners, seeing nothing. He strode by without heeding a Mexican who was intoning a paternoster in Spanish, two fine looking men who might have been bankers in the other world; a young boy, thin, tubercular, coughing; two grizzled old-timers cursing amiably between themselves; two Chinese jabbering in their monosyllabic jargon. He walked on until he ran into Butch, who was standing in the midst of his usual group of admirers—Olsen, the Swede; Joe Lajensky, one-time gunman and now a trusty and tender of the prison garden; Dopey, who still got his heroin somehow and sent the drug scorching into his veins through a scratch made with a rusty safety pin, and Putnam, who had killed a man because he wore spats.

"Some day I'll carve the heart out of that skunk Wallace, and

CITY'S HORSES BANNED IN TRIANGLE

Public Works Department Heeds Traffic Appeal, Withdraws All Teams

In response to a suggestion from the Better Traffic Committee, all city work horses are to be banned from streets in the congested Triangle, according to David G. McDonald, superintendent of the city Bureau of Horses. In making the announcement McDonald said:

"The Department of Public Safety and especially the Bureau of Horses are in sympathy with the Traffic Committee's suggestion that the use of horses in the downtown business district not only promotes traffic congestion at peak hours, but also is inhumane.

"When horses have served our bureau for a period of 20 years, the old practice was to offer them for sale to the highest bidder. Rather than sell them into questionable hands for $5 to $15 each, we are now turning such old horses over to the Zoo as a humane method of retirement, and as an aid in reducing traffic congestion.

"Were they not so handled, they would probably find their way into the Triangle in far greater numbers than the number of horses that now frequent that district."

36 GRADUATES AT ASSUMPTION

Thirty-six graduates will receive certificates of promotion to high school tomorrow night at exercises to be held by the parochial school of the Catholic Church of the Assumption, Bellevue. Thomas Malley and Elizabeth Reis have been awarded American Legion medals for excellence in scholarship and leadership. Others to be graduated are Anna Casey, Madeline DeCarlo, Zeta Hayes, Grace Hunt, Elizabeth Hunkele, Eleanor Kikly, Betty Kirk, Betty Roche, Catherine Wasilak, Margaret Weigand, Ruth Amrhein, Flore Collier, Hilda Weigand, Richard Callahan, Joseph Cannon, John Esterline, Edward Holihan, Joseph Horvath, William Mueller, Louis Steitz, John Smith, William McAleer, Joseph Middendorf, Paul Aland, John Bearer, Leo Farmerie, Paul Kern, Paul Farmerie, Walter Sullivan, John Murphy, Frances Mohr, John Lucas, Laurelda Geier, Margaret Pollock.

Business Group Views Highways

A committee of 14 members of the highways and bridges committee of the Chamber of Commerce, with county engineers, today visited for an inspection of important city, county and state highway work under construction in and about Pittsburgh. A special bus carried them from Stanwix street and Penn avenue. The Chamber committee was headed by Henry Tranter, chairman, and A. H. Burchfield.

School Out, Girl Student Flies Home

MIDLAND, Pa., June 19.—Miss Nvedah Curry, senior in the Midland High School, was so anxious to get home when the school term ended that she chartered an airplane and flew from the East Liverpool, O., airport to her home in Huntington, W. Va.

Defended by Girl, 12, Freed in Elopement

Leroy Nichols, 22, of 813 Lorenz avenue, accused of having attempted to elope with a 12-year-old girl of Wymore street, was discharged at a hearing before Magistrate Thomas D. Jones in Morals Court today.

The girl took the stand in defense of Nichols. She said she had misrepresented her age as 19 and had told Nichols that she "wanted to run away."

Nichols declared that the girl had told him that her mother and father were separated and that she worked in a candy factory. Instead she is a pupil at the Westlake public school.

Nichols and the girl drove to Wellsburg, W. Va., in company with Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Loomis, of 813 Lorenz avenue. When Nichols failed to obtain a marriage license because the girl was under 21, the four returned to Pittsburgh.

The complaint against Nichols was brought by the girl's parents, who told Magistrate Jones that they were not separated.

Organizations Plan Boat Ride Tonight

Still and Liquor Seized by Raiders

Prohibition agents raided a dwelling on Lowrie's Run road, Franklin Township, and seized a 100-gallon still and 50 gallons of moonshine and destroyed 2,400 gallons of mash, they reported. William A. Thomssen, arrested in the raid, was released on bond, agents said.

Employes of Bank Hold Island Picnic

The third annual picnic of employes of the Peoples-Pittsburgh Trust Company was to be held in Davis Park, Neville Island, this afternoon. An address was to be made by A. C. Robinson, president of the company. S. C. T. Dodd is general chairman of the outing.

Warn Autoists Against Fake Solicitors

The season for gyp automobile club and insurance salesmen is here, and anyone who doesn't belong to a legitimate club or have insurance with a reputable company is warned by the Pittsburgh Motor Club to beware of high-pressure salesmen operating in this district.

This advice is from C. H. Roth, secretary of the club, which is making an attempt to rid the city and suburbs of operations of representatives of gyp organizations. Already a large number of persons have reported to the club that they purchased memberships in these organizations and insurance for their cars.

Salesmen of fake auto clubs offer membership, towing, road emergency service, reduction in gasoline, oil and supplies for a two-year period at a ridiculously small sum.

Roth asks that anyone believing they have purchased fake insurance or memberships, or have been interviewed by representatives of these organizations, report to him at club headquarters in the William Penn Hotel.

HOUSE ALSO FIRED BY LIGHTNING

Magee Institution Tower Damaged; Flames at Oil Plant Put Out Speedily

A hospital, a refinery and a residence were struck by lightning during the electrical storm which passed over the county last night. Three fire companies were called out to the plant of the Atlantic Refining Company, Fifty-fifth street and the Allegheny Valley Railroad, when lightning struck and set fire to an oil still.

The blaze at the refinery was extinguished with slight damage, firemen using chemicals and steam.

BRICKS TOPPLED

Lightning struck a tower on the Magee Hospital, Forbes and Halket streets, toppling bricks into the hospital driveway. The damage was slight and no one was injured, hospital attaches said. Patients were unaware the hospital had been struck.

The home of Mrs. Elisabeth Hicks, 1107 Stanhope street, was damaged $10, police reported, by fire started by lightning. A bolt struck the roof, igniting the dwelling. Firemen extinguished the flames with chemicals.

PICNICKERS SCATTERED

The storm broke up the annual lawn fete being staged on the community grounds at Beacon street and Shady avenue by the Sisterhood of the Beth Shalom Temple. The affair will be staged again tonight.

The annual outing of Crafton and Ingram residents at West View Park was interrupted by the showers several times during the late afternoon and evening. In Kennywood Park the rainstorm scattered residents of the Tenth Ward attending the picnic of the ward school children. The Kennywood outing also was for the children of the Fort Pitt and Garfield schools.

HALT HEARING IN CONTEMPT

A partial hearing on contempt charges against James F. Richardson, growing out of his failure to answer questions in connection with the Wilmerding tax collector fight, was adjourned by Judge Thomas J. Ford in Quarter Sessions Court until Friday afternoon.

Richardson had testified for two hours before former Judge Thomas J. Prather, who is acting as master in the case, and it was his continued failure to answer certain questions that caused Attorney O. K. Eaton to contend that he be adjudged in contempt of court. The adjournment of the partial hearing was taken in order that Judge Ford might have before him a stenographic account of Richardson's testimony before the master.

Poultry Specialist Holds Culling Tests

H. H. Kaufman, State College poultry specialist, will conduct five culling demonstrations on Allegheny County poultry farms Tuesday and Wednesday. Tuesday morning he will be at the W. N. Clements farm, Trestle road, Unity; Tuesday afternoon on the farms of Henry Hofmeister, Forward Township, and Samuel Simmons, near Mt. Oliver. Wednesday morning he will visit George R. Dunbar's farm, near Brant church, Wexford, and that afternoon the farm of W. H. McNees, Sheriland road, near Imperial.

Legion Auxiliary President Honored

Mrs. A. H. Jennings, Allegheny County president of the American Legion Auxiliary, was to be honored at a bridge luncheon today, tendered her by the New Kensington Post Auxiliary. Gold Star mothers and members of a number of units in both Allegheny and Westmoreland counties were invited. Mrs. Frank McKean, chairman of the luncheon committee, announced.

MAN RETURNED FOR DOPE TRIAL

Joseph Dougherty, 27, a former Pittsburgh taxicab driver, last night arrived from Detroit, Mich., in custody of a deputy United States marshal, and was lodged in jail to await trial in Federal Court on a charge of violating the Harrison narcotic act.

Dougherty, an alleged drug peddler, was said to have jumped a $1,500 bond after being indicted in March, 1929. Last week he was tried in Criminal Court in Detroit on a holdup charge. The jury disagreed, but convicted his wife, it was said. After the trial he was turned over to the Federal authorities to face charges here.

Dougherty was arrested December 10, 1928, by government narcotic agents and city detectives in a Fifth avenue poolroom.

At the time of his arrest he was working as a taxicab driver. Soon after his indictment he disappeared. He formerly resided in Moravian way.

Suspect Held Here For Reading Police

Authorities from Reading, Pa., were expected here today to return William R. Scott, 26, to that city to face a charge of embezzling $1,130, detectives reported. Scott was arrested last night by Detectives Edward McEntee and Clarence Raeder at Penn avenue and Stanwix street, on a warrant forwarded by Reading police. Scott, according to information received here, was alleged to have embezzled the money while in the employ of the Judson C. Burns, Inc.

AWARDS MADE FOR VALOR ON DUTY

Exploits Resemble Fiction, Each 'Getting His Man' Under Overwhelming Odds

By AL GOUGH
Staff Correspondent.

GREENSBURG, Pa., June 19.—They got their man—these six stalwart members of Troop A, Pennsylvania State Police, who are wearing the governor's "medal of honor."

The awards by Maj. Lynn G. Adams, superintendent of state police, here yesterday, brought to light hitherto unpublished acts of heroism, modestly kept by the troopers to themselves. A medal is awarded only after a trooper has been cited five times for bravery or distinguished service. Yesterday's awards were the first in the history of Troop A, whose headquarters has been in this city for more than a decade.

SIX AWARDED MEDALS

The six officers to whom medals were awarded are: Capt. Albert Carlson, commander of Troop A; Lieut. Thomas F. Martin, Sergt. E. T. Cohee, Sergt. Frank Gleason, Corp. William Hanna and Bertillon Operator David A. Drenning.

Their exploits in the line of duty read almost like fiction. There is the citation of Sergeant Cohee, a colorful and dramatic account of this trooper's bravery. The citation itself is brief and to the point, relating how this officer, although wounded three times in a gun battle at Connellsville in February, 1920, brought in "his man." One of Cohee's fellow officers supplied the details. He related:

"Cohee was shot through the lung and fell unconscious while his assailant rained bullets on his prostrate form. One of the bullets hit him in the shoulder and the pain revived him enough so that he raised up and shot his adversary, bringing him in wounded."

Lieut. Martin distinguished himself while still a sergeant. At Natrona in 1918, this courageous officer, braving the gunfire of a barricaded criminal who had defied police for hours, advanced into the desperado's fortified stronghold and captured him single-handed.

Corp. William Hanna's act of bravery was the most recent of the six citations. In Smith Township, Washington County, within the past year, this young officer disarmed and captured single-handed a man who had just shot a constable and had turned the weapon upon the trooper.

VETERAN HONORED

Capt. Carlson, a veteran in state police service, was awarded the medal of honor for distinguished service rendered as head of the training school for five years prior to his coming to Greensburg last March.

Drenning, while still a private, according to the citation, "displayed exceptional bravery and courage" in 1926, when two fellow officers were fired upon and mortally wounded, and although severely wounded himself, he disarmed the two men and assisted his fellow officers to places of safety. In this encounter, Drenning lost the sight of an eye and since has been placed on duty as Bertillon operator attached to Troop A.

Sergt. Gleason's citation relates a story of bravery in connection with the capture of a gang of desperadoes in Ohio in 1923 while Gleason was still a corporal. He rendered distinguished service, according to the citation, in the capture of "Big Jack" alias "Stumpy" Torti and John Torti alias Frank DeMartina, both wanted for murder and robbery.

The Camera Question Box

Today's question—Complaint is heard frequently that Pittsburgh public parks are lacking in amusement devices for children. Should the city provide more of these?

MISS ETHEL SEIGEL, secretary, Squirrel Hill—Yes, I think the city should provide more amusements for the children in the parks. The park is the nicest place that we have in the city for children and could be made much nicer.

Miss Seigel

CHARLIE HAGUE, artist, Squirrel Hill—The city should not put any more money on the park amusements. There are really enough there for the children and the money could be used to much better advantage on some of the roads.

Charlie Hague

JOSEPH WAGMAN, poster printer, Squirrel Hill—There is no more healthful recreation for children than these amusement devices and the city should provide them for those who make use of the parks, thus making the children's day a happier one.

Joseph Wagman

MISS EDNA FETTIS, telephone operator, East End—Yes, I think the city should provide more amusements in the parks. The crowds that go to the parks are certainly large enough to show the need of such additions.

Miss Fettis

FRANK KORTNER, artist, Knoxville—More amusement features in the parks would certainly be desirable. So, also, would improvements in the amusements already there.

Frank Kortner

ARNOLDT DeGARBOLDI, columnist, Squirrel Hill—Not only should there be more amusements in the parks but there really ought to be more attention paid to the parks themselves. If this were done the parks would be much more attractive.

UNVEIL SHAFT TO SOPHIE LOEB

More than 200 friends and relatives assembled Monday at the Westchester Hills Cemetery, Mt. Hope, N. Y., for the unveiling of the monument for Sophie Irene Loeb, well-known social worker and writer.

Dr. Stephen S. Wise, of the Free Synagogue, officiated.

Miss Loeb's mother, Mrs. Mary C. Simon; her two brothers, A. M. Simon and I. A. Simon, of this city, and two sisters, Mrs. William MacMahon and Mrs. Irving Bennett, of New York, attended the services.

Mayor Walker of New York was presented by Montrose Strassburger, assistant corporation counsel. Others present included August Heckscher, president of the Child Welfare Committee of America, a national organization founded by Miss Loeb in 1924 in an effort to bring widows' pensions into every state; Margaret Woodrow Wilson, daughter of the late President and vice president of the committee; Judge Samuel D. Levy, of the Children's Court; State Senator Benjamin Antin, Mrs. E. B. Curtiss, Dr. and Mrs. Warren Smadbeck, Dr. and Mrs. John A. Harris, Dr. and Mrs. Henry Dwight Chapin.

CRASH VICTIMS ASK $35,000

Mrs. Katie Lincof and her husband, Samuel Lincof, of Swissvale, have each entered damage suits against Clinton C. Beach, of Crafton, for a total of $35,000 damages for personal injuries.

The Lincof and Beach cars met in collision in Steuben street, Crafton, November 25 last, through the alleged carelessness of the driver of the defendant's car. It is alleged that Mrs. Lincof was injured so badly, she has since developed a tumorous growth. She was injured in the leg, back and other parts of the body and her husband, back and legs.

Perry High School Gives 131 Diplomas

The fourth annual commencement exercises of Perry High School were held in Carnegie Music Hall last night with 131 seniors being graduated. Dorothy Hargrave was valedictorian and Nan Laudig, salutatorian. Other class leaders to speak were Marie Ulrich and Baldwin Curtis. The invocation and benediction were pronounced by the Rev. William Weller of the Ohio Street German Methodist Church.

'KEEP TO LEFT,' WALKERS TOLD

Pedestrians on highways in this district are urged to walk along the left side of the road, facing traffic, in order to cut down the huge toll of automobile fatalities.

This advice is from Robert L. Wickline, chairman of the highway safety committee of the Pittsburgh Motor Club, who cites Pennsylvania's 74 pedestrian deaths and 820 injuries during the month of May as proof that greater care should be exercised.

In a report just released by the Bureau of Motor Vehicles at Harrisburg, it is revealed that 366 pedestrians were killed and 3,856 injured in collisions with automobiles in this state during the first five months of 1930. Totals of 644 deaths and 13,540 injuries for all types of automobile accidents are recorded for the five-month period. During May 151 were killed and 2,863 injured in all types of auto mishaps.

The motor club official pointed out that in many cases deaths are the result of failure on the part of pedestrians to co-operate with drivers.

WILL APPROVE RAIL TERMINAL

The long-awaited agreement between the city and the Pennsylvania Railroad Company which will put into effect plans for a new terminal and allied street improvement will pass finally at a special meeting of Council tomorrow.

The ordinance was affirmed by Council sitting as a committee yesterday. The affirmation came a few hours after representatives of various public utility companies had served notice that they expected to be reimbursed for damages and expense caused by moving gas and electric lines, telephone conduits, street car tracks and other things.

COST $983,000

The plan scheduled for approval tomorrow is the so-called "XY" project. It will cost the city approximately $983,000.

Sister, 4 Children To Share in Estate

Mrs. Ella M. Donavan, by her will offered for probate today, leaves her home at 62 Chautauqua street to her sister, Catherine Holly, for life, and then to her four children, William H., C. ASKS $125,000 IN CRASH

Lawrence A. Sagone, 4908 Penn avenue, whose left hip was dislocated, nose broken, pelvic bone fractured and four teeth broken in an automobile collision, has filed suit against the Liberty Dairy Cartage Company and the Dairy Cartage Company, High street, for $125,000 damages.

He was badly injured when a truck of the Dairy Cartage Company skidded on the road in Edgeworth October 3 last, crashed into his truck, wrecking it and pitching him into the roadway, while the cars were rounding a curve. Sagone also claims that his lower limbs were paralyzed for a considerable time, following the accident, which he claims was due to the negligence of the driver of the milk tank, which ran into his car. His counsel is Edward F. Schifano.

HIGHWAY DEPARTMENT BLAMED FOR BRICK 'FREEZEOUT'

HUMES QUOTES LETTERS TO ENGINEER

Disputed Specifications Ordered Used on Ardmore Contract; Relief Promised

Instructions for closed specifications on state-aid road building jobs in Allegheny County were issued by the State Highway Department, according to documents found in the department's files, it is stated by Maj. E. Lowry Humes, attorney for protesting independent brick manufacturers.

In letters brought forth for public scrutiny by order of Secretary James L. Stuart at the hearing in Harrisburg Tuesday, Humes says he found a communication from Samuel Eckels, chief engineer of the Highway Department, to H. E. Kloss, district engineer in charge of the work in this county, directing the use of specifications which caused the controversy, said to favor W. A. Bonitz, contributor of $97,000 to the Davis-Brown campaign fund.

ECKELS' ORDER

Excerpts were taken from a letter written March 28, 1930, in which Humes quotes Eckels as saying:

"You are therefore instructed to use 3½x3½ wire-cut-lug brick manufactured from fire clay, as this is the type of brick used throughout that entire district."

The letter referred to the Ardmore boulevard contracts, according to Humes, and the date of the communication, he says, shows that the orders for use of the special quality brick went out before published specifications in April.

SCANS LETTERS

Humes made many notes from letters in the State Highway Department files after these had been turned over by order of Secretary Stuart following the protest of attorneys for Bonitz. The complainants say that they have won a moral victory in obtaining the promise that hereafter paving job specifications will be "liberalized." This, it is pointed out, is a repetition of the action two years ago when a protest was made against closed specifications on William Penn highway jobs in Washington County.

HOPE FOR NEW CAB FIRM DIM

Prospects of Pittsburgh having a new taxicab company soon have been dimmed considerably. Two applicants for incorporation and certificates of public convenience failed to appear before the Public Service Commission for their hearings scheduled yesterday.

The proposed Pitt Taxicab Company incorporators had asked that their hearings be held over until September. Charles B. Prichard, counsel for the proposed Hiland Taxicab Company, asked that their hearing set for yesterday be continued indefinitely, as he is busy in court with other matters.

Another applicant's hearing on incorporation of the Peoples Taxicab Company is set for July 2. This is the preliminary hearing in the case and will mean the last taxicab hearing until fall. The commission does not sit during July and August.

The incorporators of the proposed Peoples Taxicab Company, U. J. L. Peoples and George Wortman, announced during the four-month taxicab strike that they were prepared to begin operation of cabs paying the striking drivers' demand of 40 per cent and closed shop.

The three applications have been protested by the Parmelee Transportation Company.

BORDER PATROL PLAN FOUGHT

WASHINGTON, June 19.—Declaring the United States Treasury Department plans to institute the most elaborate espionage system in history and drive small boat traffic off the Great Lakes, to enforce prohibition, Representative Clancy (Rep.), of Michigan, today began a fight on the administration's unified border patrol bill.

The measure is scheduled to be called up this week in the House, with administration leaders planning to pass it as the final phase of President Hoover's law enforcement program.

Clancy said, if the law is passed, hundreds of thousands will be made violators for touching Canadian shores and returning without going 80 to 100 miles to custom house, even though they have bought nothing. Also every boat on the rivers and Great Lakes may be stoped and searched.

HURT IN FALL, $50,000 ASKED

Catherine Jaske, 243 East Jefferson street, who fell on the "island," a safety zone in the Boulevard of the Allies, at Smithfield street, October 20 last, jarred her body and hurt herself internally, has sued the City of Pittsburgh for $50,000 damages.

She alleges in her bill of complaint that she tripped against a broken plank, which projected about three inches above the surface of the "island," and that the city was negligent in permitting such an obstruction to exist.

Jailed as Mendicant, His Roll Yields $280

Searched after he had been arrested by police today on a charge of soliciting money from Munhall residents, Frank Vkauvich, Pittsburgh, was found to be carrying $280. One roll of bills, police say, contained $210 in $10 and $20 denominations. The other, of $70, was composed of $5 and $10 bills. He is held for hearing.

HOAX IN FIRE DEATH SHOWN

MOBILE, Ala., June 19.—(AP.)—Convinced that Harold Herbert Schroeder is alive, authorities today regarded two letters from him to his wife and a raincoat of the type worn by young students as the most important clues in their effort to find Schroeder and identify a charred body discovered in the ruins of his automobile near Indianapolis, Ind., May 31.

Questioning the wife of the Mobile, Ala., businessman, Sheriff George L. Winkler of Marion County, Indiana, learned that two letters were written from Nashville, Tenn., by Schroeder several days after his car and the body were discovered.

BERLIN SESSION HEARS EDISON

BERLIN, June 19.—(AP.)—An audience of 3,000 in the Berlin "Sports Palace" last night was thrilled at the sound of Thomas A. Edison's voice from over the seas. Edison spoke to the delegates of the World Power Conference, in session here, from Orange, N. J.

Wireless transmission with the United States was excellent both for Edison's greetings and for a hook-up with the National Electric Light Association meeting in San Francisco. From the latter meeting Owen D. Young and Matthew Sloan spoke to the delegates, and from London Guglielmo Marconi and the Earl of Derby.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 19.—(INS.)—Matthew S. Sloan, president of the National Electric Light Association, today had challenged the assertion of American Ambassador Frederic M. Sackett at Berlin that power companies charged excessive prices.

Electricity does not cost the great mass of consumers 15 times what it costs to produce, Sloan said. On the average, the sales price to domestic consumers is not over four times the cost of energy at the power house, he added.

OBITUARY

Friday Funeral.

Funeral services for Mrs. Elizabeth Wilhelm Friday, 88, who died yesterday, will be held at 9:30 a. m. Saturday, at the home, 304 South Graham street. Solemn high requiem mass will be sung at St. Lawrence's Church at 10 a. m. She was born in Pittsburgh and had lived here all her life. She leaves two sons, Harmar and Walter Friday; three daughters, Miss Cora Friday, Mrs. Ginevra Keating and Mrs. James F. Flannery, Jr., and two sisters, Mrs. Josephine Schmidt and Mrs. Lulu F. Lewis.

An 18-word will written on an envelope was probated today.

By it Mrs. Margaret Edgar, of 1021 Highland avenue, North Braddock, receives the entire estate of her husband, William Edgar, "to do with what she pleases."

The estate is valued at $1,800. The will is dated June 10, 1918.

NOISY FOURTH FORECAST

The number of permits granted for the sale of fireworks so far this year indicates that the Fourth of July celebration in Pittsburgh will be bigger and noisier than for many years past.

Director of Public Safety James M. Clark said that he has granted 49 permits for the sale of fireworks and has 30 more applications on file, a total twice as great as the number last year.

A city ordinance prohibits the use of fireworks by any except patriotic organizations under the supervision of skilled men. No ordinance prohibits their sale.

Director Clark said:

"When fireworks are sold, I don't see how people can be prevented from using them."

Comiskey's Nephew 'Taken For a Ride'

CHICAGO, June 19.—(AP.)—Elmer J. Whitman, a nephew of Charles A. Comiskey, owner of the Chicago White Sox baseball team, was "taken for a ride," robbed of $46, and dumped out of his abductors' motor car near Danville, Ill., last night. It is believed he was mistaken for someone else and released after the kidnapers realized their error.

Charges Husband Already Wed, Files Suit

Pretty Eva Marie Page, Atwood street, who claims her husband, Frederick Page, had another wife when he married her in Savannah, Ga., December 7, 1927, has asked Judge George V. Moore to grant her a divorce.

Mrs. Page, 22, told his honor that she made the discovery of her husband having another wife, shortly after their marriage. A certificate, showing a license had been issued in Rochester, N. Y., to Frederick Page and Ellen G. Wilson did not quite satisfy the court, who postponed the hearing, until a more complete record could be obtained.

FASTEST PLANE LEADS PARADE

The mystery ship which broke all speed records between Pittsburgh and New York, was to fly over the downtown district today and give Pittsburghers a chance to see what is said to be the fastest commercial plane in the country. The plane flew from New York to Pittsburgh yesterday in 1 hour and 50 minutes.

"Red" Jackson, holder of the world's endurance record of 18 days in the St. Louis Robin was to fly the mystery ship over the city today, leading the aerial parade of Curtiss-Wright stunt fliers here for a two-day exhibition at Bettis Airport Saturday and Sunday. Today's parade was to begin at noon.

The ships will circle the city twice, according to plans, coming down the Monongahela River from Bettis airport, banking around the Point and up the Allegheny River, probably as far as Aspinwall, then turning back over East Liberty and swinging downtown for another circuit before returning to Bettis.

POSTAL PROBE AIDE NAMED

WASHINGTON, June 19.—(AP.)—A 30-year-old veteran of the Teapot Dome and lobby investigations has been called upon to the assistance of another Senate committee.

He is John Holland, of Montana, whose work as investigator for the Lobby Committee so impressed Senator Blaine, of Wisconsin, that he has been employed to help uncover any fraud that may exist in approximately 600 postoffice leases.

Holland is now busily engaged in winding up the affairs of the Lobby Committee, which expired after the examination of Bishop James Cannon, Jr.

Blaine said today information concerning the leasing of about 600 postoffice sites in the larger cities had been obtained by the committee and that the next step would be learning the financial details of the leases. Hearings will be started within a few weeks.

LINK OFFICIAL IN KIDNAP RING

DETROIT, June 19.—(AP.)—Detroit police today announced they had obtained confessions involving a high police official and a prominent attorney from Joseph (Legs) Laman, convicted kidnaper, and other members of Laman's gang of kidnapers and murderers.

Laman told a story of the kidnaping racket in Detroit covering almost 10 years' reign of terror which culminated last year in the kidnaping and murder of David Cass.

Hundreds of thousands of dollars ransom money was collected.

Laman said he decided to tell all he knew after he found he was "double-crossed" by the police official in the kidnaping of Harry Cohn, retired furniture dealer. Laman said $20,000 ransom money was left in an automobile and taken by the police official.

'Highmont' Scene of Wedding

Home weddings, church weddings, garden weddings with petals drifting through flower-scented June sunshine enhance the enchanting days of June.

This afternoon at 5:30 o'clock at "Highmont," the stately home of the Daniel M. Clemsons, Elisabeth Harding Christie, daughter of the Lindsay Robert Christies, of Denniston avenue, is becoming a bride. And the bridegroom is Richard Ernst Clemson, grandson of the Clemsons, and the son of Mrs. John Barton Luckie, of Kinsman road.

The home is decorated with delphinium, gladioli, and American beauty roses, arranged in vases and baskets.

The bride, whose father is giving her in marriage, is wearing a regal wedding gown of ivory satin, fashioned in the princess mode with a court train of the satin and long tight-fitting sleeves, embroidered with seed pearls. Her veil of tulle has a headdress of pearls, and her flowers are white orchids and lilies of the valley.

Eunice DuPuy, of Indianapolis, Ind., whose grandmother, Mrs. Herbert DuPuy, gave a debutante entertainment for her several seasons ago when she came out, is the bride's only attendant. She is appearing in a distinctively simple gown of turquoise blue georgette, made in the princess mode, with a brief train. Her hat of horsehair is of a deeper shade of blue, and her flowers are talisman roses and white bouvardia.

L. Harding Christie, brother of the bride, is best man, and Wilson Book, of Sewickley, Joseph Wood Oliver, Frank McKown and Aiken W. Fisher are ushers.

The officiant at the wedding is the Rev. W. I. McEwan, of the Third Presbyterian Church.

Following the wedding attended by members of the two families and a few friends, will be a reception. For the dinner, the bride's table, laid for 25, is centered with summer flowers and lighted by white, blue and pink tapers.

Following a European wedding trip, the Clemsons will be at home in Morewood Gardens in October.

Last evening the J. Barton Luckies, of Kinsman road, gave the rehearsal dinner in the University Club, and yesterday afternoon Eunice DuPuy, Louise Reed and Frances Fitzgerald entertained for the bride and Wednesday evening Jane Allderdice entertained for her.

Elisabeth Childs, daughter of Mrs. Clinton L. Childs, of Sewickley, has just named her aides for her debut tea dance to be given Monday in the home of her grandmother, Mrs. James G. Pontefract.

Names Aides

Elisabeth McKay, Laura Collord, Ruth Willock, Madelaine Alexander, Nancy Craig, Marianna and Adele Lippincott, Martha Leggate, Barbara Irwin, Margaret Brill and Elizabeth Miller will be their sister bud's aides.

Very gay and colorful was the scene at the Harmarville Convalescent Home yesterday afternoon when the officers and various women interested in the home had a tea there at 3 o'clock to celebrate the home's seventeenth anniversary.

The long, spacious sun parlors were cheerful with cretonnes, featuring bright splashes of blue and gold, and with hollyhocks in tall vases and lovely pink and white peonies in round baskets which were placed about the rooms and in front of the mantels. Fragile yellow and white snapdragons in small bowls added another colorful touch. Tea was served in the dining room after a general tour of the home.

The home, by the way, is for convalescent mothers and children. Representing the different schools forming the Federation of Girls' School Societies, which maintains the home, were the presidents of the school society.

I saw Miss Helen Rauh there and she wore an ensemble of shell pink crepe with a border of deeper pink, and a garden hat of white straw lace with a pink velvet ribbon.

Mrs. Willis Stevenson wore white flowered silk and a blue garden hat. Mrs. H. Hughart Laughlin I saw, and she was wearing a striking costume of black and white crepe with white trimming, and a long white scarf effect and a black hat. Lucretia Billings in red and green flowered crepe with a black straw hat brought her house guest, Mary Gene Smith, of Detroit, and she was wearing a red and white printed crepe frock with a cape collar and smart red leather belt. And she chose a white straw picture hat with a green band to complete her costume.

Summer Gowns

Mrs. Lee Barnes wore a frock of black and white printed crepe with black straw hat, and Mrs. George Singer Ebbert, president of the board of Harmarville, wore an afternoon dress of blue and white foulard and a hat of pirate blue straw. Martha Arnold wore blue embroidered crepe with a cape collar and white straw hat, and with her was Mary McAteer, in blue crepe with a pleated skirt and a cape collar. Her hat was of blue straw, with a wide brim. Mrs. Clarence Steffey wore a blue crepe ensemble with a white felt hat.

Officers Attend

Eleanore Hord was wearing blue crepe with a black straw hat, and Mrs. Benjamin Page, a gray crepe suit and a gray baku hat. Mrs. J. H. Diehl, Jr., wore a smart yellow knitted ensemble with a brown baku hat, and Mrs. Reginald G. Quaile, a suit of beige jersey, with patch pockets of brown, and a beige felt hat. With her was Marjorie Kimball, in a blue and yellow printed crepe with a pleated flounce around the skirt and a pleated peplum. With it she wore a blue baku hat.

Mrs. Kenneth McClung wore green chiffon with white polka dots, and a ruffled chiffon collar and cuffs, and a black straw hat. Mrs. Howard McCabe, in charge of fancy work in the sun parlor, wore sky-blue chiffon and eggshell lace, and a blue horsehair picture hat. Nancy Wise arrived late, wearing a red linen frock with a smart jacket of red and white printed linen with a white straw lace hat.

I saw Mrs. Harold A. Miller, too, wearing blue voile with large white coin dots, and a black straw hat. Mrs. George Kahl wore orchid crepe with a white straw hat, and Mrs. C. W. Lepper wore an extremely smart natural shantung ensemble with an eggshell straw hat, and Lillie Reed wore white dotted crepe with a cape collar and white hat. Mrs. Mary Hutchinson appeared in an afternoon gown of orchid crepe, with a scarf of orchid chiffon, and a hat of pansy velvet.

Colors Popular

I saw Mary Childs and Mrs. Wallace Hurtle Rowe, Jr., as they came in, and Mary wore yellow shantung with a circular skirt and cape collar, and a biege flannel coat. Her hat was a coarse yellow straw, and Mrs. Rowe wore a peach shantung suit, with a white crepe blouse, and a biege felt hat. Margaret Bander wore pirate blue crepe with a flared skirt, white collar and cuffs and a black horsehair hat. Mrs. Charles Colbert, whom I saw looking at the babies, wore yellow silk piqué, sleeveless, and a yellow felt hat.

Romaine Billings wore flowered silk. I saw Virginia Wright there, too, wearing an interesting suit of brown wool crepe with an open-work white blouse and an eggshell turban.

Suits' Vogue

With Mrs. Paul B. Ernest, who wore blue shantung and a sand color felt hat, was Mrs. Allyn Whaley, wearing beige shantung with an eggshell straw hat, and Mrs. John Follansbee was with her, wearing blue and white dotted crepe with a white collar, and cuffs on the brief sleeves, and a white straw hat. Jane McEldowney chose a chic frock of blue and white knitted fabric, with a smart band of white around the neck, and a hat of eggshell straw.

I also saw Mrs. Joseph Kuntz and Mrs. W. Y. Cocken, and Mrs. Frederick Billings, who wore a suit of pastelle blue crepe and a hat of eggshell straw.

Today I know of the plans for another young girl's debut, that of Elizabeth Booth Miller, daughter of the William Booth Millers, of Pine road, Sewickley. Her father and mother will give a tea dance for her in the Allegheny Country Club on Thanksgiving Day.

Debut Dance

And another bit of news. Invitations have been issued for the wedding of Jane Edson, daughter of Mrs. John Joy Edson, Jr., of "Joy Gardens," and William Dudley Livingston, son of the John Griswold Livingstons, of Lawrance, L. I., which as I've said before, will take place July 5.

The wedding will take place in the garden of the Edson home, followed by a reception. After August 1 the bride-elect and her fiance will be at home in Orchard lane, Edgeworth.

This afternoon Mrs. Howell C. Cooper is giving a tea in her Sewickley home in honor of her debutante daughter, Mary Ernst Cooper, and a classmate of Mary's at Vassar, Elizabeth Gaston, of New York, who is her house guest.

Ideal Club Woman Must Be Loving and Bit Looney, Mothers' Group Told

In order to be an ideal clubwoman one must be loving, keep limber and a bit looney, Mrs. David Denman, nominee for the State Legislature and president of the Westmoreland County Federation, told the Mothers' Club of Carrick yesterday. The basic ingredients are the same in all clubs, just as they are the same in all cakes, Mrs. Denman went on, adding that the woman who goes into club work for what she can get out of it is a failure. The cultural club is dying and should be interred with proper ceremonies, the speaker said. Mrs. Denman, by the way, is the only woman attorney in her county.

She spoke of club work in terms of childhood games—I spy, which she spelled eye-spy, meaning observation; stage coach in which every one changes in order to get a new viewpoint and follow the leader, which means loyalty to leadership as distinguished from following the crowd without individual thought.

The occasion was the Mothers' Club annual luncheon in the South Hills Country Club where covers were laid for 87. Mrs. James A. Smith was toastmistress, and introduced Mrs. Denman; Mrs. Robert A. Schneider, the retiring president; Mrs. O. H. Graf, the incoming head; Mrs. John M. Phillips, honorary president; Miss Dorothy Sexauer, president of the Girls' Auxiliary, and little Rose Marie Demestichas, president of the Junior Girls, all of whom spoke. Miss Helen Becker, accompanied by Miss May R. Baxmyer, furnished the music—soprano solos, beautifully done.

EVENING WRAPS WILL BE LENGTHENED IN AUTUMN

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, JUNE 19.—It is a duty and not a diversion to visit the various collections now, for most of them include coats and evening wraps created for the autumn, and style must of necessity always be several jumps ahead of the thermometer. Although it really is too early and also too warm to actually become enthusiastic over the mode for next autumn, we really believe that brown and yellow in various shades will be very much to the fore, with black of course, as the staple color. Evening wraps will emerge from their short state and will once more be long dignified affairs plentifully betrimmed with handsome furs, and elaborately cut and detailed. These wraps really typify the formality of evening functions beyond all other modes and their appeal is therefore perennial and real. The fur trimmed cloth coat is another garment that never fails in appeal and pleasing service, and not even the smartest suits can dislodge its place in our hearts and our wardrobes.

MADAME JENNY used much yellow in her autumn and winter collections, and so popular did it prove with her clients that she has given it strong representation again in her current showing. The model sketched is a coat of yellow velours de laine with a large, rolling shawl collar of beaver. There is only one pocket, but it is an important patch affair with two buttons. Across the back of the coat is a stitched yoke cut in three deep points, and pointed, stitched piecings trim the sleeves.

* * *

SINCE WE ARE in the warm regions of the mode and are showing you fur trimmed coats we will complete our expedition into autumn by showing you a sketch of one of Patou's new evening coats and much admired in his new collection. It is a handsome model of chocolate colored velvet, lavishly trimmed with heavy beige fox. The three pointed panels bordered with fox at the skirt edge are separated at the hemline and if worn with a long skirt the effect is as good as it is in the sketch where the skirt is entirely covered. This model has already been ordered in black velvet with black lynx also with silver fox trimming and so can be regarded as a representative model.

Powder Won't Hide Disgusting Pores

Now don't worry over large pores, unsightly blackheads, wrinkles and perspiration that makes the skin shiny and oily. Out in Hollywood they have the recipe for an amazing lotion that quickly corrects these flaws and makes the skin beautiful. It succeeds even when the finest special soaps and creams have failed.

The very minute you pat it on the face and neck it gets down deep into the skin and cleans out the dirt that solidifies in the pores and causes blackheads. Gently it tightens up the skin, erases wrinkles and closes the pores.

Soon, very soon, this lotion makes the skin smooth, good-looking and thereafter keeps it youthfully fresh. You'll notice, too, that oiliness has disappeared and perspiration doesn't bother you any more.

Get 3 ounces of Orchard White from any druggist, mix it with the juice of 2 lemons. This gives you a full quarter-pint of the finest preparation you have ever used. Try it.

Note: In the summer this lotion keeps the skin soft, free from freckles and guards against that rathery look caused by wind and sun.

THEATERS GET NEW PICTURES TODAY AND TOMORROW

"The King of Jazz" opens in the Stanley today with Laura La Plante, John Boles, Jeannette Loff, Nell O'Day and the Tommy Atkins sextet featured. Music in the film is by Paul Whiteman and his famous band.

Old magazines and newspaper clippings were used by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer architects in constructing a replica of the old Casino Theater in New York as it was in 1900 when the Florodora sextet held full sway. The theater set was used in "The Florodora Girl," Marion Davies' new picture which comes to the Penn tomorrow.

MUSICAL PICTURE

low with Vivienne Segal, Walter Woolf, Noah Beery heading the cast. The feature is entirely in technicolor.

Richard Arlen, Jack Holt and Fay Wray head the cast of "The Border Legion," Zane Grey's romance of the West during the gold rush days which will feature the screen bill in Aldine beginning tomorrow.

All Quiet on the Western Front" will continue for another week beginning Monday on the Pitt screen.

FILM OPENS MONDAY

The world is a small place after all, particularly on film lots. It was proved during a location shot for Radio Pictures' "The Fall Guy." During the shot, which had a New York locale, the sound record was ruined by some taxis in Constantinople. "Fall Guy" will be shown in the RKO Sheridan Square next week.

Mary Pickford's Decision To Start Over Only Costs $200,000!

By HARRISON CARROLL.

(Copyright, 1930, by Premier Syndicate.)

HOLLYWOOD, June 19.

DOZENS OF RUMORS have been circulated as to why Mary Pickford quit work on "Forever Yours" after $200,000 had been spent on the picture. Mary today broke her silence and gave me her own version of the affair.

First of all she spiked the report that the story will be discarded.

"I like it now better than ever," said Mary. "I have the whole picture visualized in my mind, and I know the flavor of each scene."

Dressed in flaming red with her blonde bobbed hair combed back crisply from her forehead, the star appeared youthful in her enthusiasm. With characteristic precision she came to the point.

Mary Pickford

"I saw I wasn't getting this flavor, so I simply turned back. The part of my leading man, Mr. McKenna, also needs to be built up. If he isn't made sympathetic, the audience will never understand the deep love that comes to the girl and the boy. And if they don't understand this love, they won't accept my taking him back after he has been untrue to me.

"Modern women in the audience would say, 'Well, she's foolish. Why doesn't she get her another nice fellow.'"

Mary has sent for Sam Taylor to do the new version of the story and to direct her. Concerning the release of Marshall Neilan and the work of Barney Glazer, her scenarist, she declares that in her opinion a director and a writer can be miscast just as well as an actor.

A close friend of Mary's tells me that $200,000 will mean little if it insures a more popular picture. It is pointed out that an indifferent success might gross $1,250,000 while a real hit would make $2,000,000.

Yes, they talk in those figures in the movies.

NOT SO DUMB

They're telling a swell story on Jack Oakie. Some time back he went to the Paramount executives to ask for more money.

Having heard this before, they went smoothly into action. Jack shouldn't worry. He's young and just starting out. Stories are the main thing right now. He's going to be built up as a star. He'll get the best.

Jack Oakie

"Say, wait a minute," interrupted Jack. "I'm not worrying exactly, but you fellows have got to remember that Jackie Coogan retired at eleven."

AL'S STILL HERE

It seems that Al Jolson didn't go to New York to the fight after all. He lost his money right here in Hollywood.

But that's small change to this redoubtable financier. Al relates that his picture "Say It With Songs," which wasn't his best by any means, has grossed $1,800,000 up to date. It cost $400,000 and Al gets a 10 per cent royalty. This is in addition to the $150,000 he received in salary from Warners.

He's got a veritable Midas touch. This Jolson. Receiving a w from a friend in New York t "Penny Arcade" was great ma rial for the movies. Al bought t play. Then he turned around an sold it to Warners for a profit.

From present indications, Ruby Keeler may be working again too. She's taken a test at United Artists and Al says they're crazy over her. She's being considered for the lead opposite Chester Morris in "The Bat Whispers," which will be Roland West's next picture. It seems that United Artists wasn't able to purchase the dialogue rights to "The Bat," so this is a substitute.

FARMING BY FILM

J. Harold Murray, Fox actor, has the system. He owns a 200-acre farm back in Connecticut, and he likes to know how everything is getting along. Instead of poring over figures and hearsay from his overseer, he runs off weekly reports on the screen. Before leaving the East, he provided his caretaker with a portable movie camera and instructed him in the art of photography. Now, when there's a new litter of pigs, a repair on the barn or a fine stand of grain, the overseer records the scene on celluloid and sends it on to Murray in Hollywood.

HOLLYWOOD AT A GLANCE

One of the honored guests at Bebe Daniels' wedding was William Hazel, a cabinet-maker at the Paramount studio. When Bebe used to work over there he made furniture for her dressing room. For a long time now Bebe has been remembering him at Christmas and on Saturdays. When her engagement to Ben Lyon was announced, she sent him a telegram asking for his blessing. . . . June Clyde, R-K-O player, and Thornton Freeland, the director of "Whoopee," are seen constantly together at Hollywood affairs. They'd better watch out or somebody will say they're engaged. . . . Nancy Carroll's younger sister, Theresa, is out here to crash the movies. She worked on the stage with Nancy in the East. . . . Leila Hyams has joined the Malibou Beach film colony. She has rented a house formerly occupied by song-writers. They say you can still hear the echoes. . . . Molly Malone, who used to be Will Rogers' leading woman in the silent films and who was at Sennett's for a while, is now working in the photography department at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. She quit the pictures upon her marriage. Yes, that's all over now. . . . Jack Gilbert's shaved off his mustache, if you care.

Everybody has it ... Astring-o-sol corrects it

That youthful complexion is no protection against Morning Mouth—but just try Astring-o-sol!

THE beauty and bloom of youth are no protection against that dark brown, waking-up taste known as Morning Mouth. But fastidious people have found a perfect corrective in Astring-o-sol.

You simply shake a few dashes of Astring-o-sol in a quarter-glass of water—then gargle, and swish it thru your teeth.

The effect is magical. Morning Mouth disappears. The breath is purified. Dry, sluggish throat and mouth tissues are cooled, stimulated, refreshed and waked up. And you feel pepped up and fit, too.

Astring-o-sol's remarkable effectiveness is due to its concentration—which makes it (1) do more—you can use it in any strength required—(2) cost less to use—a 4-ounce bottle makes 12 pints of refreshing mouth wash—and (3) taste better—you can dilute it to your personal taste.

Moreover, Astring-o-sol is an antiseptic and astringent. Dentists everywhere prescribe it; and it is the arch enemy of those tiny germs that cause so much illness.

Try a bottle today and you will wonder how you ever got along without it!

WALTER WINCHELL On Broadway

It Seems So Strange

It seems so strange—I hardly can believe
Release has come, that I have ceased to care.
It seemed that I would always have to grieve,
That pain and tears would always be my fare;
And now this rest: this blessed healing sleep
Has come to me, and I no longer weep.

I know this now: that tears are wasted things;
That kisses are but gestures of the hour;
That love is but a hummingbird whose wings
Are poised to bear you to another flower.
The things I used to think were true and fine
Were only true as long as you were mine.

Your sophistry I never did accept.
My loyalty and love you could not know.
I grieve more truly now than when I wept,
But for a different reason my tears flow.
It's that I saw you standing by the door,
And knew I did not love you any more.

Squelch

Added to our Crisp Cracks from Caustic Critics department is this from George Martin. It concerns the would-be dramatist who annoyed a dramatic critic for an opinion on his script so persistently that he finally elicited the following reply:

"My dear sir: I have received and read your manuscript. Oh, My Dear Sir!!!"

Alibi

A noted musical comedian was recently the victim of a critic's barbs. The critic averred that the comic wasn't that comical.

"Golly!" ejaculated a rival, "did you see the poke that guy gave you?"

"That doesn't worry me," was the retort indifferent. "I found out that critic's passion. He likes to see old women run over."

Quiteso, Quiteso

At the Abbey Club the other sunup, "Jean" Mallin, the mistress of ceremonies, was urged to check his hecklers.

"Squelch them with a mean crack," advised an admirer, "when anyone belittles you belittle them back."

"I'm afraid if I do," pouted Mallin, "that some tough guy will pull out a gun and it will go click!"

"Say," interrupted Bugs Baer, "you'll be all right if it only goes click."

Swifty

Another Bugs Baer pip is said to be almost any baseball player's pet story. It dealt with Ping Bodie, listed as the game's poorest runner — the slowest man on his feet. One game Ping attempted to steal home from third and was caught by plenty yards. Baer's comment was:

"Bodie had larceny in his head, but his feet were honest."

Observation

You probably have heard of temperamental stars who refused to appear because their names weren't billed in larger type than a competitor's, but you probably never heard of a chef being featured over the talent and orchestra appearing in the same restaurant.

In the 70s, however, on Broadway, a restaurant snubs the entertainers and horn-tooters in its electric sign, which announces that the place has a renowned chef, whose curry and rice is grade A. The chef, whose name escapes us for the paragraph, was the chef on what once was the President's yacht, the Mayflower.

By Way of Report

Although Broadway's largest and newest talkie theater is a bust, as are several other talkie houses, there still are many actors who consider Broadway second to Hollywood. Billy Gaxton, of the "Frenchmen" show, tells it. Several years ago a pal wished him luck and hoped to see him a success some day. Since then Gaxton has struggled and won recognition. He played everything in vaudeville. He was featured in "The Connecticut Yankee" and other musical hits and finally won a huge assignment in "Fifty Million Frenchmen." It was a tough climb, but there he is, perched high in a New York success.

The pal, just back from Hollywood, met Gaxton for the first time in years the other day.

"I'm in a big hit, kid; come and see me," said Gaxton.

"I know," was the mournful answer, "but what on earth are you doing on Broadway?"

How Irksome

A Broadway couple who recently went phffft after a two-year blazing romance, were irked no end because the fact was recorded here. The day following publication the gal phoned her ex-honey boy.

"I want you to do me one more favor," she asked him. "I want you to be seen with me in every night club this week before I leave for California, just to show that guy and the crowd how inaccurate his column is."

The stranded sweetheart, who still adores her, agreed, and unfolded the tale to us.

"It cost me between three and four hundred dollars to take her around that week," he moaned, "and every place we went to they told us you had just left!"

Slanguage

A Mr. D. Cooper proffers this gangster slang, some of which is new to this department. "To go Waverly," he reports, "is to disappear." "A right guy" or "a right town" is a person or a town official who can be fixed. A "cannon" is a pickpocket (we always thought it meant a pistol); "on a whiz" means that a pickpocket is on his way to work. "Ironed out" or "heeled" means to carry a gun, and "a wrong weed in the garden" is a stranger in the mob who doesn't look kosher (right)."

O, Mr. Wilstach!

Suggested for Frank J. Wilstach's simple dictionary: Herbert Hoover's: Economic health, like human health, requires prevention of infection as well as cure of it. Dorothy Herzog's: The violinist squeaked like church shoes. Phil M. Daly's: As successful as a blind exchangeman in a dark projection room searching for a Negro exhibitor who isn't there. . . Harry Beresford's: About as popular as pigs in Palestine. . . G. K. Chesterton's: Marriage is an adventure—like going to war. . . and Weare Holbrook's: An egg should be conventional—like a Tiller girl.

A Form of Criticism

George Jessel apparently isn't a Hollywood fan. He was among others who went to the depot the other day to see Mrs. Gus Edwards off to the coast.

"Is there anything," asked Mrs. Edwards, "I can do for you out there?"

"Yes," was the snippy retort, "be sure and don't give anybody my regards!"

Injured in Fall, Asks City to Pay

B. M. Pekich, 2748 Queensboro avenue, who slipped on the icy pavement March 27, last, at Queensboro and Bayridge avenues, Brookline, has brought suit against the City of Pittsburgh for $10,000 damages for a broken arm, he sustained in the fall. He claims the pavement was uneven and ice was allowed to form.

THE THERMOMETER TEST!

Another proof of KELVINATOR'S Faster Freezing

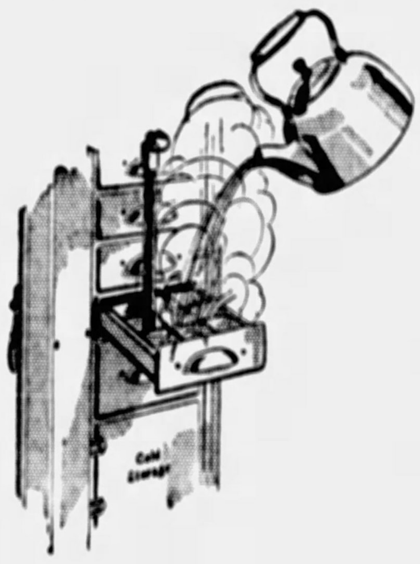
BOILING water reduced 100 degrees in 5 minutes! Amazing—but Kelvinator does it. And we invite you to come and watch it done! Actually see the mercury slide quickly down the tube as Kelvinator, world's fastest-freezing refrigerator, does its work.

This week we are demonstrating Kelvinator's new Automatic Super-Fast Freezing—the Kelvinator feature which makes ice in less than half the ordinary time. In 80 minutes, Kelvinator freezes water to solid ice! Only Kelvinator provides this automatic super-fast freezing—because Kelvinator alone has the famous Iso-Thermic Tubes.

This is one of the features of the new 4-Way Cold Kelvinator, providing four separate and entirely automatic degrees for—(1) extremely fast automatic freezing of ice and desserts; (2) a special Cold Storage compartment with below-freezing cold for keeping meats, fish, game, ice cream, etc. indefinitely; (3) steady cold for freezing regular ice supply; (4) controlled cold in food compartments always below 50 degrees.



Special Offer During Entire Demonstration

This handsome 3-coated porcelain Kelvin Cooler, with close-fitting lid and chromium faucet, adaptable to the cooling of water or freshening of vegetables, will be given to every purchaser of a Kelvinator Electric Refrigerator during the period of demonstration. An attractive accessory for your refrigerator. See it on display in our showrooms.

FREE A New Kelvinator

To Be Given Away During 10-Day Demonstration

At our showrooms, during this remarkable 10 day demonstration, coupons will be distributed. At the close of the demonstration, a Kelvinator will be given away absolutely FREE and without obligation. This Kelvinator is the latest model, porcelain finish, with nearly 9 square feet of food shelves, special bottle shelf and improved rubber Flexo tray. 42 ice cubes at a freezing. No obligation—only Kelvinator employes are excluded from this opportunity to secure a free Kelvinator. Don't miss this opportunity. Come in today!

TELL IT TO SALLY

By SALLY MARTIN

Should a Girl of Fourteen Have Boy Friends?

Fourteen and full of riot. That's Adena.

What's the big bogie in her life? The folks refuse to let her go out and paint the town red.

Adena's a big girl, she thinks. And she wants to have dates and go dancing and riding in the moonlight.

But Dad and Mom say "no" and stick to it.

"Do you think it's fair to keep me from all the good times the other kids are having?" she asks indignantly. "Don't you think I'm old enough to go out with boys?"

Altogether, Adena's feeling badly picked on. Take it from her state.

"Dear Sally:

"I read your column every day and because you answer so many questions I'm coming to you with a problem, too. I hope you will help me, because it's my goal.

"I am 14 years old and am considered attractive. I could go out, I know, and have just lots of fun. But the trouble is my folks won't let me. I have no privileges that I think a girl 14 should have. When I want to go out with the other young folks, the answer I receive is 'no,' and never any explanation of why I can't go. I'd like to go to a show in the evening, sometimes with a boy, but I'm never allowed to. Don't you think a girl 14 ought to have boy friends?

SHE'S BIG GIRL NOW

"The other kids laugh at me, but my mother and my dad are very narrow-minded and won't listen to anything I say. Don't you think I'm old enough to go out with boys? I don't want to waste my life just hanging around home, but it looks as if that's all I'll ever get a chance to do. And it surely makes me mad! I have a great many school friends who are no older than I am, and they're allowed out! They go to shows in the evening, and sometimes riding. They go to dances sometimes, too. Why can't I, Sally? They're always talking about the times they have, and it makes me blue. I think if I don't have good times now while I'm young, I'll never get to have them. I'm so unhappy. I think I am being treated very unjustly. Don't you? I intend to leave home just as soon as I'm able to work at something. What do you think? ADENA.

I shan't try to answer you, Adena. You wouldn't believe me, or take my advice if I did. You'd say: 'Oh, gosh! She's forgotten how it feels to be young.' I haven't forgotten, Adena, and I'm still several lusty leaps from the Old Ladies' Home. But just so you can't throw a comeback, I'm going to let Patty do the job for me.

Patty was fourteen once, and she, too, wanted to "Live." Patty had her wish. Did all the things you want to do. Took all the risks. Had all the thrills. And now she's just three years older. And here is what having her own way did to Patty:

Dear Sally:

I read your column and you seem to have so much comfort for people whose minds are troubled that I feel as if I could talk to you. So here I am.

What's my trouble? I really don't know exactly. I only know that life doesn't seem worth living any more. I'm just in an abyss of darkness and doubt and dullness. I've been there for a long time now. Nothing seems to matter to me. Even sunshine seems gloomy. There doesn't seem to be anything left in the world for me to live for.

OLD WOMAN AT 17

At 17 I seem to have had everything. My rides, road horses, whatnot. And here I am. An old woman, I guess, and I'm only 17.

My mother died when I was a baby, and my guardian lets me do just as I please and always has. So it's not being kept down or bossed or refused liberty that is wrong with me. What is it? I'd almost give my life if I could be really interested or curious or thrilled about anything just once. The truth is that although I'm not quite seventeen yet niceness has been rubbed off of everything including me. I've seen too much and done too much, I guess. I smoke, I drink, I pet. And still everything seems shallow and dry.

There is no fellow who has told me that he loves respects and admires me very much. He wants to save and in about three years get married. Married! Well, I don't love him, but there is Bob. I could love Bob. But what if he ever found out—I know I'd lose him!

Can you help me? Can you tell me how I can find something to take this terrible dry taste out of my mouth, and out of my soul? Please say something to me! If I hadn't started out so young! I feel as if all life were behind me instead of ahead of me! I'm so blue and unhappy. And so afraid that the past will rise up and hit me! If only I'd known! If I'd only waited till I knew how to take care of myself, before I began going around! What can I do now? What is there left for me? Can I ever be happy like other guarded girls are happy when they grow up? Please, please help me! I need it so! PATTY.

There's your answer, Adena.

Patty, too, wanted to grab all the big thrills before she was ready for them. So she forced immature nerves and blood and flesh to a pace they couldn't stand—and now she's a burnt out battery. She actually can't feel any more for the present, because she has used herself up. And she'll never be able to feel any more unless she goes back to living the simple, careful life which a young, growing girl should live.

Before life has fairly started, Patty's through. And the thing that happened to her will happen to any other unfinished young body and spirit.

Do you want it to happen to you, Adena?

True Love Story Proves You Get What You Really Want, Says Fay King

THERE IS LACK OF CONCENTRATION IF SHE CAN'T REALLY DECIDE WHETHER TO MARRY AND HELP HER HUSBAND IN HIS CAREER OR—NOT TO MARRY AND HAVE A SUCCESSFUL CAREER OF HER OWN AND SHE WILL PROBABLY FAIL AT BOTH!
FAY KING

By FAY KING

THE OTHER DAY a couple were married. The guests were discussing the romance. Their comment was that she had finally got the man she wanted.

It seems the romance started in school days. Later the young man went to another city, where he succeeded and married.

But to the girl back home, who loved him, this apparently final end to her prospects did not discourage her. She still held the thought that somehow, somewhere, they would marry.

A few years more brought him a divorce. Came a renewal of the old love, and marriage.

It has been said that unwavering concentration is a power which helps one attain that which one most wants. But there must be no doubts about what one wants.

Madge Attempts to Rescue Boys from Mother-in-Law

As I waited for an answer to my tap upon my mother-in-law's door I was conscious that it was not her probable—almost certain—attitude of captious criticism which I was dreading. It was concerned only with what Dicky's attitude would be toward this little domestic imbroglio in which he found himself involved because my enforced interview with his young nephew, William Harrison had left him with Roderick and Junior—and his mother—upon his hands.

Behind me I heard soft rustlings and the almost noiseless closing of doors and knew that Mary and Katherine had gone into their rooms. So there was no one save myself to see the frown upon Dicky's face as he opened the door to me.

"Oh," he said, and the expletive was heavy with disapproval, although he managed to give it a courteous inflection. "I trust you have finished your interview and can turn your attention to this rather difficult problem."

I came up the second I finished talking to William," I said carefully omitting any mention of my colloquy with Katherine and Mary.

"Was it necessary to deliver so long a lecture just at this juncture?" Dicky queried next, his voice icily inquisitive.

It is an old gibe this of his, one which he has thrown at me many times.

"I am afraid it was," I said. "William was very much upset and I had to explain things to him."

"Margaret!" My mother-in-law's voice cut through our colloquy as if it were a pistol shot. "May I remind you that this is my room and that I am extremely busy. If you have nothing else to do but squabble with Richard, I suggest that you go away again."

I knew better than to take her at her word, much as I longed to go out the door and slam it after me. Instead I left Dicky. I wondered if he were as grateful for the interruption as I was—and advanced toward my mother-in-law who was towering over Junior and Roderick.

"Please, Mother," I coaxed, "isn't there something I can do about this? I'm so sorry you were troubled with it."

"What else was there to do?" she demanded. "You were gone on some fool's errand. Richard took the whole affair as a huge joke," her eyes went scathingly to her hapless son, "and your father carefully kept his skirts clear of the whole affair. Somebody had to preserve discipline and that's why I brought both the boys up here. I haven't inquired as to the reason for their altercation. Boys will be boys, you know. I'm only insisting that they shake hands as all decent people do when a game or a fight is ended. Now, Roderick, now Richard, Second," she turned back to the two small boys, "you've had time to think this over. Aren't you ready to shake hands with each other?"

Her appeal, however, fell upon ears purposely deaf to any softening entreaty. The frown upon each absurd little face deepened and they shook their heads decidedly.

My mother-in-law turned to me with outspread hands.

"You see," she said, "the results of your absence from home. How can you expect a child deprived of his mother to be as obedient as one who is under her care all the time?"

I made no attempt to answer her amazing attack which I knew to be born of unreasoning temper instead of conviction. All my faculties were fused in one question. Would Dicky by silence acquiesce in her dictum or would he in old-fashioned parlance "stand up" for me?

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Avoid Living in High and Keep Well

When your doctor tells you some member of your family has "nephritis," you are greatly distressed. Of course the disease is serious, but I beg of you not to class nephritis with the incurable diseases. On the other hand, you cannot be careless. The greatest care in diet and habits should be exercised.

DR. COPELAND

General inflammation of the kidneys is called Bright's disease. It is named after Dr. Richard Bright, an English physician who first described the association of symptoms in 1827.

High blood pressure, the presence of albumen in the urine and frequently dropsy, may indicate the existence of nephritis. This is not always true, however. Many persons have high blood pressure without a kidney condition. Albumen in the urine may indicate wrong dieting, nervousness or some other temporary disturbance.

An acute attack of Bright's disease may be brought on by exposure to cold, or by taking certain poisons. It may be a complication of some acute disease such as erysipelas, diphtheria and, especially, scarlet fever.

The onset of the disease is usually severe in character. There is pain in the back, paleness and puffiness of the face, swelling of the ankles, fever, sometimes nausea and vomiting.

The urine is scanty and abnormal in color. There are chemical changes which can be determined only by an analysis.

The utmost care must be exercised in the treatment of a person showing symptoms of Bright's disease.

The patient must remain in bed, usually between blankets to stimulate the action of the skin. The diet is mild—often confined to milk. Large quantities of water and alkaline drinks are given to help flush the kidneys. It is essential to set up sweating and free kidney action, to carry off the poisons. Your doctor will prescribe the proper medication and will oversee the general care.

Living at high speed and overeating must be avoided if we want to keep well. But late hours, any over-indulgence in food or drink, strenuous mental exercise and excessive fatigue are all factors in the development of Bright's disease.

Answers to Health Queries

MR. D. Q.—What is leucoplakia and how can it be cured?

A.—The disturbance in question is a skin disease characterized by the formation of white areas on the skin. There is no cure, but the parts can be made less noticeable by staining them with a light coating of walnut juice.

LAZY LADY Q.—What would cause a tired, lazy feeling, accompanied by yellow, streaked eyes, pains around the shoulder blades, a feeling of dizziness and a queer sensation as if I were rocking from side to side. I have quite a few pimples and fever blisters on my lips every few weeks.

A.—Probably due to a gall bladder disturbance. Correct your diet and keep your system clear. Your complexion will improve as your condition in general is better.

MRS. F. V. D. Q.—Is there a cure for varicose veins? What do you advise?

A.—If the varicose veins are slight, bandaging or wearing an elastic stocking is often helpful, but in most cases surgical procedure is necessary.

P. L. M. Q.—What causes palpitation of the heart?

A.—This may be due to indigestion, overeating, nervousness or a possible heart condition.

* * *

G. D. H. Q.—Are high heels injurious to one after an operation for appendicitis?

A.—No.

Mrs. C. W. B. Q.—What would cause black spots before my eyes when I am reading and what treatment is advisable?

A.—May be due to eye strain, poor circulation or biliousness. Have your eyes examined first of all and be sure that the system is kept clear.

The Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

Mutual "Cruelty"

Sometimes, I think that the marriage ritual should read "Love, honor and wear a dinner coat."

Because man's obsession against climbing into his evening clothes is the reef on which many an otherwise happy marriage has been wrecked.

Many a devoted husband, who will cover his wife with expensive jewels and imported gowns and delight to see her all dolled up and glittering like a show-window, will look positively pained, when she lays out the good old claw-hammer or the jaunty Tuxedo and tries to back him into it.

Many a man who would do anything else to make his wife happy will balk and stall at the suggestion that he wear his evening clothes as a pet police dog balks at the sight of his muzzle and his leash.

Funny, when you consider that he could get into it blindly, and that no change or variety is expected of him. Nothing but a black suit that goes on exactly like all his other suits, a waistcoat that has only a few buttons, a white shirt and a bow tie.

Think of it! No straps, no snaps; no beads, no jewels, no corsage bouquets; no "lines," no ruffles, no "silhouettes!" No marcel or finger wave! No back to powder, no "runs" to bother about, no skirt-length to consider, no make-up to put on!

And yet he HATES it—and regards it as an instrument of torture! Whereas, to a woman, it would be nothing but a negligee.

After a woman has spent two hours beautifying herself, it is a tragedy to have the picture completely spoiled, just by a man's aversion to a boiled shirt. For, no matter WHAT she may hang upon herself, she needs a man in evening clothes as a background. He is her passport, her coat-of-arms, her hall mark.

Without him, she feels like an extra left-hand glove.

Yet, the kindest of husbands will sidestep a dinner coat as a cat will dodge a broom. Many women, who have found it easy to induce their husbands to ruin themselves, wreck their nerves or risk their lives for them, have wailed, "But I CAN'T get him to wear his evening clothes!"

What constitutes "cruelty," anyhow?

This complaint has never been given as grounds for divorce in the California courts, nor even in Reno, so far as I know.

But almost any woman will tell you that her WORST grievance against her husband is his reluctance to doff up in that "sarcophagus" known as his evening clothes.

And, almost any man might tell you that his greatest complaint against his wife is that she WILL back him into a dinner-coat! When he MIGHT "get by" in tweeds!

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Acknowledging the Betrothal Gift

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I have been engaged for over a month and had my reception. I have been the recipient of many beautiful presents, but I am in doubt as to the form of acknowledgement. I should write. Do I include the name of my fiance in the body of the note, and do I just sign my name? I am enclosing a sample of the card that I am to use.

PUZZLED.

The thank-you notes that you write for your betrothal presents are of the same type that you write for any other kind of present, that is, a thank-you for the thoughtfulness of the friends who sent it, and a chat about the gift itself. I beg you not to use the kind of card that you sent me for it is thoroughly inadequate looking and in extremely bad taste. Buy some white or oyster gray letter paper of the conventional double-sheet kind and of the best texture that you can afford. These are very important notes and deserve an important background. There should be no ridiculous crowding of the writing as you had to do in your note to me.

Since the notes are for betrothal presents and since these presents are personal (not like wedding presents, which are for the new home) you do not write for your fiance, too. Your note would be something like this:

Dear Mary:

How glorious of you to think of me so handsomely, and to give me the beautiful mirror! It is quite the loveliest one that I have ever seen, and "goes" perfectly with the dresser that I have already bought. You are a wonderful friend, always thinking of something that will make your friends happy. And now you have again made me happy, and my appreciation knows no bounds. Thank you! I hope to see you soon—may I? There is so much news to share.

Affectionately yours,

JANE.

Definiteness in Introductions Important

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. What is the proper way of introducing a man to two or more ladies?

2. What is the proper way to introduce one lady to a group of people gathered in a room?

AL.

1. Say: "Mrs. Allen, may I present Mr. Tate?"—Mrs. Browning, Mr. Tate," Mrs. Cadmun, Mr. Tate." Look at each person as you say the name, and say the names distinctly.

2. Do not make a general introduction. First introduce the woman to the women present, or, if the group is large, to the women who are standing near, and then introduce the gentlemen to her.

Household Hints

Glaring lights are not welcome in the heat of summer. Softly glowing lights have a cooling effect upon the atmosphere of the room—not that they send out less heat, of course, but they seem to. It is such a simple matter to take out the paint brush and the water-color box and touch up the plain white globes with soft shades that harmonize with the room.

The method of putting on and taking off silk stockings has a very great effect on their life. It is a mistake to drag them over the heels and up the legs. This puts a very severe strain on the fine silken threads. The best way to put them on is to turn the legs of the stockings inside out, rolling downwards towards the heels; having inserted the feet, gently coax the stockings over the legs with the tips of the fingers. When removing the stockings the wearer should sit down, then roll the stockings down the legs with the tips of the fingers.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

There is ever present the old question: "How often shall I wash my hair?" The answer is: "Whenever it is in need of cleanliness." Oily hair that catches atmospheric dust should be washed once a week. The thorough shampoo with rousing rinsings, does no harm; it is a form of scalp treatment, and stimulates the hair growth.

It is sad to relate that such things can be, but one does see grimy elbows these days. The little creases and coarse skin are active collectors of atmospheric dust. Elbows should be scrubbed with a brush and soap and water and they should be cold-creamed at night. One more beauty rite added to the ritual of pulchritude, but it can't be helped.

Don't worry about round shoulders! Worry about the spinal column. If the backbone is held properly, if body posture hasn't any slack, the shoulders will be normal; muscular structures, solid and flexible. There should be an inward curve of the spine at the waistline. That position throws the chest high and full, sends the hips back, flattens the tumtum and gives easy pose to the shoulders and a queenly poise to the head. Something to remember.

Clinching the teeth with displeasure and pulling the chin inward when expressing disapproval are two bad facial habits. They make the jaw prominent, develop a double chin, take tone and elasticity from the muscles of the neck. As women grow older they drop these habits usually. They find out that there's not much in life worth all the teeth clinching and chin depressing. A great deal of chinning goes on and most of it is about nothing. It does not pay a cent of wage or interest money. Wholly profitless. In fact, a total loss.

Beautifying is established on a sound basis. Every cosmetic chemist must submit his formulas to the Pure Food Department in Washington, though why to that department nobody knows, since we don't eat eye shadows or hair dye. Hospitals are putting in departments devoted to plastic surgery. Physicians urge their nervous "vim-min" patients to doll up at beauty shops. There is no more paraffin filling of sunken cheeks. In fact there is no more "sowing the seeds of destruction in the furrows of time." Everything is hunky dory and the glorification of the American girl goes on. Yes! And the glorification of those who are no longer girls.

Great or Small

Every life may be a light,
Great lights, some, and some but small;
One, a signal on the height,
One, a candle by the wall.

Gleam of signal-lights may bring
Struggling ship through tempest home,
As their saving glow they fling
Over wind-tossed sea and foam.

In such gales the candle-light
Not an instant could endure;
By the wall, its wings are bright
And its golden beams are sure.

Every life a light may be;
Great or small, their lustres bloom,
Some to flash across the sea,
Some to light a tiny room.

And—who knows? it may be true
In this world of stranger things,
Lives are brought to harbor, too,
By a candle's fluttering wings.

THE BIG HOUSE

send it in a tin can to the Governor," Butch was saying. He saw Morgan: "Say, Morg, we're getting everything in fine shape for the big blowoff . . ."

Morgan nodded, but said nothing. Butch slapped him on the back.

"Say, what's getting into you? You act like you was takin' hop. Come on, snap out of it."

"Yeah?"

"Yeah—we've got the works fixed."

Butch and the rest got their heads together and began to whisper. Meantime, Kent, who was leaning against the wall, watched them from a distance.

Frank Oliver, an obsequious, shoe-licking trusty who was serving a ten-spot for larceny, stopped in front of Kent.

"Hello, punk. What's the slap? You puck a blue grouch, Butch again?"

Kent looked up listlessly.

"He'll kill me some day. He bullies me all the time. In line he steps on my heels, shoves me from behind, kicks me, and when I look around he grins or makes a funny, disgraceful noise with his mouth. He carries a knife and he'll stab me. He gets mad at nothing."

"Oh, he carries a knife, does he?"

"Sure—sharp as a razor."

"Where'd he get it?"

"Oh, I don't know—it's been passed along from one to the other for months now. The original owner is in the cooler, I think."

"Well, why don't you get even with Butch—put the squawk on him?"

"My God, no!"

"Get wise—learn the racket. It means time off for you. Look at me. I've knocked off six years of my bit by slippin' little things to the screws now and then. And in this case it'll make it safer for you, anyway."

"But he'll murder me," Kent shook his head.

"Well, you ain't gonna publish this in the Journal—he'll never get hep. And you'll be gettin' hunk with him, see?"

Oliver shuffled away, after nudging Kent in the ribs and winking. Kent followed him with his gaze and saw him turn a bit off his route to pass close to Wallace, the captain of the yard. He was sure Oliver spoke to Wallace, but he did not stop and the guard never turned his head. Soon Wallace walked over toward Kent, and as he passed him he looked at him searchingly. Kent dropped his eyes.

Then Wallace strolled by the group where Butch was standing and Kent experienced a spasm of terror. He was sure that Oliver had told Wallace what he had said about Butch's knife—but Wallace did nothing and kept on his way, and Kent breathed easier. But Oliver's words had sunk deep into his mind—"I've knocked off six years by slippin' little things to the screws—"

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Friday, June 20

A rather conflicting state of affairs is presaged from the sideral operations governing this day. While the strong position of Jupiter with Sol may bring signal advantages, with increase of fortune, profitable friendships and possible honors, yet there are frustrating forces at work, with an abrupt and unforeseen change, which may prove disruptive or hazardous. With wisdom and good management all may flourish and personal happiness may arise from some secret or singular source of contact.

Those whose birthday it is may prepare for a year of change of plans, activity and probable environment. And these may not prove entirely welcome or propitious, although there are some honors, preferment and profitable associations in store. There are also stubborn obstacles to overcome, and the personal relations may assume some singular or intriguing aspects.

A child born on this day may be ingenious and clever in many directions but may be restless and fond of roving into strange and intriguing haunts and adventures. It may encounter many obstacles but may be assisted by friends and singular personal relations.

SPORT COMMENT
by JAMES J. LONG

Consistency of Robins. Win Last Ten Series. Giants' Strong Defense. • Great Aid to Hurlers. Breaks Against Bucs. Alvis Still Holds Out.

PRESENT TRIP REAL TEST OF DODGERS

NOW COMES THE real test of the surprising machines with which Wilbert Robinson is leading the field in the National League pennant pursuit. In Cincinnati today the speeding Dodgers begin a hard Western trip that may show pretty conclusively whether their flag gesture is the real thing or just another of those early-season flashes that many a club has pulled in the past only to crack when the pinch came.

Wilbert Robinson

Not that this is the first trial of the Robins in the West. They made a swing around the sunset end of the Heydler trail in May and acted so much like a genuine ball club that they won eight games out of 12 played. Only in Chicago did the Brooklynites stumble. They dropped three in a row to the Cubs, but made up for the slip by taking four straight in St. Louis, two out of three in Pittsburgh and both numbers of a two-game set in Cincinnati. A team with that record to its credit would appear to have nothing to fear in a second invasion of the same territory.

BUT CONDITIONS ARE different now. When the Dodgers were making their first occidental tour, nobody took them seriously as pennant contenders. They had lost seven of their first nine games in the new season, had been in last place as late as April 28, and were apparently having nothing more than a spurt. Every opponent, though trying to win, of course, viewed them as just another ball club.

On this trip, however, the Flatbush flyers will be marked men. For they're league leaders, now, the common enemy, and recognized as the club that must be beaten if any other team is to have a chance to win out. Everybody finds a special delight in taking a punch at the fellow on top. The ordinary opposition that was encountered on the previous cruise will be supplanted by a more determined resistance and an extra bearing down. There will be none of the former inclination to hold the Robins cheap, and it means a continuous fighting strain for the pace-setters over every foot of the route.

WHILE THE OUTCOME of the big test is awaited, it has got to be admitted that thus far the Dodgers have shaped up like a powerful club that will not be beaten out easily by any rival.

Glenn Wright

They are at the top of the ladder because they have outplayed and outfought the entire field, and their success in holding the position is all the more impressive in view of the fact that since May 23 they have kept up their drive without the services of Shortstop Glenn Wright, to whose come-back the winning stride of the team up to that time had been generally attributed.

AS A MATTER of fact, the Robins have been the most consistent club in either of the big leagues. Of their last 44 games they have won 32, and of their last 34 games they have won 28. Since May 8 they have won 10 series in succession over opposition that included every other club in the league. In the order named, they have taken two out of three from the Pirates here and a single game in Brooklyn, two out of two from the Reds, three out of four from the Phillies, three out of four from the Braves, three out of four from the Giants, three out of four from the Phillies again, two out of three from the Pirates, two out of three from the Cubs, two out of three from the Reds, and two out of three from the Cardinals. Considerable ball playing, any way you look at it. The Dodgers are not up there on mere suspicion.

IF THE GIANTS could win as consistently elsewhere as they have been winning at Forbes Field they probably would walk away with the National League pennant. They surely have been cleaning up at the Oakland ballyard since the spring of 1929.

Yesterday's game was the eleventh won by the McGrawites from the Buccaneers in their last 13 meetings in this city. The clubs clashed 10 times here last year, and after the Rovers had won the first two numbers the New Yorkers took seven of the next eight. Up to date this season, the Giants have won four out of five on the local lot.

THE BENEFITS DERIVED by the Giants from the deals made with the Cincinnati club last month are not confined to the additional class that Hughey Critz gives to the infield nor to whatever new strength Pete Donohue may mean in the pitching department.

Ethan Allen

Ethan Allen has supplied all that was needed to complete a strong outfield, too, following the return of Fred Leach to form this year. Allen looks like an even better ball player than he looked while with the Reds, and in addition to his defensive ability he has contracted the Giant hitting fever and boosted his average to .298. Eddie Roush is not being missed to any noticeable extent.

ALL AROUND, THE Giants appear now to have a club that will not require as high a pitching standard as the average team to keep it in the pennant fight. What the greatest of present-day infields means to a hurler was demonstrated at the expense of the Pirates in the ninth inning yesterday, when a piece of highway robbery by Critz stole a perfectly good base hit from Ervin Brame, and possibly saved the game for New York. Travis Jackson's great stop of a grounder from Gus Suhr's bat throttled another Pirate rally at an earlier stage. With an infield that is continually turning base hits into put-outs, a great double-play combination around second base, and three strong outfielders with exceptional throwing arms, New York pitchers probably will be able to get by with less stuff than the hurlers on the majority of other clubs must produce in order to win.

THINGS RARELY GO right for a club that is in a rut. If there's any change at all, it's generally from bad to worse. That has been the case with the luckless Pirates. Instead of having a chance to gain a new footing on the home grounds after a disastrous trip, the Bucs were forced to take the field yesterday with George Grantham far from being well and Dick Bartell handicapped by a wrenched ankle.

And the club's misfortunes did not end there, for without attempting to alibi the Rovers' defeat it must be admitted that everything went against them. You've got to give the Giants credit for great fielding in the fine stops made by Jackson and Critz and a neat catch turned in by Leach, but it was a lucky stab by Allen that kept Paul Waner's clashing single from getting through him after he played it badly, and two line drives at critical stages went squarely into Giant hands and resulted in double plays. In spite of all the bad breaks it can't be said that the Bucs did not keep fighting right up to the finish. They were beaten, but they didn't quit.

WITH THE EXCEPTION of Brooklyn, every club in the majors that has shot to the front with a flashy spurt has followed the win-

HORTON SMITH SECOND, OTHER YANKS THIRD

By F. A. WRAY,
International News Service.

HOYLAKE, England, June 19.—Shooting a beautiful 72 today on his second round of championship play, Bobby Jones, Atlanta (Ga.) wizard of golf, took a firm mortgage on the British open championship crown with a low total of 142 for 36 holes.

On a day when scores were universally several strokes higher on each card as compared with yesterday's sensational low marks, Bobby delivered to the full all that was expected of him by a grovelling and worshipping gallery.

This was the day for the American eagle to scream. American players were seemingly firmly entrenched in all the front line trenches for the final attack on the open championship.

Jones' nearest competitor, at least among those who had completed their second round of play, and most of the leading golfers had finished, was Horton Smith, Joplin, Mo., youngster, who carded a 73 today for a grand total of 145, three strokes behind Jones.

YANKS TIED FOR THIRD

Two Americans, MacDonald Smith and Leo Diegel, also were tied with Archie Compston, British professional and winner of the low medal score in the qualification rounds of the present tournament, for third place with 147 strokes each. Long Jim Barnes, New York professional, was seemingly safely niched in fourth place with a grand total of 148 as a result of his 77 carded today.

Going to the turn in 37 strokes, despite a total of 15 strokes used up on the first three holes, Jones paraded a machine-like precision fit to take the heart out of all but the sturdiest competitors. He made the homeward trek in 35.

Henry Cotton, British pro, who was tied with Jones and Mac Smith for the lead yesterday, slumped and took a 79 today for a total of 149.

George Von Elm required 79 strokes for his second round, and F. C. Stevens, Jr., another United States amateur, turned in a 78. Von Elm's total is 160 and Stevens' 36-hole card is 158.

JONES WILD AT START

Jones again started with a 5 at the par 4 first hole. His iron was pulled and his chip short, leaving him a long putt. The ball just twisted out of the cup as he putted for the 4.

At the second hole, his putt from 15 feet for a birdie 3, hung on the lip of the cup and he took a par 4.

Bobby drove into rough at the third. He shot across the fairway and into rough with his second and was short of the green with his third, and finally holed out in 6.

He scored an uneventful par 3 at the fourth and added a par 4 at the fifth.

Jones just missed a 12-foot putt for a 3 at the sixth and took a par 4. His tee shot at the seventh rested close to a mud wall near the green, but he chipped to within three feet and holed the putt for a par 3.

ANNEXES BIRDIE

Jones overshot the 482-yard eighth with his iron second, but chipped back and holed a 10-foot putt for a birdie 4. He had to hole another long putt for his par at the ninth.

At the tenth, "The Alps," Bob's tee shot was slightly off line in sand. He sent a gentle niblock

COLLEGE GOLF PAIRINGS OUT

By VERN SWARTSLAGER.

The Intercollegiate Golf Association of America has announced the pairings and starting times for the 36-hole qualifying round of the National intercollegiate golf championship which is to be played at the Oakmont Country Club next Monday and Tuesday, the tourney continuing through to Saturday. A fine, strong field is entered in the competition, but it would not be regarded as a great surprise if a local boy came home with the bacon. Of the quartet of district stars who stand an excellent chance of grabbing a lot of National limelight, Fred Brand, Jr., of Penn State, who is a Shannopinites; Samuel M. Parks, Jr., of Pitt, and Knox M. Young, Jr., of Geneva Highlanders both, and F. Hart Darragh, of Geneva, who plays at Beaver Valley, Brand appears to have the finest chance of copping the glory.

The fact that the Penn State star is playing at the top of his game now, has had a world of experience to match his youthful years and has the grit and determination of a champion, leads us to believe he has as fine a chance as any of the satellites who will be playing, and a better chance than most because of his familiarity with the difficult championship Oakmont course.

Other outstanding stars who will compete include Phillips Finlay, of Harvard; George T. Dunlap, of Princeton; Robert Kepler, of Ohio State; Sam Perry, of Alabama; W. C. McEntee and Al Brodbeck, of Penn; George Orcutt, of Dartmouth; John Kerrigan, of Holy Cross; George Appel, Jr., of Brown; Eddie Vaughan, of Alabama; Paul Cook, of North Dakota State, and Vincent Dolp, of Oregon.

103 ENTERED

In all there are 103 entries, 26 playing for the team champion-

Benny Paschal Sets Record In A. A.

CHICAGO, June 19.—(AP)—Benny Paschal, who seldom got a chance to bat when he was with the New York Yankees, has hung up a new "perfect day at bat" mark for American Association hitters to shoot at.

Yesterday, while leading St. Paul to a double win over Columbus, Benny hit safely in eight chances, collecting one home run, one triple, a double and five singles, scoring six runs himself and driving in five. It was the best day's performance in American Association records.

BOWEN, MATES SAIL SUNDAY

By JESS CARVER.

With Hizzoner R. F. (Petah) Bowen, of the University of Pittsburgh in charge of the meal money and all other expense dough, a band of right formidable track and field stars will sail for Europe on the good ship Berengaria (at least it was a good ship) Sunday.

When the boys arrive in Europe, they'll set out for Germany, and there begin a series of nine meets, which eventually will carry 'em through Deutschland, Norway, Sweden and Finland.

Besides Bowen, who will compete in the 100, 200 and 400 meter races, the party will include Steve Anderson, Washington hurdler; Tommy Warne, Northwestern pole vault ace; George Bullwinkle, C. C. of New York middle distance and mile ace and Ed (Kangaroo) Hamm, of Georgia Tech, world's premier broad jumper.

Bowen, who was a member of the United States team that toured this same territory a year ago, was especially invited back by the Swedish government, and it was Pete who really selected the team that will accompany him.

THE LOWDOWN ON THE BUCS

By THE BENCHWARMER

Well folk, we've lost four in a row, but those last two games are down in my book as Pirate victories. Larry should have won by 4 to 1, Tuesday in Philly, and I guess a lot of you saw what happened at Forbes Field yesterday. Those stops by Critz and Jackson are not in the books and Paul's line hit in front of Allen would go over a centerfielder's head for a triple or homer nine times out of 10, the way he played it.

Ethan was gonna try for a shoe string grab and then made a wild pass at the ball and cuffed it down. It knocked off one or two runs. And how about those liners that were turned into double plays. When you're down it just seems that all the breaks come up and sock you on the nose.

HICK AFTER JOB

Well it's no use ervin any more over it, and here's something you might laugh at. Maybe you read about the cornfed kid catcher who came rollin' into Philly the other morning on a motorcycle for a tryout with the Buccos. This country dude was only 17 and I wish you could have seen him. O. K. you know, but a real hick. I think he rode all night on his motorcycle and then went to the park without eatin' anything. It was almost 100 in the shade and he went in to catch the battin' practise. Looked like he would collapse, but he stuck it out and then we found out he was all in from hunger.

But the next day he came out there with two big meals under his belt and he was rearin' to go. He had a lot of pep catchin' as our team was hittin' in practise. Finally Paul Waner, who is a kind-hearted fella, took pity on him and told him to get up there and hit one.

You see we all like to hit, but when a youngster tries to step up to the plate to sock one, about nine regulars give you a terrible razz. They don't want you takin' up the time because it's kinda short.

AND ANOTHER

Well, this innocent young apple-knocker hit one, and Paul said, "hit another." He did, and Paul says you might as well hit another and by this time the kid was cuttin' the pie.

Paul was gonna let him hit three like the rest of the gang but Pie Traynor came up about that time and Pie got such a kick out of the rookie he yelled "don go 'way—hit a couple more."

The poor kid thought everybody was tryin' to help him and he stayed up there to hit three more. By this time the players on both

BULLETIN.

The Pirates' game with the Giants, scheduled for Forbes Field this afternoon, was called off shortly before 2 o'clock on account of the heavy condition of the ground. It was stated the rain cover had not been put down last night and the field was in an unplayable condition.

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

The Giants can use the bat boy on the mound in his regular turn and finish in the first division, judging by the class displayed by John J.'s new combination, now showing in Pittsburgh for the first time.

Hughey Critz made his first appearance at Forbes Field in a New York uniform yesterday and all he did was to ruin a ball game for the Pirates. His sidekick, Travis Jackson, contributed to the larceny and on the whole McGraw's incomparable infield made the Polo Grounders look like the best team in the league.

GIANTS HAVE CLASS

But the Giants had to have a lot of class to stave off the slumping yet fighting Buccos, the hairline decision favoring the invaders, 4 to 3. The excitement will be resumed this afternoon with Remy Kremer and Fred Fitzsimmons as the probable mound duelists.

Critz and Jackson, in their first hook-up performance in the Oakland Orchard, turned in a pair of circus plays, the feature number of the little second baseman coming in the ninth to stifle a drive that seemed to carry the tag of victory.

Few of the fans in attendance at the first scrap can figure how Critz knocked down Ervin Brame's pinch drive which was turned into a scintillating force play. And a moment later the smart keystone tender planted himself in the line of Paul Waner's drive and made an unassisted double play as George Grantham was racing homeward with the tieing run.

The Freebooters were two runs in arrears as the last half of one

Nick Altrock Says:

WASHINGTON, June 19.—We are glad our Western trip is over, as I figure home cooking will do us some good. The way our club has been going lately, you would think we were living on goats' milk. The Yankees have finally worked their way up from five games below zero, and they couldn't be chasing the A's any faster if Connie Mack was an electric rabbit. But after looking over the Western loop, the Cleveland club is the only one we've got to fear. For the first time in a decade, this year's Indians are not the cigar store kind. They have been going good enough lately to burn up Lake Erie.

Other National League clubs do not start the second half of the East-West [illegible] today but on the basis of [illegible] shown in the games since July 1 the Eastern clubs have [illegible] advantage. They won 24 contests while the West took but 11, with only the hard-fighting Chicago Cubs getting better than a .500 average. Every Eastern club with more games than [illegible].

In the American League the struggle was somewhat closer as the East's leading pennant contenders held their own although they were pulled down from the heights they had reached before they invaded the Western half of the circuit. The East came out ahead 26 games to 25 due principally to the activities of the New York Yankees who won nine and lost three.

The other Eastern clubs came out just below the .500 mark but their Western rivals with the exception of the Cleveland Indians were in the same variety. Cleveland won eight out of 12 games.

A'S BEAT INDIANS

The Indians after pushing up to within striking distance of the league lead found when they came East again yesterday that the Philadelphia Athletics have a real championship team despite eight defeats in 14 games. Cleveland had a chance to oust the world's champions from first place but even their pitching ace Wes Ferrell, could not stop the Athletics in a crucial moment. The A's made a dozen hits most of them in two big innings and equaled an American League record for home run hitting in winning a 7 to 2 decision.

Al Simmons, Jimmy Foxx and Bing Miller connected with Ferrell's delivery in the fifth inning for three successive home runs, a feat that had been performed only twice before in American League history.

Golf Fan Drops Dead Watching Jim Barnes

HOYLAKE, England, June 19.—A spectator in the gallery following Jerry Jim Barnes, Atlantic golf pro, as he played his second round in the British open championship here today dropped dead, as Barnes attempted to blast his ball out of a sand trap, bordering the ninth green.

The spectator, hailed the ex-[illegible] a great and successful [illegible] a heart attack.

MEISS WINS IN SHOOT

HARRISBURG, Pa., June 19.—(AP.)—Competing the event without losing a target, C. Budd Meiss of Hazleton won the 160 target event which marked the opening of the fortieth annual tournament of the Pennsylvania State Sportsmen's Association tournament here yesterday. H. Fred Tomlin, Glassboro, N. J., professional duplicated the feat while M. McBrayne of West Chester, runner-up among the amateurs, missed only one target.

In a 40-target doubles event which completed the preliminaries of the West Fairview trap of the Harrisburg Sportsmen's Association, C. H. Newcomb of Philadelphia won with a score of 37 two better than the cards turned in by Meiss and G. M. Hawkins, Harrisburg professional.

RAIN FORCES PING PONG ON NETTERS

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN
Staff Correspondent

CLEVELAND, June 19.—Rain again beat dismal tattoo upon the rectangles of the Cleveland Tennis and Racquet Club here yesterday as the third washout in as many afternoons soaked turf and ardor for the Ohio State singles and doubles and the United States Inter-City doubles championships.

After long showers, short showers, heavy showers and light showers had wrecked all possibility of competition, the skies cleared and a watchful rattle out so that old Abraham Lincoln Williams, veteran groundskeeper, ventured the prediction that the courts will be playable today. But Pittsburgh entrants on hand for three days now without as much as removing togs from bags have ceased to believe in Santa Claus and it will take a lot of sunshine to convince them that they haven't hit Pago-Pago during the wet season.

With outdoor action out of the question, visiting racqueteers [illegible] gambled a ping pong tournament which Byron Baur, former Pitt star and 1929 Western Pennsylvania champion, captured after a hectic five-set finale with Francis Stanton Vale, luminary from Chicago, 6-3, 5-7, 6-3, 2-6, 11-9.

The going was quite spirited with Baur cropping up aggressiveness and stepping around in sprightly fashion in the fifth bracket, in which he was once down at 2-4, that he was forced to replay to the showers after hostilities had ended.

As a result of yesterday's cancellation, the original program for today has been moved to tomorrow with yesterday's card of Ohio State men's singles and doubles replacing it as today's feature. This means no inter-city doubles of women's singles till tomorrow and renders inevitable a colossal jam-up over the week-end.

GOLF
As Champions Play It

What is meant by lofting a shot?
Answered by
CHARLES B. GUEST,
Well-known California Professional

To loft a shot means to send the ball high into the air. To accomplish this shot have the ball opposite the left foot. Lay your club well back far enough so that you can see the face of the club while it is on the ground. Think about your follow-through on this shot because a good follow-through is absolutely essential here.

JOHNSON LOSES TO LATZO ON FOUL

NEW YORK, June 19.—(AP.)—Pete Latzo, Scranton, Pa., light heavyweight, defeated Larry Johnson, Chicago Negro, on a foul in the sixth round of a scheduled 10-round bout at Ebbets Field last night. Latzo weighed 175½ pounds. Johnson one quarter pound less.

For five rounds the fighters mixed freely but in the sixth session Latzo dropped to the canvas claiming a foul. The referee refused to listen to the Scranton's fighter's claim and began counting him out. On the count of nine Latzo rose to his feet and was immediately hit by Johnson with a blow which the referee ruled low. Both judges agreed with the referee.

For the greater part of the five rounds the fighters chose to mix in close refusing to open up with long range fighting. Johnson did the leading.

DURIS, GIZZY DRAW

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., June 19.—(AP.)—Mickey Duris of Johnstown and Battling Gizzy Donora, Pa., fought a 10-round draw in the main bout here last night. Duris weighed 136 and Gizzy 134.

In the semi-final Harry Spencer, Washington, 164, won a decision in six rounds over Billy Brent, 156, of Chicago.

Our 5th Annual and Greatest Trade-in SALE
Making Tire History!

Price reductions that set a new low record

Special low prices that go far below anything the past has ever produced—and with our added trade-in allowance during this event the question of cost can not stand in the way of a single buyer.

Blowout-Proof GENERALS for every car on the road

Sweeping America

More people are changing over to Generals than to any 2 other makes of tires.

SAFETY seeking motorists everywhere are replacing their tires with the new Blowout-Proof Dual-Balloon. Announced only a month ago it has already been acclaimed the greatest hit of all times in the tire industry.

Modern speed demanded the Blowout-Proof Tire. Newspapers tell daily of crashes caused by blowouts. Obituaries list the names of drivers who thought their tires immune.

You can't see a blowout coming. It hides under rubber that still looks good—and "blows" when you least expect it. Then, a head-on collision at fatal speed, or a careening course to the ditch and disaster. Wrecked so quick you can't touch the brake or turn the wheel. At sixty miles per hour, 88-feet a second, it's 1-44th part of a second from blowout to crash.

It can never happen if you ride on the General Dual-Balloon. Spectacular tests prove its absolute safety. It is more than Blowout-Proof. Skid-safe, too! It ends every tire hazard regardless of road, speed or weather.

The world's lowest pressure tire and the easiest riding. Absorbs bumps and jars. Flows smoothly over roughest roads.

Let us give you a demonstration. And be sure to take advantage of this week's drastic cost discounts offered only during our annual sale.

6-ply and 8-ply DUAL-BALLOONS
Also the famous 4-and 6-ply Dual-Grip Balloons

Every tire in the complete General line included in the sweeping reductions and special trade-in allowances that feature the greatest annual sale in the tire industry.

We Are Smashing Every Argument of Price vs. Quality

If you have thought you couldn't afford the finest tire, forget it now. With record-breaking cost reductions, trade-in allowances greater than ever before, you will save money.

Whether Your Tires Are Practically New or Worn Smooth... An Offer That Can't Be Duplicated

No matter what tires you have or what their condition, you'll get the greatest value and the lowest cost by turning them in now toward our special sale price on Generals. All sizes and types of Generals included in our special reduction.

The smallest car needs General safety as well as the largest. While this sale is on, no car, new or old, need be without it.

Don't risk riding on tires you can't be sure of when you can get the extra security, soft riding comfort and long mileage economy of Generals with actually lower cost than you're paying now.

Just bring in your car before this sale ends and get the Trade-in quotation that can't be duplicated. There is no obligation—one tire or a set of six, it's all the same—courteous attention for all. No delay, extra help to take care of everyone promptly.

WEST PENN NINES CLASH TODAY

LOOP LEADERS FACE STIFF BATTLES

SANDLOT GAMES TODAY

WEST PENN LEAGUE
Homestead Aces at Universal.
Whitaker at Verona.
Homewood at Wilmerding.
Dormont at North Bessemer.

CENTRAL LEAGUE
Y. M. H. A. at Beckman Motors.
Cosletts at Lincoln Civics.

CITY LEAGUE
Book Shoe at J. L. Thomas.
Jimmy Smith at A. S. Civics.

C. & I. LEAGUE
Reick McJunkin at Mine Safety.

By TOM BIRKS.

Flashing four big games, the West Penn League holds the spotlight on the local sandlots this evening. Homestead Aces will meet Universal at the Cement works and Whitaker clashes with Verona Community. Homewood goes to Wilmerding and Dormont takes on North Bessemer.

It would hardly be possible to feature four better games in one evening and sandlotters are in for a treat. Wilmerding's sensational win over Dormont certainly put a kick into the race, now neither Homewood or Dormont can afford to drop another game and stay in the running.

Reick-McJunkins will go to Homewood playgrounds to meet Mine Safety and this game should attract the East End fans. Many followers of the C. & I. loop will watch Gettings oppose Laboon.

The feature game in the Central League finds Y. M. H. A. at Arlington Park playing Beckman Motors. The Central race is recognized as one of the finest even staged and the game this evening means much in the standing.

Coslett's will clash with the Lincoln Civics at Hartman Park, and seeing that the East Enders are making a great splash in the league race, a good game should result.

The City League finds Book Shoe meet J. L. Thomas at Dean Field. The Pleasant Valley club hooks up with St. John's at Sullivan Field.

The outcome of the games this week mean much to the teams involved. All of the clubs in the various races can ill afford to drop any points, and hard battles are sure to ensue.

Sport Vignettes

Jack Hoey, presiding judge at the New Kensington dog races, is a former baseball player of note and a good story-teller . . . He tells one about a catcher in a Southern league whose arm was none too good . . . He had a good peg to second base, but wasn't so hot in any other emergencies . . . The players of the opposing clubs finally got wise to him and, instead of stealing second, would wait until they got there and then steal third . . . One day three of them stole third on him and the third baseman, a good player, finally became riled . . . As he reached for a throw over his head on a fourth steal, he yelled: "Hey, there, they're sliding in here, not flying!" . . . Hoey tells of a visit back home to his native New York some years ago . . . He looked up the house in which he was born and found it located in the midst of a Jewish settlement and an aged Jewish man answered his ring at the bell . . . Introducing himself, he asked what had become of all the Irish who once had abounded in that vicinity . . . "Well," replied his host, "what's become of all of the Indians?" . . . The dog racing racket is keeping up in amazing fashion around here, seemingly gaining new devotees every day, and both the New Kensington and Bridgeville meetings are to be extended, while work already has been begun on a third track that will be ready to announce its opening date soon. . . . From a near-tailender to a contender is the jump made by Art (The Great) Shires, who has been traded by the Chicago White Sox to the Washington Senators . . . That's punishment for you . . . They punish Primo Carnera the same way for his transgressions—by loading up his pockets with coin of the realm. . . . Fred Turbyville, the new athletic publicity director of the University of Pittsburgh, is one of the best sports editors in the land. . . . He formerly functioned on the Baltimore Evening Sun and before that was in Indianapolis . . . He maintains a sports syndicate in addition to his job here and last year he was director of publicity at Duke University . . . Turby, as he is known by his intimates, knows news when he sees it and is one of the best feature men in the business . . . Pitt well may consider itself fortunate in securing him . . . You're a big noise in baseball, as in anything else, when things are zooming along in fine style, but when they're not—well, there's the case of Burleigh Grimes, last year the best pitcher in the National League and so far this season traded by the Pirates to the Braves and by the Braves to the Cards . . . Some people turn to Lloyd's for protection, and then there are our Pirates, who feel the same way when they have their Lloyd Waner around.—HARRY KECK.

LLOYD WANER

Photos show improvement in condition of Lloyd Waner, Pirate star, who returned home yesterday and will be able to play within a couple of weeks. At top he is seen as he was, ill, thin and far under weight, and below as he is today after five weeks' treatment in a Baltimore hospital. He has put on 20 pounds and is within a pound of his brother Paul's averdupois.

GROVES HOPES PANKA 'WILL FIGHT'

By HARRY KECK.
Sports Editor.

Four years ago, William Glowacki was just a young Polish lad trying to get along in Natrona. Today the same youth is known as Tiny Groves and is a heavyweight boxer of parts out of Detroit. He blew into town yesterday to finish his training at the Pittsburgh Lyceum for a 10-round bout with George Panka, Homestead Slovak bricklayer, in the Hickey Park ring in Millvale tonight.

Groves is a well-proportioned, husky 190-pounder who says he only hopes Panka will make a fight of it and promises fireworks if the local man does. Groves has had only 20 bouts, but has won 15 of them with knockouts and at one time ran his streak of knockouts to 11 straight. Panka is noted for his aggressiveness and hard fighting, and, in view of this and Groves' boast, some real action may be looked for.

SERVED IN ARMY

Glowacki served with the Nineteenth Field Artillery in the Fifth Division during the war and began his boxing in camp. He also boxed overseas.

U. S. Carpentier, of New Kensington, meets Peaches Gallagher, of Swissvale, in the eight-round semi-final at Millvale tonight. Johnny Haggerty, of Lawrenceville, boxes Mose Butch, of Oakland, and Billy Brent, of the Hill, tangles with Al Becker, of Sheraden, making his professional debut, in the two six-round preliminaries.

Washington, Pa., also has a show listed for tonight. Young Rudy, of Charleroi, and Freddie Edwards, of Chester, W. Va., are in the 10-round main bout and Young Joe Walcott meets Jimmy McGraw in the semi-final. Georgie Chambers boxes Hugh Petzer and Ed Yarosz mixes with Eddie Hebner in six-round prelims and Joe Cicero and Jimmy Malone are in the four-round opener.

Between Rounds

Pauline Uzzolini and Johnny Risko go the limit at Detroit tonight. Harry Fields boxes Jimmy Rodney in a preliminary. McCarthy meets Sam Wine at Easton, Pa., and Sonny Trussman battles Cuddy Kane at Cumberland, with K. O. Yule and Joe Columbo in the semi-final.

Answer to query—Harry (Kid) Brown defeated Johnny Norris, subbing for Johnny Keefe, in their bout at Conneaut Lake, Pa., last Saturday night.

Harry Ebbets and Gorilla Jones meet in Cleveland next Tuesday night.

Tom McCafferty will meet Dan Taylor and Johnny Freed will oppose Young Bluff in two six-round preliminaries to the Willie Davis-Boulder Pare fight at the New Castle Jolly Bowl next Monday night.

Floyd Fitzsimmons has matched Bud Taylor and Kid Mantle for a ten-round bout in his outdoor arena in Detroit next Thursday night. Tony Herrera and Harry Dubinsky will box on the same card.

George Godfrey will receive a guarantee of $10,000 for his fight with Primo Carnera at Philadelphia next Monday night. Carnera will drag down 25 per cent of the gate.

Last night's rain kinked in the head the Tony Herrera-Eddie Hanna show scheduled to the Meyers Bowl, North Braddock. It was the third postponement. The bout will be held tomorrow night, provided Manager Tony is able to hold his show scheduled for last night. Promoter Lash, at Millvale, will have the preference for tomorrow's date in the event he is forced to postpone his show tonight.

The Bowl's next offering, next Monday night, will feature Jimmy Goodreau, of Cleveland, and Kenny Bass, of Philadelphia, world junior lightweight champion, in a 10-round main bout. Bass' title will not be at stake.

Young Jack Thompson, welterweight champion, has been signed for a non-title fight with Young Corbett, III, at San Francisco, July 4.

benches was wise and whenever the kid would try to go away everybody would yell: "hit another!" Well, the rookie kept swingin' 'til he almost fell down at the plate and when he left nearly all the Phillies and Pirates were hangin' on the ropes. But he didn't pay a bit of attention to anybody.

COMISH HANDS MAX TITLE

NEW YORK, June 19.—(AP.)—The New York State Athletic Commission today recognized Max Schmeling as heavyweight champion of the world by virtue of his victory over Jack Sharkey on a foul in their bout here last week.

Bosworth Winner In Royal Ascot Race

SCOT, Eng., June 19.—(AP.)—Bosworth won the Gold Cup event at today's Royal Ascot race meeting.

The winner was a 4-year-old. The Gold Cup is valued at $2,000 with $17,500 added for the winner and other prizes. The course is two and a half miles.

Bosworth won by a length. Three lengths separated the second and third finishers. The betting was 3 to 1, and 6 to 1.

Bosworth is by Son-In-Law from Serenissima, owned by Lord Derby. W. E. Esmond's Hot Weed, was second, and Lord Roseberry's The Bastard was third. Seven horses ran.

BOBBY JONES BRITISH OPEN LEADER

pitch to within five feet of the cup and holed the putt.

Jones played the eleventh, twelfth and thirteenth in par figures and then bagged a birdie 4 at the fourteenth.

He played the par 4 fifteenth in perfect figures and was satisfied to take a par 5 at the sixteenth. This left him in position to equal par with perfect play at the two finishing holes. His card:

Out . .5 4 6 2 4 4 2 4 4—37
In . . .4 3 4 3 4 4 5 5 4 4—35—72—142

MAC TROUBLED

Mac Smith was troubled today as was Jones yesterday with long putts just slipping past the cup or hanging on the edge. At half a dozen holes his putts seemed to be about to drop, but remained out. His card:

Out . .4 4 6 3 4 4 4 6 5—40
In . . .4 3 4 3 5 5 5 4 4—37—77—147

LEO WEAK AT FINISH

Diegel played almost perfect golf for the first nine holes, making only two bad shots and getting to the turn in 36 strokes. He started home with a string of 3's and 4's and then took two 6's by driving to rough, placing a second short and in rough and a third to rough behind the green. He reached the two holes in four strokes and two putts at each, left him with 6's to ruin his chance to claim at least undisputed possession of third place. His card:

Out . 4 4 5 3 4 4 3 5 4—36
In . . 3 3 4 3 4 6 6 6 4 4—37—73—147

HORTON BUNCHES FOURS

Horton Smith had one of the soundest starts of all the early morning starters with three 4s and a 3. He missed a four-footer at the fifth and took 5, and finished the first nine in 37, one over par.

He shot straight 4s on the first seven of the incoming nine, a 5 on the seventeenth and a birdie 3 on the eighteenth to bring his average back to 4s.

He was hitting a very long ball from the tee, outdriving his playing companion, J. G. Sherlock, 20 to 30 yards at each hole. His card:

Out . 4 4 4 3 5 4 4 4 5—37
In . . 4 4 4 4 4 4 4 5 3—36—73—143

JIM BARNES SLUMPS

Barnes, who finished the seventh one under 4, took 5 at the eighth where he was short with his second and 5 at the punch bowl ninth where he was bunkered off his drive.

Barnes' score was hurt by a 6 at the fifteenth, although he regained one lost stroke with a birdie 4 at the sixteenth. His card:

Out . 4 4 5 3 5 3 3 5 5—37
In . . 5 3 4 5 5 6 4 4 4—40—77—148

BOWEN HEADS U. S. TEAM

The A. A. U. passed on the eligibility of the boys and made a formal announcement of the trip yesterday, but Bowen has been saving up on his clean collars and laying in a supply of postcard snaps of the Highland Park Zoo for weeks and weeks.

The boys will sail for home July 26, and when they get back here, will come to Pittsburgh to prepare for the national A. A. U. championship meet in the Pitt Stadium, August 22, 23 and 25. Seesta?

The complete European program:

July 2, Cologne, Germany; 4, Dusseldorf; 6, Duisburg; 9, Berlin; 12, Oslo, Norway; 16, Eskilstuna, Sweden; 21-22, Stockholm; 24, Helsingfors, Finland; 25, Abo, Finland.

Abo is the home town of Paavo Nurmi, and the stop there was scheduled at the famous Finn's special request.

In addition to the five men named, Pendleton Crosby, a University of Washington sprinter, asked and received permission to make the trip at his own expense and to compete.

Paul Vonckx, Harvard hammer-thrower, also may join the other Americans abroad on his own initiative.

KREMER READY FOR GIANTS

of the best games of the season at Forbes Field loomed. Fred Brickell went up to hit for Glenn Spencer. The alert Critz played Brick well toward first and as usual was right, but the bad-hopping grounder was fumbled long enough to let the fleet runner reach first.

Brame went up to hit for Ira Flagstead. Brame blasted the first pitch back over second, but Critz had scooted to a spot in that vicinity and by doing a "Krazy Kat" dive he managed to knock down the vicious clout. And then the surehanded little fellow reached the rocket in time to give it to Jackson for a force play on Brickell.

This was disheartening to the Pirates, but the home boys, to give them their due, were fighting desperately. Engle went in to run for Brame and McGraw thought so little of this move he ordered his pitcher to wind up with Grantham at the plate, Engle taking second and third unmolested. Boots made the strategy look a bit funny by "busting" a double to right. Engle tallied and George was in the scoring zone with the tieing tally and only one out.

McGraw sent a hurried call to the bullpen for Herb Pruett. Joe Heving, a righthander, had been doing slab duty from the fifth onward, but with P. Waner at the plate, the Giant pilot wanted a lefthander in action. Brother Paul smeared a pitch toward center, but the annoying Critz was plum in the flight of the ball and after snaring it he joyfully touched second to end the game.

Heinie Meine pitched brilliantly for the Pirates through six rounds, the Giants reaching him for three runs in the seventh. Heinie went out for a pinch hitter and Spencer took up the mound task. Southpaw Bill Walker started for the Giants, but he pulled a muscle in one of his legs early in the fight and departed in the fifth in favor of Heving.

FILM OF FIGHT BOOKED HERE

The moving pictures of the Sharkey-Schmeling fight, fought at the Yankee Stadium, New York, a week ago tonight, will be exhibited in conjunction with the regular show at Loew's Aldine Theater beginning tomorrow, it was announced today.

The pictures, which show all of the rounds of the fight, including the foul ending, will be shown for a full week.

JOHNSTOWN RALLY TOPS COLTS, 4-3

Landing on Stub Rase in the ninth inning like a ton of brick, Johnstown scored three runs and defeated Cumberland, 4 to 3, in a close Middle Atlantic League game yesterday. The rally came with two out.

At Jeannette, the Jays divided a double bill with Charleroi. Jeannette won the first game, 8 to 5, and then dropped the second, 4 to 2.

At Scottdale, the Scotties hammered out a 9-to-6 victory over Fairmont, taking an early lead and holding it.

For the second day in a row, the Clarksburg Generals and the Wheeling Stogies were held idle by rain, which, judging from the way in which the Stogies have been staggering, might be termed a good break for the Smokes.

ENTRIES CLOSE FOR NET PLAY

Men's singles entries in the forty-second annual Western Pennsylvania tennis championships will close this evening at 6 o'clock and immediately thereafter seedings, drawings and pairings will be made at the Stanton Heights Golf Club, where hostilities in the titular event will get under way on Saturday afternoon. Last-minute entrants will be cared for if they will 'phone Chairman Ed. Seitz at Atlantic 9050 before 5 p. m. today or call the Stanton Heights Golf Club between 5 and 6 o'clock. The rosters for men's doubles, mixed doubles and women's singles and doubles will be held open as usual till early next week.

8th WONDER OF THE WORLD!

Somebody remarked to Charlie Clausner the other day that his Roadmaster tires must be the eighth wonder of the world. Charlie said that he couldn't modestly make any such claim for them, but that he wasn't surprised that his friend thought as he did. Charlie's explanation is that Roadmasters are the result of years of diligent scientific experimenting. The beauty of the flashing white side-walls is the result of the efforts of America's foremost tire-designers, who have produced something new, yet practical—The Roadmaster—Step at Clausner's and see this marvelous tire.

WOMEN STARS CLASH IN ALLEGHENY TOURNEY

GILES ANNEXES MEDAL AT SHANNOPIN

With the golf fans of the district thrilled over the chance of seeing the greatest woman golfer in the United States Glenna Collett, national champion in action in the annual invitation tournament for women at the Allegheny Country Club tomorrow and Saturday, and likewise interested in the prospect of again watching that famed tennis and links star Mary K. Browne perform here this week's golf is coming to a close with some rapid-fire shooting.

The qualifying round for the Shannopin Country Club invitation tournament yesterday which was won by E. E. Giles Jr. of the home club, who was good enough to come through with a tally of 72, was the first big surprise of the week since interest in the national open qualifying round at the Pittsburgh Field Club died down for the scoring from the top division to the last flight was extremely high—much to the sorrow of some and the great happiness of others.

MATCH PLAY TODAY

To change the subject for a moment, today's golf has not only the first and second rounds of match play at Shannopin on its calendar but also one of the biggest invitation one-day tournaments of the season, a two-ball mixed foursome at the Edgewood Country Club that promises to have no less than 200 players before the last quartet has teed off.

The members of St. Clair and Chartiers Heights inaugurated inter-club competition at the Chartiers Heights Country Club yesterday, Chartier Heights coming through with a grand and glorious victory. A second match between the clubs will be late in the season at St. Clair after its clubhouse is finished.

The prize-list for individuals saw Don Watkins and A. Callender winners in the Chartiers and Charles Johnstone, H. F. Brubaker and Hermann Ruoff, victors in the St. Clair kickers' handicap. R. H. Hoy, of Chartiers Heights, had the most eagles. C. K. Gummerson, of the same club, had the low net, a 69.

FINE FIELD ENTERED

Tomorrow one of the finest fields in women's golf is slated to begin play at the Allegheny Country Club. Mrs. J. M. Schoonmaker, Jr., is in charge of the event, and the presence of all of the district stars, and a number of national lights, including Miss Collett, National champion, and Mary K. Browne, the dual star, will make it one of the most important events of the local season.

CADDIE TRIAL AT SHANNOPIN MONDAY

The third annual Western Pennsylvania junior amateur golf tournament for the William Randolph Hearst Trophy, to be held at the Schenley Park municipal links on Monday, July 7, and the first Pittsburgh public parks tennis championship, to be held on all of the public courts throughout the city, on Monday, July 14, both of them under the auspices of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, are getting bigger and bigger with each succeeding day. The junior golf tournament has reached the 200 mark and is still going up—the net entries are far more than had been anticipated and a fine strong field will be in the event.

The club caddie teams are beginning to get lined up proper for the golf tournament. With the Aleoma Country Club boys already in the fold, the Edgewood, Shannopin, Valley Heights, Highland, and Oakmont boys are expected to play their preliminary tests in the near future. Caddiemaster Stanley at the Shannopin Country Club has set Monday morning as the time for his boys to meet the test, while Caddiemaster Paul E. (Toots) Eroth of the Edgewood Country Club has tentatively set aside a day right soon for his play.

The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph's William Randolph Hearst tournament for amateur golfers is open to any boy 19 years of age or under, who is not attending an institution of learning above preparatory school grades—and it makes no difference what part of the tri-state district you live in, if you have a set of clubs or can borrow them and some balls to play with, it doesn't cost a penny to enter the competition. There is no entry fee for either the golf or the tennis tournament, and there likewise is no limit on the number of entrants.

The winners of the tennis tournament, men and women, will be sent to Washington as Pittsburgh's representatives in the National championship.

Three Collegians Added to Macks

PHILADELPHIA, June 19.—(INS.)—Having received his diploma from the University of Texas only a few days ago, Frank Higgins, star outfielder on that institution's baseball nine, today had signed a contract to play with Connie Mack's Athletics. Higgins has played all four of the infield positions and was highly recommended to the local American League club.

The collegian was only one of three youngsters to join the A's for trials. The other two are Lew Krausse, undefeated Media (Pa.) High School pitcher, and Eddie Madjeski, a catcher.

ning streak with a nose dive. Cleveland is no exception. After capturing the American League leadership by piling up seven straight victories, the Indians have now dropped four game in a row.

The closeness of the American League race is shown in what that short losing streak cost Cleveland. On Sunday the Indians were in first place. Before Wednesday night they were in the fourth hole. It's here today and gone tomorrow in that fight.

Jack Thompson

THE CHARGE THAT Roy Alvis, manager of Young Jack Thompson, was dodging a match with Jimmy McLarnin in order to keep Thompson's newly-won welterweight title at stake appears to have made Alvis change his mind about such a meeting. He now says he is willing to sign for the match, but that doesn't assure the fight by any means, as he demands $25,000 more than the New York promoters have offered and the latter declare they will not boost their original bid. Incidentally, Alvis denies the report that Thompson is again to meet Jackie Fields, from whom he won the championship, in Detroit on September 11. "There'll be no re-match," he says. "That was just one of Gig Rooney's cracks. When we put up the title it will be against McLarnin in New York. They have offered us $75,000 for the match. When the ante is raised to $100,000, we'll take it. Thompson beat McLarnin before he won the title, but they stole the decision from us."*

end to CORNS between toes

Those terribly mean corns between the toes that seem to defy all treatment—they're as easily removable as any other with Freezone! A few drops of Freezone instantly put the corn to sleep. Pain is deadened at once, and soon the corn becomes so loose that you can actually lift it right out with your fingers. Hard corns or soft corns—all yield to Freezone. NAME OFFICERS OF PROPHETS

INDIANAPOLIS, June 19.—(AP.)—Edwin H. Dyer, of Boston, Mass., was elevated to the post of grand monarch of the Mystic Order of Veiled Prophets of the Enchanted Realm. The election was held at the forty-first annual session of the Supreme Council of the Masonic body.

Other officers were advanced in order. They were: Charles E. Minsinger, Portland Ore., deputy grand monarch; Lamar Field, Birmingham, Ala., grand chief justice; Joseph B. Sieber, Akron, O., grand master of ceremonies; Miles S. Gregory, Los Angeles, grand keeper of archives; Clinton G. Nichols, Hartford, Conn., grand orator; John McKay, Hamilton, Ont., grand captain of the guard; Otto F. Hilcebrandt, Rock Island, Ill., grand standard bearer; Edward Blake Winter, Windsor, Ont., grand marshal; William C. Cartledge, Topeka, Kan., grand alchemist; Thomas H. McElvein, Jr., Buffalo, N. Y., grand steward, and Hurd J. Miller, Fort Smith, Ark., grand venerable prophet.

George Edward Hatch, of Rochester, N. Y., was re-elected grand secretary, and Charles M. Colton, of the same city, was re-elected grand treasurer. John Listman, of Syracuse, N. Y., was re-elected grand trustee for a three-year term.

SUE FOR SOUND FILM PATENTS

WASHINGTON, June 19.—(AP.)—Basic patents for sound film recording apparatus were sought in the District of Columbia Supreme Court in a suit brought against the General Talking Pictures Corporation, De Forest Phonofilms, Inc., and Lee De Forest, of New York, by German-American interests allied with William Fox, motion picture producer.

The American Tri-Ergon Corporation, of New York; the Tri-Ergon Holding A. G., of St. Gall, Switzerland; Josef Engl, Joseph Masselle and Hans Vogt, all of Berlin, brought the suit seeking to compel issuance of letters patent in the United States as of date on which they made application in Germany in June, 1919.

The patent was sought in Germany, they said, on a contrivance for production of sound film, especially designed for talking pictures. In April, 1921, they applied for American patents, later transferring their rights to the Swiss Corporation. It in turn sold American rights to William Fox, who assigned these to the American Tri-Ergon firm.

WALES, GEORGE VIE IN AIR RACE

LONDON, June 19.—(AP.)—The Prince of Wales and his brother, Prince George, have entered rival airplanes for the King's Cup races around Britain on July 5, but neither prince will fly.

The Prince of Wales' airplane, a Hawker Tomtit biplane, will be piloted by Squadron Leader Don, the Prince's air chauffeur.

Prince George's airplane, a fast cabin monoplane called the D. H. Hawk Moth, will be piloted by Flight Lieut. E. H. Fielden, another of the Prince of Wales' pilots.

The cup goes for a year to the owner of the winning airplane, not the pilot. There are 96 entries in the race.

Shock of Pastor's Death Fatal To Woman

DOVER, O., June 19.—Mrs. Joseph Arthur Davis, 51, wife of the owner of the Dover Screw Products Company, who died yesterday at Union Hospital of heart disease, was stricken upon hearing that the Rev. Joseph E. Paddock, pastor of Dover Methodist Episcopal Church, had fallen dead of apoplexy May 29. One of the last acts of the Rev. Mr. Paddock was to write to Cleveland for the church letters of Mr. and Mrs. Davis.

HAS THE LAXATIVE IN YOUR HOME A DOCTOR'S APPROVAL?

Some things people do to help the bowels whenever any bad breath, feverishness, biliousness, or a lack of appetite warn of constipation, really weaken these organs. Only a doctor knows what will cleanse the system without harm. That is why the laxative in your home should have the approval of a family doctor.

The wonderful product, known to millions as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a family doctor's prescription for sluggish bowels. It never varies from the original prescription which Dr. Caldwell wrote thousands of times in many years of practice, and proved safe and reliable for men, women and children. It is made from herbs and other pure ingredients, so it is pleasant-tasting, and can form no habit. You can buy this popular laxative from all druggists.

15¢ Phonograph RECORD from 75¢ music

Get one at your news-stand today

by Eddie Cantor

I THOUGHT Flo Ziegfeld was handing me a great big Ha-Ha.

He came back all steamed up after hearing this new record.

For 15¢ . . . a full-size record . . . high priced orchestras . . . big musical hits!

I had to laugh. I hadn't had a good laugh since before I was caught short in the market. For 15¢? For 15¢ you couldn't buy even a piccolo solo!

But then I heard the record played, right alongside a 75¢ one. That's when I became interested in the business!

I listened to six of these Hit-of-the-Week Records, and if there's any difference between them and the kind I plunk down 75¢ for, I must be wearing ear muffs.

THIS WEEK'S BIG HIT
"IF I HAD A GIRL LIKE YOU"
Played by Phil Spitalny and his Orchestra

These records are one-sided. You can buy the music you really want without plunking down good dough for a dud on the reverse side.

And they don't break! I took one home. I sat on it. I hit it with a hammer. We used it as a cocktail tray. Even my pre-war (that is, "pre" the next war) stuff couldn't scar it. And then the cook fried an egg on it. It played just the same. There's not a break in a boxful!

They're made of Durium, folks, and that's the whole secret. Durium was invented by Dr. H. T. Beans, professor of chemistry at Columbia University. He told me the technical name and it made me dizzy, but, anyhow, the stuff looks something like brown patent leather.

With the old type of record, a man and a machine can turn out 700 a day. With Durium, a man and a machine can turn out 70,000.

Now your money can buy music instead of expensive material! That's why Hit-of-the-Week Records can sell for 15¢!

But that's not all. There are more reasons why this is the biggest thing that ever hit the phonograph business.

Only one record will be made each week, and that will be a hit that has proved itself on the stage, and over the radio, and on the dance floor. Flo Ziegfeld, Vincent Lopez and I will act as a music jury to pick out the most popular piece of music every week.

Then it will be recorded by one of the best orchestras that money can hire.

Every record a hit! No flops admitted here!

That's why you can buy Hit-of-the-Week Records without bothering to hear them beforehand. You just know that each one's a wow.

So step up, folks, and give a poor margin-called actor a break, and give yourself a treat.

You can buy these records AT ANY NEWS-STAND as easily as buying a magazine. Get yours today.

EVENING SUN-TELEGRAPH MARKETS

Stocks Advance — Lone Star Gas Gains

STOCKS ABSORB LIQUIDATION, ADVANCE

Prices Snap Back Early, Hesitate Under Hangover Selling, Then Head Upward

NEW YORK, June 19.—(AP.) The stock market snapped back with a bang today, a familiar phenomenon at the end of a phase of liquidation. The lifting of selling pressure late yesterday, and a firmer tone in the London markets before this market opened, prompted a flurry of short covering at the opening when prices jumped forward as buying orders of 1,000 to 10,000 shares were executed.

After the initial buying orders were disposed of a little more hangover liquidation had to be absorbed, but it was not of important proportions and by midday many professional traders took the bull side of the market in the belief that a substantial technical recovery might be expected. Belated short covering continued to appear. The market turned comparatively dull after the morning trading, however, as it closely followed the pattern which it does at such times.

SENTIMENT UNCERTAIN

There was practically nothing in the day's business news to influence the market and Wall Street was left to conclude that the recovery was purely a correction of an oversold condition. Some commission houses advised their customers cautiously to accumulate stocks at this time but market sentiment in the main remained uncertain, which was not surprising in view of the short life of recent recoveries.

The recovery embraced commodity as well as the security markets, and non-ferrous metals, cotton and grains moved upward in both foreign and domestic exchanges. The failure of a small local stock exchange house was announced today, but it had no more influence on the market apparently, than did suspension of both a New York cotton exchange house and a Chicago board member yesterday.

ADVANCES SHARP

The advance was sharp in the more volatile issues which evidently had been favorite targets for bear selling. Shares gaining 10 points or more included Case, Allied Chemical and Ingersoll Rand; 7 and more, Westinghouse Electric, American Tobacco issues, Eastman and Foster Wheeler; 5 and more, Electric Power and Light, Stone and Webster, American Water Works, Johns Manville, Atchison, Union Pacific, Standard Gas and American Can.

Such issues as U. S. Steel, General Electric, Radio and American Telephone sold up only about 2 to 3 points.

Asks Court Order Against Steel Unit

WASHINGTON, June 19.—The law against a railroad transporting in Interstate Commerce commodities in which it has an interest has been invoked against the Elgin, Joliet and Eastern Railroad by the justice department.

The filing of a petition for writ of mandamus in the United States court in Chicago was announced today. The department alleged to the court that all the capital stock of the railroad is owned by the United States Steel Corporation and that the railroad company is engaged in transporting in Interstate Commerce commodities manufactured and mined by certain subsidiaries of the steel corporation.

The petition asks that the railroad company be ordered to desist from the practice.

Election of Moon Directors Legal

WILMINGTON, Del., June 19.—Chancellor J. O. Wolcott today held that the eight new directors elected on April 7, at a special stockholders' meeting of the Moon Motor Car Company in St. Louis, Mo., were legally elected and are entitled to hold office.

Stanley Moon and Philip Glick, stockholders, filed suit several weeks ago asking the court to hold the election of the eight new directors invalid on the ground the special stockholders' meeting was illegally held.

New Haven Stock Sold by Central

The annual report of the New York Central Railroad shows that the company last year sold all of the 15,456 shares of New York, New Haven and Hartford capital stock which it then owned. It also sold $61,000 par value of New Haven 6 per cent convertible debentures. The proceeds from these sales totaled $2,050,389. There still remains in the New York Central's treasury $360,000 of the 6 per cent debentures and $300 of the 3½ per cent debentures.

GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, June 19.—Wheat values here averaged higher early today, helped by upturns in Liverpool wheat quotations and by stock market rallies. Reports of crop damage from soil drifting in Alberta and Saskatchewan Provinces, Canada, together with less favorable crop advices from France and Germany, were also a factor tending to lift the wheat market. Opening unchanged to ⅛c up, Chicago wheat afterward showed moderate gains all around. Corn, oats and provisions were likewise firmer, with corn starting ⅜@1⅛c higher, but subsequently reacting.

A bullish factor was announcement that the world's available supply of wheat had decreased 59,021,000 bushels during May, compared with 46,843,000 bushels in April and 53,667,000 bushels in May last year.

Increased selling which developed on the price bulges in wheat today led at times to reactions that carried the market to below yesterday's finish. Only a fair export business over night from North America was acknowledged.

The following quotations on the Chicago Board of Trade are reported by A. G. Master & Co.:

Another Hectic Day in Stocks; Calmer Close

By B. C. FORBES

THOSE who purchased good stocks the last little Wall Street experienced panics could doubtless had opportunity within a brief period to add to very handsome profits.

Those who have the courage to [illegible] will be richly rewarded.

FIFTY stocks [illegible] November 13 [illegible] Bear [illegible] year which was of January 2 the [illegible]

This will be seen that they are no [illegible] November minimum, although many individual stocks have gone even lower than [illegible] Frankly, the [illegible] is hardly safe to be as [illegible] as it was in the early months this year. Quotations may [illegible] drift lower before the turn comes because Wall Street proverbially fixes its extremes. Moreover, the summer trading months [illegible] Wise [illegible]

TO FRIGHTENED [illegible] who are excitedly asking the writer whether they shouldn't sell their holdings at the low figures current this week the reply given is:

"I am not selling mine. The worst time of all to sell is when panic rages in the market."

What has been experienced in Wall Street this week falls little short of panicky conditions. The break has gone far beyond mere professional bear selling. While that started the downside, the crumbling quotations have forced many marginal holders to sell out. This has alarmed many who could hold on, and selling by them has aggravated the debacle.

But always there comes a turning point—there never yet was a panic that didn't end to be followed by rising prices. This occasion will prove no exception.

THIS INQUIRY in various forms is being received:

"Why were you so bearish last year and now favor buying stocks when you must know that business conditions throughout the country are terrible, whereas they were booming a year ago?"

That is a perfectly legitimate question. Here very briefly is my answer:

Last year New York was sucking the world dry of its loanable funds. Wall Street was paying abnormal rates for purely speculative purposes. Call money went as high as 20 per cent. In this week last year 8½ per cent was paid for 90-day loans. Now call money is in superabundance at 2½ per cent and time money is plentiful at 3 per cent.

Brokers loans as reported by the New York Stock Exchange last year soared to $8,549,000,000. They were cut last month to $4,747,000,000, a reduction of over 44 per cent and must be much lower now. Not only so, but last year a very dangerous monetary condition existed in Wall Street in that as much as $3,940,000,000 (according to the Federal Reserve Banks) was being lent in Wall Street by corporations, individuals and others outside of the banking business. This "bootleg" money, as the writer frequently emphasized, constituted a grave danger, as was only too abundantly verified when the panic came, in one week more than a billion and a third of this "outside" money was excitedly withdrawn, throwing a terrific burden upon the banks.

IT WAS EASY to forsee that the wild speculation last year was plunging towards disaster. If for no other reason, the collapse was bound to be brought about by the impossibility of keeping on indefinitely drawing money from the rest of the world to keep the three-ringed circus going here. Whereas good stocks could not be purchased then to yield much better than half as much as the cost of money, good stocks can be purchased now to yield very substantially more than the current money rates. Such a condition never has proved permanent.

Admittedly industrial, agricultural and general business conditions are at this moment very unsatisfactory. If this were not so, you would not be witnessing the current abnormally low rates for money nor the mob selling of stocks regardless of the prices realized.

Carnegie Steel Man Given Higher Post

Charles L. Wood, general manager of sales of the Carnegie Steel Company, was elected a vice president at a meeting of the board of directors today. He will continue to be general manager of sales in addition to his duties as vice president.

Mr. Wood was made general manager of sales in November, 1925, and up to that time had been assistant general manager of sales in charge of the bar, hoop and band business of the Carnegie Steel Company since 1918 when he succeeded William G. Clyde, now president of the Carnegie Steel Company, when the latter was promoted to the office of vice president and general manager of sales.

Ford Organized 27 Years Ago Today

DETROIT, June 19.—Today is the twenty-seventh birthday of the Ford Motor Company. It was on June 19, 1903, that the company was started with an organized capital of $100,000, of which only $28,000 was paid in. Its operations were begun in a small wooden building on Mack avenue, Detroit. There were 90 employees and during that first year they produced 195 two-cylinder cars. At the close of last year the company's assets amounted to more than $161,000,000 and net earnings amounted to more than $61,000,000 for the year.

If the Ford Company closes its plants here for two weeks during the latter part of July or early August, as is generally understood, some 100,000 employees will be given vacations.

Wall Street Looks Upon Easier Money as Discouraging

No longer will Wall street regard a reduction in the rediscount rate of the New York Federal Reserve Bank as bullish. Any sign of easier money also is likely to be looked upon as rather discouraging because such developments would be credited to the slack business. Money has been a drug on the market. One observer of money conditions states emphatically that any stiffening in the rates, without any sharp advance in the stock market, would be distinctly bullish because it would indicate better commercial conditions.

Margin calls have been sent out steadily by most houses in the last few days. Before the decline began it was believed that speculative holdings were well in hand, but the consistent decline in values brought many stocks in accounts to levels where additional funds were required. Responses generally have been in the form of selling orders. After the experiences of last October and November, few outsiders are willing to deposit additional funds to take care of their accounts. In the big break last fall, the money deposited for protection was wiped out quickly, and the public is not willing to have a similar experience. For that reason, the liquidation has continued.

A tendency which may, as it has in the past, indicate the possibility or at least a temporary turn in the trend, is the reported disposition among commission house clients to take a fling on the short side of the market. Several houses which had been doing very little during the last few days, reported that there was a strong tendency in that direction following the sharp crack in prices yesterday morning. Certainly the urge to sell is stronger at the moment than is the urge to buy, but it would appear well for the average commission house trade to consider the situation seriously before attempting such a venture when it is realized that the market is now approaching the lows of the November break.

Steel common went into a fresh tailspin which carried it down to within five points of last November's low level yesterday. The ease with which the stock yielded led many to wonder how it would act if, as now appears likely, it should duplicate the '29 low of 150. It was recalled that at that time a supporting order to the extent of about 200,000 shares had been placed under the stock at the low. Just now the wonder is whether that order still remains intact. The financial head of the corporation is abroad just now, but after all the width of the ocean is no longer a serious obstacle to business. Operations of the Steel Corporation plants are now down to a 73 per cent basis, against 80 per cent three weeks ago and 94 per cent this time last year.

Judging the pace of business currently on the basis of the weekly car loadings returns, it is difficult to find any basis for undue optimism, and true enough there is little evidence of the latter quality at the moment. The report for the week ended June 7 shows loadings ran 75,398 cars above the previous week, which was shortened by a holiday, but 120,100 cars under the same week a year ago, 59,900 under the same week in 1928 and 92,720 cars under the corresponding week of 1927. For the year to date, loadings have totaled 20,432,506 cars, or about 2,000,000 less than in the same period last year and about 1,000,000 cars under the corresponding period of 1928.

Selling in the motor shares, while it was not any more pronounced than in other groups, found ready explanation in the weekly iron and steel trade summaries yesterday. The slackening of mill output for the industry as a whole to 65 per cent basis as against 69 per cent a week ago, is ascribed chiefly by the Iron Age to "a sharp drop in steel specifications from automobile makers," and an increasingly general tendency toward seasonal retrenchment in other steel consuming lines, too sweeping in their effect to be offset by the large volume of business in line pipe and the growing demand for structural steel."

Commodity Prices Continue Slump

WASHINGTON, June 19.—The downward tendency of wholesale commodity prices was uninterrupted for the week ended June 14 as their change was calculated by the Census Bureau. Figures which follow give the index for the week and comparable periods, based on representing 1926 average wholesale selling prices as 100. In addition, selling prices for a ton of composite steel are also given.

Davison Local Plant Operating 100%

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

DAVISON COKE AND IRON COMPANY is operating all its units on Neville Island at capacity. This means full production of pig iron, gas and coke at this point. The company's blast furnaces at other localities are idle. This follows its policy of concentrating operations at its new low cost plant here and of using other pig iron making facilities to take care of the overflow portion of the business during busy periods.

Plant improvements at Neville Island were completed last December so that the present year marks the first period in which the full benefits of operating economies from the new development can be shown. Operations have been at capacity all this year except for a period during which repairs were being made to the blast furnace.

Cement Demand Heavy

EXTENSIVE ROAD construction work has given the company a good market for its output of cement. The production of coke is also moving in good volume. While industrial needs for pig iron have been curtailed by the general business dullness, the market price is being well maintained.

The company has been exerting a stabilizing influence on the pig iron market since its purchase of three merchant blast furnaces last year making it the dominant figure in the field in this district.

Since 1929 was a transition period during which Davison Coke and Iron was engaged in making its Neville Island improvements, the year was not a representative one for the organization. It is expected that the present year will give the first indication of the earning power although the reduced pig iron demand will exert an unfavorable influence.

Sale of Property

THE SALE OF A TRACT of 120 acres on Neville Island to the Gulf Oil Corporation will greatly improve Davison Coke's cash position. The amount involved in the transaction has not been revealed but it is known to have been a substantial figure.

When the Neville Island development was started, Davison Coke bought 140 acres of land from the United States Steel Corporation. The purchase included the blast furnace which was the nucleous around which the entire plant was built. The company has retained the ground necessary for its own operations and has liquidated its investment in the unused land on a satisfactory basis.

Modern Plant

THE PLANT REPRESENTS the most modern developments in equipment for making pig iron and for using by-products. Low cost river transportation is used to bring coal to the plant where it is coked in by-product ovens. Part of the gas produced by the ovens is used to make cement and the balance is sold to the Manufacturers Light and Heat Company. The coke is used for fuel in the blast furnace.

The gas produced by the blast furnace is used to heat boilers in the company's power plant. The surplus power is sold to the Duquesne Light Company. The slag from the blast furnace is made into cement. River transportation is also used for shipping finished products. A large share of the distribution of cement is carried on by motor truck to consumers in this district.

SEES IMPROVED OUTLOOK FOR SUGAR

Business Depression and Tariff Held Trade Down, Uncertainty Now Removed

NEW YORK, June 19.—In a special article on sugar prospects, Walter Lageman, vice president of Czarnikow-Rionda Company, states that the situation in sugar is fundamentally sound and does not justify a continuance of the present low level brought about by abnormal conditions.

He says the Single Seller, the British budget and the American tariff have kept the market in a state of uncertainty here and abroad. Buyers have had to act very cautiously, he continues, confining their purchases to no more than immediate requirements. Besides, there was no incentive for the trade to stock up and hold sugar in expectation of a future advance in prices because whenever such action was taken, the market invariably declined.

LOAD ON PRODUCERS

Ordinarily a surplus in sugar production over requirements of 1,000,000 to 1,500,000 tons in the United States and Cuba would not justify the low levels of today, because a large part of such surplus would have been absorbed into invisible stocks under normal conditions. As it is, producers and importers are carrying the load, as shown by figures of visible stocks, which again revert to the reluctance of the trade to carry even normal supplies commonly known as "invisibles" against a future rise in prices.

VARIOUS CAUSES

Overproduction, therefore, cannot be entirely blamed for the present situation. The general depression, caused by tariff uncertainties and the consequent weakening of business enterprise, is without doubt a powerful factor.

It is difficult to say how long business depression will continue, but it is reasonably certain to expect a return to normal conditions in the near future, now that legislative uncertainty is removed.

PROSPECTS BETTER

The deliveries of refined sugar in the United States, according to the Sugar Institute, were 160,000 tons less than last year to May 31, but should increase from now on. The Cuban crop is practically ended, and although the stocks in the island are large, it does not seem likely that much selling pressure will develop at these extremely low levels. With the advent of warm weather the increased summer demand will make itself felt, and, above all, confidence in the future should reassert itself after the recent passage of the tariff bill.

WALL STREET HEARS

That investment trusts were cautious buyers of stock during yesterday's decline.

That there was substantial selling in the American stock markets yesterday by Paris interests, which evidently liquidated on these exchanges to bolster accounts on the Paris market, also weak.

That there is no tendency among leading corporations to reduce wages.

That the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific Railway will make every effort to make interest payments on its adjustment bonds this year, despite the low rate of earnings.

Regular monthly dividends of 50 cents per share on the preferred stock and preference stock were announced, all payable August 1 to stock of record July 15.

Oh Boy! What Joy

LIFT CORNS RIGHT OUT

The English Way

Right from England comes the new bully joyful way to take out corns—root and all.

Callouses go also and you can rub off that hard skin on heels and toes with your hand—like magic treatment.

Ask Mayflower Drug stores or any leading druggist for a package of Radox—put 2 tablespoonfuls to a gallon of hot water—do this for 3 or 4 nights in succession—then lift out the corns.

This joyful exhilarating foot bath is simply great—you'll enjoy every minute of it and your burning, sore tired aching feet will feel better than they have for years—ask for Radox and foot comfort will be yours.

Reduce . . . . and Enjoy It

The Special Cold Plunge Pool where you plunge after a period in the steam room.

Rid yourself of excess flesh through a course of Turkish Baths. You will lose weight quickly and gain in vitality. Safe, sane method. Treatments are inexpensive. 4 for $5. 20 for $20.

PITTSBURGH NATATORIUM

DUQUESNE WAY

All Aboard for a Week at Sea

Hay fever sufferers find this cruise most beneficial.

LAKES Huron and Superior provide a romantic and beautiful cruising ground. The big liners, "Noronic", "Hamonic" or "Huronic" afford luxurious and hospitable accommodations. Sarnia, the "Soo", Port Arthur, Fort William and Duluth are interesting ports of call.

There is much dancing and a big masquerade party the last night at sea. Wonderful meals appease ravenous sea appetites. Mile marches around wide decks to music of bagpipes and drums, and community singing are features of the cruise.

Social hostesses introduce everybody and think up new things to do. There is never a dull moment aboard ship or ashore. Plan now for this refreshing cruise from Detroit to Duluth and return. It is as good as a tonic any time, and sends you back to the routine of daily life buoyant and full of health.

Sailings from Brush Street Dock, Detroit, 11 p.m., Monday, Wednesday and Friday.

EXCHANGE FIRM SUSPENDED

NEW YORK, June 19.—(AP)—The New York Stock Exchange firm of Woody & Company was suspended today for insolvency. It was the first failure since the crash of last fall.

The suspension was announced from the rostrum of the exchange at the opening of the market. The company is a local firm and has no out of town offices.

Action followed the notification of the exchange by the firm this morning that it was unable to meet its obligations.

COPPER NOW AT 12 CENTS

NEW YORK, June 19.—Copper metal after selling in fair tonnage at 11½ cents a pound delivered up to 2 p. m. yesterday suddenly turned around and by the end of the day no one was willing to sell under 12 cents delivered.

The reason for this sudden change in sentiment was that large consumers appreciating how seldom copper has sold under 11½ cents in the last 35 years. Bid for large tonnages from all the producers and custom smelters for August and September shipment at 11½ cents, but it failed to tempt large sales at that figure.

Producers held their price at 12 cents a pound delivered throughout the day. When the custom smelters began to realize the large tonnages that fabricators and ultimate consumers were willing to buy, they quickly advanced their price to that of the producers.

SETBACKS TEST CALIBER OF LEADERS

Times of Transition Real Challenge to Executives' Capacity and Courage

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER.

NEW YORK, June 19.—Setbacks test the caliber of business leadership.

Frequently booms sweep men of mediocre ability into exalted places, but times of transition challenge the capacity and the courage of men.

These recurrent recessions are ascribable to entanglements in the man-made machinery of business. They are characterized by a temporary decline of courage and venturesomeness. In the present situation all the mechanical facilities of production and distribution are unimpaired. The potential consuming power of the people is high. Superlatively low interest rates constitute an incentive to boldness. The chief defect is psychological, and consists of a lapse of confidence.

Faith will return, but until it does the volume of trade will continue to be compressed. The current statistics of production and distribution reflect the widespread human tendency to retrench and to wait to see what will happen. The return to prosperity could be heightened by courageous leadership.

SHELVES EMPTYING

Meanwhile, time is on the side of recovery, for there has been a more marked falling off in production than in consumption. The result has been a gradual tendency to eat into accumulated stocks—not only into the stocks of merchandise held by manufacturers and retailers, but also into the invisible inventory which consumers accumulated during the last boom on the instalment plan.

Stock prices in their recent decline reflect the tendency of the public to exaggerate the immediately visible present. What has recently occurred is precisely the obverse of what took place in the latter phases of the prolonged bull markets. When business was booming, amateur financiers acted on the assumption that "it ain't gonna rain no more." And of late, lay speculators have assumed that the sun of prosperity would never shine again. Of course, the true investment worth of stocks depends largely on their average potential earning power over a period of years, not on prospects for profits in the next quarter.

REFLECT MOODS

But stock prices reflect collective psychological moods over short periods, even more than analytical merit. The outright cash buyer is in position to wait until fundamentals govern stock quotations, as eventually they do; but the individual, who incurs demand loans against his stock holdings, becomes victimized by prevailing short-term conditions. The marginal speculator cannot wait until the long run. That is perhaps why the average individual should shun speculation, and seek instead to build up an estate gradually in accordance with the slow but sure working of the compound interest table, which is always on the side of the thrifty.

The recession has at least the merit of heightening the popular sense of reality. It shows the hollowness of the claims of press agents concerning the ability of some men in the public eye. Incidentally, it should demonstrate, too, the fallacy of the assertion by either major political party that it has a monopoly on prosperity. Col. Leonard P. Ayres, of the Cleveland Trust Company, amassed data some years ago which purported to demonstrate that over a period of years the country had almost an equal distribution of prosperity irrespective of which major political party was in office. The causes of fluctuations in business volume are economic, not political.

ducts of pipes carrying the warm air from the furnace to the room or place where it is to be used. The horizontal pipes in basement are the basement pipes. The vertical pipes going within the walls are the risers.

(c) The word Register where used in this ordinance shall mean the grating and opening or regulating means used at end of the warm air pipes or cold air pipes.

SECTION 2. REQUIREMENTS IN BUILDINGS. The following shall be done by the owner of building contractor in every building wherein a warm air heating system is to be installed.

(a) At or near the points where warm air register boxes heads or stacks are to be installed there shall be left not less and not less than 18 inch clear space between trim and in supporting partitions shall be butted with ends in the and not stapled.

(b) In the studs at these points shall be cut directly over and under the beams the full space of not less than 14 inches clear between the studs. Wherever beams are cut headers must be put in to support the

(c) An iron sheet, ridge or sub floors shall be continuous in all houses having studded exterior walls these floors shall be extended to the outside sheathing and all space between studding shall be closed at the attic line.

SECTION 3. CHIMNEYS. The owner shall provide a chimney for the furnace constructed to comply with the following requirements.

(a) The chimney must be absolutely smoke tight throughout the entire length and must extend at least three feet (3') above a flat roof of two feet above the ridges of peak roofs.

(b) It built of a single thickness of brick or reinforced brick, the chimney shall be used throughout the entire length with the two flue lining having not less than three-fourths inch (¾") thickness. The lining is to be laid in mortar and made air tight.

(c) The furnace flue shall have no other opening for attaching any fireplace furnace stove, range water heater gas or ventilating connection. Furnace flues shall not be used for the accommodation of pipes or be obstructed in any way whatsoever.

(d) If necessary to offset the flue it must be done so as not to reduce the cross section area nor create a ledge or obstruction where loose material may lodge.

(e) The minimum cross sectional area of any flue lining shall be 72 square inches and may be square, round or rectangular.

SECTION 4. LOCATION OF THE FURNACE.

(a) The furnace shall if possible be located to equalize the length of horizontal pipes but it convenience gives preference to pipes supplying living room dining room and main hall.

(b) The furnace shall be placed close to the chimney.

(c) A level foundation of brick cement or other incombustible material must be provided. It shall extend at least eighteen inches (18") outside of furnace casing at sides and front and at least thirty six inches (36") in rear.

SECTION 5. SIZE OF HORIZONTAL PIPES, WALL STACKS AND REGISTERS. Whenever warm air systems are installed in the City of Pittsburgh, the size of horizontal pipes, wall stacks and registers shall be based on the following:

(a) Measure each room separately. Divide square feet of full casement door and window openings exposed to the outside and by 12, the square feet of net exposed wall thereof by 20 the cubic contents thereof by 500.

For the area in square inches of first floor basement pipes multiply the sum of the above figures for first floor room or rooms by 1. For area of second floor basement pipes in square inches multiply the sum of the above figures for second floor room or rooms by 6. The correct operating area of third floor pipes multiply above figures for third floor by 12.

The area of wall stacks to be as follows:

(b) For the first floor rooms the same as the area of the basement pipes thereto. For second or third floor rooms the area shall be 60% of the figured area of the basement pipe.

(c) All registers shall have a free area at least equal to the calculated area of the basement pipe.

SECTION 6. TRANSITION FITTINGS AND STACKS. Transition from warm air pipes to stacks shall be made with a well designed elbow or boot and no stack shall be less than 60% of the warm air pipe area.

SECTION 7. DETERMINING SIZE OF FURNACE.

(a) The furnace shall not have a less capacity than that demand by the sum of the areas of all warm air basement pipes computed as above. The rating capacity of a furnace shall be determined by the following furnace rating formula.

(b) FURNACE RATING FORMULA

$$\frac{L \times Th(1) \times 60 \times 24}{G} = Bh$$

L—grate area in square inches the area of the fire pot at the grate level or the most restricted area.

Th(1)—Heating surface area to grate area 1 Th a constant based upon the results obtained in the association research on a furnace having 20 square feet of heating surface for each square foot of grate and including factors for

$$\frac{Bh \times 1}{Bh \times 8} = \text{delivering value of one square inch of pipe assuming half of the heat is sent to each floor. This value is based on an operating temperature of 175 degrees F. at the register.}$$

The formula allows 1.75 square inches of warm air pipe area for each square inch of grate area, for the furnaces having a ratio of heating surface to grate surface of 20 to 1. For furnaces having other ratios of heating surfaces to grate surface add to 2 per cent or deduct 2 per cent for each unit above or below a ratio of 20.

(c) Where the square feet of exposed wall or glass is greater than the square feet of floor area, the number of square feet of exposed wall or glass shall be used in place of the square feet of floor area.

(d) All registers placed in combustible floors other than in private residences shall be set in metal borders.

SECTION 13. AIR SUPPLY TO FURNACES.

(a) The air supply to furnace for warm air heating plants may be taken from outside or from within the building or may be taken partially from outside and partially from within. In no case shall air be supplied to air furnace from any basement or furnace room not occupied as living quarters.

(b) Rectangular cold air intakes or returns (where air is taken from within the building) shall have a net elliptical area throughout its entire length 10% greater than the combined net area of all warm air pipes leading from the furnace obtained by the use of one or more ducts. No cold air duct shall have a greater diameter than 24 for a single cold air grille and shall be equalized at the casing. Where only one cold air return is used it shall be placed at the rear of furnace.

(c) When a cool air supply is taken wholly from the outside. The building supply duct at its most contracted area must equal or exceed eighty per cent of the combined area of all warm air pipes leading from the furnace.

(d) Cold air ducts shall be constructed of metal tile or other incombustible material having smooth inner surface and shall maintain a constant net area throughout their entire length and shall be made air tight. The opening of any duct, shoe or other connected to the casing at the base shall not extend higher than the one of the grate level. The width of the shoe shall be of proper measurement to make the area at least equal to that of the round or square pipe to which it is connected.

(e) Wherever the space between two or more joists is used to convey cold air over head it shall be incased with No. 26 Standard gauge galvanized iron with a tight joint. The transition point at the end of the incased area of which shall be at least 100% greater than connecting collar to receive round pipe in no case shall a cold air duct be run directly over a warm air register.

(f) The cold air grille shall have a total free air area 10 per cent greater than the duct to which it is connected.

SECTION 14. SMOKE PIPES.

(a) The smoke pipe shall be as short and direct as consistent with the location of the furnace. It shall be made of either black or galvanized iron not less than No. 24 U. S. Standard gauge, and of the full size of the collar on the furnace throughout its entire length. It must have no other opening attached thereto. It shall be lock seamed or riveted and shall not less than one and one half inches and the pipe shall be rigidly secured. Cast iron smoke pipe may be used.

(b) The connection of the smoke pipe to the flue shall extend in as far as the inner walls of the flue lining and shall be made air tight to the lining and chimney. Any combustible material within twelve inches of any smoke pipe shall be covered with asbestos paper and a metal shield as described in (a). A space of not less than 1 inch shall exist between this shield and the combustible material. This shield shall be not less in size than twice the diameter of the smoke pipe and of the entire length of the smoke pipe.

(c) No smoke pipe shall project through any external wall or window. No furnace connection is to be made to flue without proper cleanout facilities having first been approved by the Bureau of Fire. Inspections shall be made of 26 gauge galvanized metal or a cast iron collar with tight fitting cap four inches below smoke pipe with a pocket not over 10 inches deep.

A back draft device of the combustion type shall be placed on all Gas furnaces.

SECTION 15. INSTALLATIONS, REPLACEMENTS AND REPAIRS TO INSTALLATIONS.

Installation of new warm air heating systems in old houses shall conform to the provisions of this ordinance. It shall not be necessary to remove the plaster and ash from the walls where the new stacks are to be placed, provided said double stacks are properly fastened together before being installed.

Old wall stacks to second and third floors may be used if in good condition if within 30" of register face. No furnishing over of the basement pipe connected with the said old wall stacks. All first floor pipes and registers must be of authorized size to conform with city ordinance.

Where old type floor registers are found in the floor they shall be replaced with water type single valve registers. All old wall stack boots shall be replaced unless they are of the approved type.

SECTION 16. INSPECTION.

(a) It shall be unlawful for any person persons firm or corporation to install any warm air heating system within the City of Pittsburgh without first obtaining from the Superintendent of the Bureau of Building Inspection a permit for such work. Such permit shall permit said person persons firm or corporation shall pay to the City Treasurer the sum of Five ($5.00) Dollars for each warm air heating system installed.

Repairs such as renewal of smoke pipes registers, grates, bars and firepots, may be made without a permit. The installing of a complete furnace in an old casing or hood shall not be permitted. If there are any additional warm air pipes to be run or cold air returns to be made or any changes in the warm air leaders or flues in the building system then a permit shall be applied for specifying changes to be made and a fee of One ($1.00) Dollar paid for each warm air pipe and cold air pipe added.

That back heaters connected from the floor will be permitted with a cold air return from floor and a fume pipe to the chimney and they shall have sufficient capacity to heat the Hall or room to be heated as provided in this ordinance.

(b) When such installation of warm air heating system has proceeded to where the stacks to upper floors and heads for all side wall registers have been installed, and boots have been connected, the contractor for the work shall notify the Bureau of Building Inspection whose duty it shall be to make an inspection of such work. Upon finding that the work complies in all respects with the terms of this ordinance there shall be affixed by said inspector to each stack or register head a certificate stating that the work complies with the ordinance relating thereto.

(c) Final inspection of system shall be made after it is connected up and ready to operate but before any fire has been started.

(d) Inspection of repaired or renewed work shall be made in each case as the nature of the work may require.

(e) It shall be unlawful for any person to lath over plaster or cover up any warm air heating work before such work has been inspected and certificates above referred to have been attached. The Bureau of Building Inspection shall have the right and authority to remove or cause removed all such lath, plaster or other covering which may have been placed over such work before same has been inspected.

SECTION 17. Any person violating any provision of this Ordinance upon conviction before a Police Magistrate or Alderman of the City of Pittsburgh, shall be sentenced to pay a fine not to exceed One Hundred ($100.00) Dollars and in default of payment thereof, such fine be ordered to the Allegheny County Jail for a period not to exceed Thirty (30) days.

SECTION 18. (a) The following ordinance is repealed absolutely:

Ordinance relating installation and inspection of warm air heating systems in residences, warehouses and other industrial establishments, stores and other mercantile establishments, schools and other edifices, theatres, moving picture houses, churches and other places of public assembly, defining certain terms therein, providing for permits therefor fixing fees for same and providing penalty for violations thereof, passed by Council July 21, 1927 and recorded in Ordinance Book Vol. 36, Page 137.

(b) The following ordinances are repealed insofar as they conflict with the provisions of this ordinance:

An Ordinance regulating the construction, alteration, additions to, arrangement, equipment and the use and occupancy of all buildings such as are dangerous or used in the process of dwelling erected or used in the City of Pittsburgh hereafter be known as Building of Classification No. VIII, providing for the issuance of construction and occupancy permits, therefor, and providing a penalty for the violation of the provisions hereof. Approved December 13, 1920.

(c) An Ordinance regulating the construction, alteration, additions to, Automatic sprinkler equipment and the use and occupancy of all buildings and dwelling hereafter be known as Building of Classification No. VIII, providing for the issuance of construction and occupancy permits, therefor, and providing a penalty for the violation of the provisions hereof. Approved December 13, 1920.

(d) An Ordinance regulating the construction, alteration, additions to, Automatic sprinkler equipment and the use and occupancy of all buildings and structures hereafter be known as Building of Classification No. VIII, providing for the issuance of construction and occupancy permits, therefor, and providing a penalty for the violation of the provisions hereof. Approved December 13, 1920.

AN ORDINANCE—Authorizing and directing the Mayor and the Director of the Department of Public Works of the City of Pittsburgh, to execute a contract in the name of and for the City of Pittsburgh, in connection with the repaving of that portion of Baldwin road within the corporate limits of the City of Pittsburgh with the Pittsburgh Railways Company, and the Pittsburgh and City Line at Steen street to Crafton boulevard with a contract with the proper officers of the Borough of Crafton to grade, pave and curb the portion of Baldwin Road located within the corporate limits of the Borough of Crafton between the City Line at Steen street to Crafton boulevard and providing for the payment of the cost thereof.

SECTION 1. Be it ordained and enacted by the City of Pittsburgh, in Council assembled, and it is hereby ordained and enacted by the authority of the same, That the Mayor and the Director of the Department of Public Works of the City of Pittsburgh shall be and they are hereby authorized and directed to execute and deliver in the name of the City of Pittsburgh, the following contract with the Borough of Crafton and to affix thereto the corporate seal of the said City:

ARTICLES OF AGREEMENT

Made and entered into this ... day of ..., 1930, by and between the Borough of Crafton, party of the first part, and the City of Pittsburgh party of the second part.

WITNESSETH

Whereas, The Borough of Crafton desires to grade pave and curb that portion of Baldwin road within its corporate limits from the City Line at Steen street to Crafton boulevard, as part of the Baldwin road improvement authorized by ordinance said improvement; and

Whereas, The said Borough desires that the City of Pittsburgh perform the work of grading paving and curbing that portion of Baldwin Road located within its corporate limits in conjunction with the contract for repaving Baldwin road within the corporate limits of the City of Pittsburgh from the City Line at Steen street to Crafton boulevard in order to obtain a properly paved thoroughfare for the entire length of the improvement which would not obtain if the work were carried out as separate contracts; and

Whereas, The Town Council of the Borough of Crafton in regular meeting assembled the ... day of ..., 1930, passed a Resolution agreeing that the Borough of Crafton will pay to the City of Pittsburgh the cost of grading paving and curbing that portion of Baldwin road within the Borough of Crafton

NOW THEREFORE, THIS ARTICLES WITNESSETH: That the parties hereto in consideration of the mutual covenants and conditions herein recited do covenant and agree as follows: each covenanting for and binding itself to the other:

First—The borough of Crafton hereby authorizes the City of Pittsburgh to grade, pave and curb that portion of Baldwin road within the corporate limits of the Borough of Crafton from the City Line at Steen street to Crafton boulevard in conjunction with the contract for the repaving of Baldwin road from the City Line at Steen street to Crafton boulevard in order to have one contractor carry out the entire improvement.

Second—The City of Pittsburgh upon passage and approval of an Ordinance authorizing the repaving of Baldwin road from the City Line at Steen street to Crafton boulevard with the proper officers of the Borough of Crafton to grade, pave and curb the portion of Baldwin road located within the corporate limits of the Borough of Crafton between the City Line at Steen street and Crafton boulevard as part of the said improvement of the street, the estimated cost of the improvement within the City of Pittsburgh being $14,500.00 and the portion within the Borough of Crafton being estimated at $12,500.00.

Third—Within thirty (30) days after completion and acceptance of the work, the Borough of Crafton agrees to pay the Treasurer of the City of Pittsburgh the costs of improvement within its corporate limits as shown in separate final estimate to be prepared and approved by the Director of the Department of Public Works of the City of Pittsburgh and the Mayor and Controller are hereby authorized and directed respectively to issue and countersign a warrant drawn on said fund in payment of the cost of the final estimate for the work done within the corporate limits of the Borough of Crafton.

Fourth—Upon the completion of the contract for the repaving and the grading curbing and curbing of said Baldwin road the City of Pittsburgh shall be responsible for and maintain the portion of the street pavement within the corporate limits of the City, and the Borough of Crafton shall be responsible for and maintain the portion of the street pavement within the corporate limits of the Borough.

In Witness Whereof The Borough of Crafton has caused its corporate seal to be hereunto affixed and this contract to be signed by the proper Officials of the Borough of Crafton, and this contract is signed and executed in the name of the City of Pittsburgh and for the City of Pittsburgh by its Mayor and its Director of the Department of Public Works and the seal of the said City is by the Mayor hereto affixed, he having been duly authorized so to do by ordinance of Council and City, all done the day and year aforesaid.

(2) A conduit line 221.00 feet long under and along Carpenter way distant 221.00 feet southwestwardly from the northerly property line of Heinz street.

(3) A sprinkler line 301.00 feet long under said Carpenter way distant 91.00 feet southwestwardly from the northerly property line of Heinz street.

Said conduits and sprinkler line being for the purpose of transmitting electric and water service to the new Warehouse of the H J Heinz Company Twenty-third Ward, Pittsburgh, Pa.

The said conduits and sprinkler line shall be constructed in accordance with the provisions of the Ordinance and in accordance with the plan hereto attached and identified as Expansion No. B-364, Folder "B" in the files of the Division of Public Utilities, Bureau of Highways and Sewers, Department of Public Works entitled. Proposed conduits and sprinkler line under across and along Progress street and Carpenter way for the H J Heinz Company, Twenty-third Ward, Pittsburgh, Pa.

SECTION 2. That the said company, prior to beginning the construction of said conduits and sprinkler line, shall submit to the Director of the Department of Public Works of said City, a complete set of plans showing the location and all details for the construction of said conduits and sprinkler line, and said plans and the construction of said conduits and sprinkler line shall be subject to the approval and supervision of said Director.

SECTION 3. That the rights and privileges herein granted shall be subject and subordinate to the rights of the City of Pittsburgh and the powers and City Officers and to the ordinances of the City of Pittsburgh relating thereto, and to the provisions of any general ordinance which may hereafter be passed relating to be construction of conduits in the same and sprinkler line in City streets and compensation for same.

SECTION 4. That the said grantee shall bear the full cost and expense of the repaving and repair of the street damaged, injured or removed by the sewer, water, gas, surface and sub-surface structures which may be in any way damaged or disturbed by reason of the construction, maintenance and use of said conduits and sprinkler line. All of the said work including the repaving of the street damaged, shall be done in the manner and at such times as the Director may order and shall be subject to his approval and supervision.

SECTION 5. That the rights and privileges granted by this ordinance are granted upon the express condition that the City of Pittsburgh without liability reserves the right to cause the removal of the said conduits and sprinkler line upon giving thirty (30) days notice thereof through the Secretary pursuant to resolution of ordinance of Council to the said H J Heinz Company its successors and assigns, to that effect and that the said grantee when so notified, shall at the expiration of the said thirty days notice remove the said conduits and sprinkler line and replace the street in its original condition, at its own cost and expense.

SECTION 6. That the said grantee shall assume any liability of the City of Pittsburgh for damages to persons or property including the street and sub-surface structures thereon by reason of the construction, maintenance and use of the said conduits and sprinkler line and as a condition of the grant that the City of Pittsburgh assumes no liability to either persons or property on account of the grant.

SECTION 7. That the foregoing rights and privileges are granted subject to the following conditions, to wit: That unless this ordinance shall become null and void within thirty (30) days after the passage and approval the H J Heinz Company shall file with the City Controller its certificate of acceptance of the provisions thereof and certificate to be executed by the said H J Heinz Company with its corporate seal attached.

DAILY TRUE STORY

Engaging Miss Foster

Isobel Foster was 26. She had worked for old John Galvin since she was 20.

She was so efficient that old man Galvin scarcely realized that she was working for him—like the telephone or office desk, she was sort of taken for granted.

Galvin made certain rules he laid out certain routine. Then he forgot all about it.

But be quite sure that if the rules had not been followed and the details of the routine carried out, he would have remembered quickly enough.

Everything that Galvin touched seemed to turn to money.

His many big interests seemed to click along like the proverbial clock. But John Galvin knew how to make them click.

In his domestic affairs he was less successful. In fact he was practically a total loss at managing his home and his relatives.

After Mrs. Galvin died which was some years before Isabel went to work in his office as his personal secretary, Galvin's home affairs didn't seem to click just right.

"It's dam' funny I can't make things go right at home, Miss Foster," he had growled to Isobel on more than one occasion. "Home affairs and business affairs are not much alike, Mr. Galvin," Isobel had ventured to say at first.

"Why not? Don't be stupid—why not?"

Isobel was so accustomed to hearing Galvin tell people including herself not to be stupid or dumb or crazy, that she didn't mind—much.

"It's the human element, Mr. Galvin."

"Guff—great big excuse for failure—no reason at all when I order things done at home they can't be done."

"Yes, sir."

"What do you mean—yes, sir?"

Nephew Efficient

"It strikes me that ordering a railroad extended or a ship built or a mine opened is quite different from trying to order the manner of a human being's living or thoughts or temperament. Chance and new environment, inherited instincts—failure of servants, new acquaintances—so many things come into private lives, Mr. Galvin."

"Humph—don't believe it."

There were times when the efficient Miss Foster wanted to turn on John Galvin and tell him things. Probably a hundred times she had wanted to say to him: "You are a hard-headed, swell-headed, stubborn old fool who believes that the head is everything and that the heart is nothing. You're wrong and you s... going to be sorry—and I'm resigning right now, this very minute!"

Isobel knew the speech by heart.

But she had never dared to say it—probably never would.

There was Don Kensington, nephew of Galvin. He held a responsible position with his uncle. He was very efficient, he had saved many a business crisis in his department. But did Galvin give him credit? Not a bit of it. His manner with Don was that of a great benefactor.

There were especial reasons why it hurt Isobel Foster to have Galvin be so unappreciative of Don Kensington. Isobel believed Don to be a very lovable, desirable, square-shooting man, who had a heart as well as a head.

And yet Isobel had to be honest about Jack Galvin, the old man's son. Jack's idea of what to do with life was to have a studio and dabble unprofitably in the arts, to own a big jazz orchestra on the side and lead that, and to throw the most picturesque parties in town.

Galvin wanted his son to be grooming himself to step into his shoes and the son had no intention of doing it.

"Aw, let the dubs toddle along with transportation and mining and corporation junk—I'm not for it," Jack had said.

Isobel heard him say it to his father.

She heard the old man's reply. She expected to see blue flames burn right through the door.

The young man had laughed at his father and his father had told him to "get-the-hell-out and STAY OUT!" He had said it exactly like that.

Daughter Stubborn

At the present moment he was in Europe with his "Jazz Four Hundred." It was making a hit over there. Jack was coining money. He had composed some stuff that went over. There were the records and also the radio—it seemed to old man Galvin that wherever he turned he read or heard something about Jack Galvin's "Jazz Four Hundred."

And then there was the trouble with Bee.

Beatrice was the old man's daughter, younger than Jack.

Bee had been everywhere where it was proper for a girl to go and plenty of places not so proper. Bee was lively, vivacious, intelligent and stubborn.

John Galvin had pictured his daughter as living at home, dressing in a quiet manner, sitting at her dead mother's place at the table and becoming the gracious, quiet hostess of his home.

When Galvin pictured anything in his mind in business, such as a tunnel through a mountain or a canal to cut down shipping distances, those things became realities.

John Galvin couldn't see why in the merry so-and-so these things he pictured as happening at home couldn't also become realities.

And so he flared up constantly.

Beatrice dropped in the office one day for something and her father made a scene about some chap or other.

Isobel heard the loud voices, very loud. The door flew open and Bee popped out, holding the door open long enough to say: "Hold everything, Dad, until your temperature drops."

Then she closed the door and turned to Isobel.

"For cat's sake, Miss Foster," she said, "why don't you marry Dad and manage him as efficiently as you manage his private affairs?"

"That's a good idea," bellowed John Galvin. He had opened the door and heard.

Beatrice laughed and departed. Isobel turned slightly pink, otherwise she was her same cool and efficient self.

"I mean it, Miss Foster, good idea, why not marry?" Galvin asked.

Bee Gets Married

"No, thank you," Isobel answered quietly.

Galvin got red and finally he laughed.

"If you married such a bellicose old blusterer it would prove that you weren't altogether efficient. Don't blame you, but what the devil am I to do with my daughter?"

"How old is she?"

"Twenty-two."

"When you were 22 Mr. Galvin, who was telling you how to live your life?"

"Not a dam'—look here, this is different. I earned my fortune. I've given my children everything—they owe it to me to do as I say."

"They don't even owe you for their lives—they are here at your desire, not their own, Mr. Galvin."

Isobel spoke coldly. Galvin glared at her in amazement and slammed into his office.

A little later he literally, with the aid of his butler and two other men servants, ejected Wally Evanston from his house because Wally told him that he wanted to marry Bee. Bee saw it. Fifteen minutes later she slipped out of the servants' entrance and stayed at Wally's mother's place that night. The next day she married Wally.

John Galvin after that, for months, never mentioned his son or his daughter.

In her desk Isobel had a leather bound book. There were dates in it—dates for wedding anniversaries, for birthdays and holidays. To some, just a kindly worded wire or cable or card was sent, to others, gifts and kind words were sent. Galvin had compiled the book long before. It had been, for six years, up to Isobel to attend to this. Every day she looked in it and if there was some message to be sent she sent it without speaking to Galvin.

Shortly after this Isobel came across Jack Galvin's birthday date, marked a few days ahead as a reminder.

"Every man to his own game. Here's success to you, son," John Galvin."

Birthday Greetings

Isobel sent that cable across to Jack Galvin where he was then playing with his famous jazz orchestra.

Two days later came Bee's birthday.

Isobel went out. At a certain shop on the avenue that flourishes without the aid of a sign she bought a wonderful chest of sterling tableware and with it she sent a card.

"Birthday blessings to daughter from Dad."

Isobel told Don Kensington all about it.

"Fur will fly," he said.

"Let it."

Fur did fly. Jack sent a cable thanking his father for suddenly seeing things aright, and Bee sent him a sweet note saying she and Wally would be right over for the parental blessing.

"What the Sam Hill does this mean?" bellowing Galvin to Isobel.

"Replies to your birthday greetings, Mr. Galvin."

"My birthday greetings? Mine? You know dam' well I never sent them — you know what's happened—how dare you go messing in my family affairs? Outside of office duties your efficiency is of no interest—"

"Will you stop bellowing and listen to me?" Isobel said, so sharply that the old man stood there with his mouth open.

"You are a hard-headed, swell-headed, stubborn old fool! You believe that the head is everything and that the heart plays no part in life. There is more to life, whether in an office or home, than dollars and cents. And you are wrong, as usual. If you were efficient you would have scratched out of this little book all names of those you wished to stop remembering. You ordered me to always look after these things. Until you countermanded that order I had to look after them. This was part of my office work. As you say, what happens in your unfortunate, mismanaged home is none of my business. And, furthermore, I am resigning right this minute!"

John Galvin stared at her.

"By God, you're right, Miss Foster. I'll forgive them—but you are wrong for once in one thing. You aren't going to resign."

"Yes I am—not on this account, but because I am going to have a baby!"

"What dam' foolish talk is this, Miss Foster."

"I have been married to Don Kensington for three years."

John Galvin sent Isobel an amazingly big check.

WHO'S WHO IN LEGAL CIRCLES

A Handy Clip-and-Paste Directory of Lawyers Available on the Slightest Pretext

This boy (No. 3218-J) is a recognized leader in the legal profession, and can be trusted so long as he is sitting at his desk looking blankly out of the window. He uses the ceaseless swivel method with clients, and is very fascinating, due, perhaps, to the fact that he has practiced considerably with a formidable scowl, and gives strangers the gimlet eye. He bites his lip, as though in deep thought. Last year he won the book slamming competition, and also was runner-up in the Bar Association tests to see who could sit longest with feet on desk. He has connections with several big corporations, by telephone. He has handled many divorcees. In fact, it was in handling one of these cases that he received a kick in the shins which causes him to limp slightly. His elevator expression is rated A-1.

RED LETTER DAY FOR THE HERO OF FLORA, ILL.!

(From the Flora Journal-Record.)

Marion Vaughn sold a Jersey cow to E. A. Keith, out a ways from Fairfield, and attended a show at Flora, and one of the attractions was a bouncer the show carried who was thought to be great with the gloves. The bouncer come out snorting like a wild bull and defied anyone in the crowd to meet him for two minutes. Pay fifty cents and get a five if the bouncer failed to kill or cripple in the two minutes. Marion was about two sheets in the wind and after rising to his feet, he flipped a 4-bit piece to the bouncer and stepped clean over the ropes instead of going under, as Marion stands about 6 feet five. When he stepped over the ropes he didn't wait for no gloves, but sent a pop to the chin and the bouncer was in the land of sunshine and flowers for 15 minutes, while the show people fanned and worked over the mighty bouncer. Some of the high ups in the show declared Marion took advantage of their boxer and then Marion began to lose his temper. He offered to take on the whole show, so Marion finally got the five.

Hoover Flexible Clause Safety Valve of Tariff

In the wake of the mess that Congress has made of tariff revision by the old method of log-rolling, the American people have good cause to be thankful for the flexible provision in the new tariff law which will modernize the method of tariff-making in the future.

Nor should the people fail to give credit to President Hoover for the fact that these provisions were finally adopted by the Congress.

Of course, the principle of a flexible tariff has been advocated over a long term of years by members of all parties.

It was introduced in limited form into the Tariff Act of 1922. And Mr. Hoover, as secretary of commerce, urged its adoption at that time as necessary to protect the public interest.

But, in his message to Congress at the opening of the special session, called more than a year ago to revise the tariff, President Hoover made a broader application of the flexible principle one of his chief recommendations.

And from the day that the tariff bill was introduced into the House with the flexible provisions as he approved them, President Hoover has been their firm and courageous champion.

When opposition to the flexible system developed in the Senate, and the House provisions were radically modified, President Hoover served notice on both houses of Congress that unless these provision were restored, he would not sign the bill.

In view of the many injustices which the log-rolling of sectional interests and the lobbying of special interests wrote in to the new law, the flexible provisions may well prove a life-saver.

In case the high rates of the new law provoke foreign powers to adopt retaliatory measures, the flexible provisions will prove to be a timely protection.

Under the flexible system of tariff making, it will be possible for the President and the Tariff Commission to modify the tariff where its exactions are extreme or to provide additional protection where foreign countries threaten extreme retaliation.

The flexible provisions fix the responsibility for rate adjustment upon a reorganized Tariff Commission on which both parties will be equally represented.

After open hearings and investigation, this expert rate-making body can, with the approval of the President, make the changes in rates which the public interest requires.

Experience has proved that too many congressmen lack the breadth of vision to regard the tariff from the viewpoint of the general welfare of the public.

Too many Congressmen apparently agree with Gen. Hancock who insisted that the tariff was a local issue.

Too many Congressmen have approached the question very much as the small boy approaches the "grab-bag" at the church fair.

The President and an expert Tariff Commission, on which both political parties are equally represented, are much more likely to regard the tariff nationally and internationally, and to approach the question from the viewpoint of the general welfare of the public.

The Hearst newspapers, which strongly indorsed the flexible system of tariff-making, heartily congratulate President Hoover upon the firmness and courage with which he insisted that these provisions should be included in the new tariff act which his signature has just made effective.

Fisher Has Fine Chance To Appoint Good Judges

In political circles there is speculation as to whether Gov. John S. Fisher will ignore political considerations in appointing judges of the Common Pleas Court to succeed Judge John A. Evans, who has retired, and Judge Josiah Cohen, deceased.

Ordinarily, if precedent were followed, Gov. Fisher, in making the appointments, would consult the wishes of the local Republican organization directed by County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong and Mayor Charles H. Kline.

But the Fisher-Grundy machine and the Armstrong-Kline machine traveled different paths in the recent primary campaign, the organization here supporting Secretary of Labor James J. Davis for the United States senatorial nomination, in opposition to the Governor's candidate, Senator Joseph R. Grundy. And since the machine did not support his man, the Governor, according to the gossip, may feel free to ignore the machine in appointing the judges.

It would be a fine thing for Allegheny County if not only Fisher but every governor would ignore political partisanship in judicial appointments. This is not to say that lawyers should be disqualified for the bench because of political activities; but they should not be appointed because of their political activities. Not the wishes of political bosses, but the welfare of the people, should be consulted in offering the ermine. It should not be a reward for political service.

That the courts should be free from political influence has long been recognized by all thoughtful citizens. The demand is that judges be selected for their poise, experience, good judgment and knowledge of the law. Courage and honesty are also important requirements.

Gov. Fisher, if now unhampered by political obligations, has a splendid opportunity to render the citizens a valuable service by appointing to the Allegheny County bench the best men he can find, regardless of how the politicians may view the appointments.

Boat Building Industry Should Be Encouraged

The launching at Neville Island of the new $500,000 steamer Ohio, a craft somewhat more pretentious than the towboats that ply our rivers, is a reminder that ocean-going ships were once constructed here.

W. H. Stevenson, president of the Pennsylvania Historical Commission, tells of a vessel built at local yards that crossed the Atlantic and put into Leghorn, Italy. When the Italian authorities examined the ship's papers and noted the statement that it hailed from Pittsburgh, they seized it as a pirate, saying that since there was no such seaport as Pittsburgh the papers were obviously false.

That was over 100 years ago, when ocean-going vessels were much smaller than they are now. There is scant likelihood that Pittsburgh will ever again be actively engaged in building ships for the Seven Seas. But, with the development of the inland waterways, construction of vessels like the Ohio is destined to become an increasingly important industry. It is an industry that should be encouraged to center in Pittsburgh.

AIR THE ESSENTIAL

By Archibald Henderson

Air is the original and prime essential of human life. Without it, the new born babe would find himself without the means for continued existence. Without it, none of us could prolong life for more than a very brief period. The vials of the wind are filled with vital stuff, the death-defying weapon of the air.

Galileo (1564 to 1642) discovered the material nature of air by discovering that a globe filled with compressed air increased in weight. An English scientist, Mayhow (1645 to 1679), showed that air was chiefly a mixture of two gases, to which he gave no name. In 1772 Rutherford, an English nobleman, discovered that animals kept in a closed space for some time changed a part of ordinary air into a gas which clouded lime-water.

Mayhow's two gases, we now know, were oxygen and nitrogen. Rutherford's gas we now know to be carbon dioxide. Air must be a gas, since it is clearly not either a solid or a liquid. However, air may be liquified by subjecting it both to low temperatures and extreme pressures.

Liquid air is so cold that a piece of ice dropped into it acts like a red-hot iron plunged into a bucket of cold water. Thus we see that the terms, hot and cold, are after all only relative.

Oxygen is a vital agent in generating chemical energy. It gives us the "pep" necessary to perform various feats, from lifting a heavy weight to turning a handspring. But, energetic as human beings are, they are surpassed in energy by other living objects. A Frenchman, Parhon, has estimated that man, with his 233 cubic centimeters consumed per kilogram of weight, is vastly surpassed by the chicken (740), the dog (911), the fly (6,709) and the bee (17,336)!

The name of Priestly, the English scientist, is held in especial reverence here, since he spent the latter years of his life in this country. It is generally accepted that he was the first man in history to publish the results of his experiments, specifically on August 1, 1774, in preparing oxygen. He produced the gas by heating mercuric oxide, a compound of mercury and oxygen, by concentrating the sun's rays on the substance by means of a reading lens. As Paulie G. Beery says in "Stuff": Lavoister discovered that if all the products formed when any substance burns are collected and weighed, the substance during burning actually combines chemically with the part of the air that he named oxygen.

This colorless, odorless gas, oxygen, has become an indispensable adjunct to modern industry. Today 1,000,000,000 cubic feet of oxygen are produced every year for commercial purposes. Its chief commercial use is for the welding and cutting of metals; but there are various other uses to which it is put—for emergency use in submarines and airplanes, in mine rescue work, and in medicine for sustaining impaired lung action.

Nitrogen, as a matter of fact, comprises about four-fifths of the volume of air. It serves equally well as a salutary and as a destructive agent. It nourishes or it kills. As a plant food, nitrogen is absolutely essential. It is likewise an essential ingredient of gunpowder and high explosive. Air, however, is composed of other ingredients than nitrogen, oxygen and carbon dioxide. Ramsay, Rayleigh and others discovered that considerably less than 2 per cent of air is composed of fine rare inert gases: argon, krypton, xenon, neon and helium.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

Ever listen to a bunch of women talking together? Ever study the subject most women talk about? Try it. You'll be surprised.

For the last three months I've been journeying around, eating in hotels, restaurants and tea rooms—listening. Listening to American women talk. Representative American women, out of snappy offices and comfortable homes. Handsome, healthy, happy creatures they are, for the most part—with unprecedented opportunity and advantages. And you'd think that because of this their conversations would embrace a lively list of topics. If so you'd think wrong.

HALF A DOZEN PHONOGRAPH RECORDS—FAIRLY FULL RECORDS AT THAT—WOULD COVER THEIR CONVERSATIONAL RANGE OF THE AVERAGE AMERICAN WOMAN!

Food. Dresses. Diseases. Fancy work. Family rows. Husbands. Lovers. Children. These are the typical themes for female conversation from New York to San Francisco, from Chicago to New Orleans.

I admit they're important topics. But they are also highly personal topics. They are topics which begin and end with the individual Mamie or Rose or Mrs. Jones or Mrs. White who discuss them. Also they have little more contact with modern American life than the jabberings of any aborigine squaw. In fact, the female conversation at the Ritz or the St. Francis or the Edgewater Beach is practically duplicated in front of any Navajo wigwam. Not once in 500 times can you find a group of women discussing any abstract subject such as politics or philosophy, art or industry.

Men, on the other hand, while perhaps no brighter than their ladies, sound like Encyclopedia Britannica as by comparison. Politics, business, travel, inventions and sports dominate their noontime conversations. Can you imagine a thousand male luncheons discussing their marcels, lingerie, diets and family fusses? No you can't. And you'd better not try. Long ago the masculine mind was trained to be impersonal. Unconsciously, the average man who lunches with his kind goes to school—the school of modern experience, but, also unconsciously, the average woman who lunches with her kind, stays right in her own home—locked within the narrow, personal range of its interests.

The American woman may be God's loveliest creation. As one of her, I sincerely hope she is. But the painful truth is that, nine times out of ten she's as dull as dishwater and hundred years behind her husband in her range of interests.

Why do smart business men fall in love with snappy little stenogs after listening to some good, loyal, faithful missis for 20 years? Listen to that same missis yourself for 20 seconds and maybe you'll know why.

Whereupon the missis will reply, with many tears, that "any wife who does her duty by her home has no time, etc., etc., etc." That argument might have gone big in 1830. In 1930 it's the bunk. The average American wife has just as much opportunity to improve herself as the average American husband. It's mental laziness, not manual labor, that keeps her jabbering junk.

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS.

There was a lady in Vermont that took her little boy to the doctor. He had swallowed a dime, she said, and she was awful worried. The doc told her not to get excited, and wrote down instructions for her, and sent her home.

Two or three days afterwards the doc happened to be going by the house, so he stopped in.

"I didn't hear any more from you, so I suppose the boy that swallowed the dime is all right," he says, "but I thought I'd call to make sure that you followed instructions."

"Oh, don't mention it, Doc," she says. "I looked through my pocketbook when I got home and I see he hadn't swallowed a dime at all. It was only a penny, so I paid no more attention to it. Sorry I bothered you."

Text For Today And he said unto them, Ye are they which justify yourselves before men; but God knoweth your hearts: for that which is highly esteemed among men is abomination in the sight of God—Luke xvi:15.

(The text for today is suggested by the Rev. Claud Studebaker, pastor, First Brethren Church, East End.)

"Bugs" Baer Says:

A Desert Garden

New York society women refuse to give up their afternoon cocktails.

They also refuse to give up their afternoon cocktails in the morning.

"Bugs" Baer

We do not blame them.

We once saw a society woman give up a cocktail. It is not a pretty sight.

The agitation for dry society started in Philadelphia. That town is the backbone and shoulderblades of the elite.

When the nosey reporter asked Mrs. Van Double Blott whether or not she would surrender her rights to bathtub gin, that eminent drop-stitcher replied through a very tasty lorgnette:

"I don't drink. Much. From now on I will be a teetotaler. I will not drink anything I cannot lift with one hand tied behind my back."

Mrs. R. Stuffingham Beetle, of the old Virginia Beetles, has some very definite views on highly specialized red noses:

"I haven't touched a drink since 1928. I don't have to. The drink I took in 1928 hasn't worn off yet."

It was quite surprising to discover the theories held by Mrs. R. R. Freight Depot. This charming leftover from good old colonial daze has very nervous wrists developed by testing the centrifugal force of an olive in a cocktail shaker.

"I believe in moderation in all things, especially enforcement of the Eighteenth Mistakement. Sip it. Don't gulp it. I am bringing up my children to properly appreciate the fruit of the vine. There's six of them climbing the vine right now."

The other three had fallen off the trellis. Mrs. Depot then put on her charming fireman's hat, grabbed an axe and dashed forth to prune her capillary tremors.

Not all society women spoke this way. Some of them could only sputter and fizz.

This is no tempest in a teapot, Folks, it's Vesuvius in a thimble.

A snappy oversized dowager can toss off a ration of shellac that would make a sailor climb a mast and keep on climbing after he had reached the top.

The ladies seem to like their liquor. And when a lady adores her hootch it's time for a gentleman to do the famous hat trick.

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

By H. G. WELLS
In Collaboration With
Prof. Julian Huxley and George P. Wells.

If the reds are self-fertilized or pollinated by other reds, all of the progeny will also be red; thus, these plants, although only in the second generation from a cross, yet breed true for the character that was crossed.

This fundamental fact was in total disagreement with the prevalent view of animal and plant breeders in the last century, that crossing so contaminates the "blood" or constitution of both strains used in a cross that it is impossible to obtain purity of breed again, at least without many generations of rigorous selection.

H. G. Wells

The whites of this second generation, when tested, prove to be as pure for flower-color as the reds. But the pink plants all behave like their parents of the first hybrid generation; they do not breed true, but throw reds and pinks and whites.

And so on for as many generations as we like to raise. Reds and whites will always breed true, while pinks will throw reds and whites as well as pinks. A pink that breeds true is an impossibility.

In order to explain facts like these, Mendel assumed that somewhere in the plant's hereditary constitution there were units busy with the control of this or that character.

In our particular example, there must be units whose business is with the control of flower-color. And these units, he supposed, were self-perpetuating and did not mix with each other.

Today we call these units by the technical name of genes. All the countless breeding experiments that have gone on since Mendel's work was rediscovered have confirmed his original idea, and in addition have established a new fact—that these gene-units are carried in the chromosomes.

Like an atom, a gene is something that has never been seen or felt. It is inferred. But its existence is none the less real for that.

A century ago, scientific men were forced to believe in the existence of atoms by the chemical behavior of different substances when they combined and separated.

Today, scientific men have been forced to believe in the existence of genes by the reproductive behavior of animals and plants when they are forced to breed together. "Gene" is simply a shorthand phrase for "that something in the chromosomes, whatever its nature may be, which is responsible for a particular character and its particular way of transmission from parent to offspring."

We have gradually got to know a great deal about the nature of atoms, besides the mere fact that they are the units whose existence we have to assume to explain the way of chemical combination; and we are beginning to learn something about the nature of genes, besides the mere fact that they are the units of whose existence we must assume to explain the way of hereditary transmission.

But the main point about them is that we have to assume that they exist, whatever their nature may be, or else the facts of inheritance are inexplicable.

Since every cell of the plant (except for the actual reproductive cells) contains a double chromosome outfit, it must contain two of these color-producing genes. In the original red plant from which we started, these genes were red-producing; in the white plant they were of such a quality that flowers were white.

When the cross was made the hybrid plants of the first generation got one of their two chromosome outfits from each of their parents. Whence it follows that their cells contain one color-controlling gene of each kind—one red-producer and one white-producer. So that the resulting flowers are a compromise between red and white—that is pink.

Now when these mixed plants become mature and produced reproductive cells, the result was more complicated. Manifestly when their chromosomes were sorted out in the reduction division there must have been a separation of the red gene from the white; there must have been red-carrying pollen and white-carrying pollen, red-carrying ovules and white-carrying ovules.

So that when these pink plants were bred together four kinds of fertilization ensued so far as color genes were concerned.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, June 19.—It has been 13 years since Hetty Green passed from mortal sight and despite she was one of the most amazing women America has produced it was not until recently a full length account of her life was attempted—a volume by Boyden Sparks and Samuel Taylor Moore.

Every New York reporter found in Mrs. Green one of the most positive personalities they ever encountered. There were rare moments when she was garrulous, but as a rule she gave gentlemen of the press a pawnbroker look accompanied by a disdainful sniff and flounced from the room.

Her predatory predilections were an inheritance from her father, known as Black Hawk, a whaling master in New Bedford, Mass. I once accompanied a group from Park Row to her cheap flat in Jersey City. She was away and we waited outside in a chill drizzle for her return.

When she arrived her manner was amiable although she complained of the mud being brought to her doorsteps. Then someone asked her an inopportune question. Her face clouded and her mouth framed a sharp retort, but instead she bustled into her flat and slammed the door.

There have been many acrimonious articles written about the so-called witch of Wall Street and the relentless pursuit of her god—money. Yet a powerful financier of the day says she minded her own business better than any woman he ever knew.

Her objection to people was largely because she had so often been the victim of deceptions. Her life in the end became a torment of suspicion and in the last days almost the whole of her affections were centered on an asthmatic, toothless dog.

Mrs. Green's will was adamantine but she had her soft moments. Her husband indulged in some spectacular losses in Wall street plunging on credit. She cast him off but not before she had paid every penny of his debts. Her life was an epic of the unhappiness wealth so often brings.

This has also been an off year for the book publishing business. Few books have sold more than 1,500 copies and an author turns handsprings along the main plaisance if a sale reaches 25,000. Almost any novelist will turn a rosy red these days if asked how his last book sold.

Collecting autographs has become a raging fad among young hopefuls over the land. Boys and girls send out self addressed envelopes with enclosed cards to make it easy for the signers. Then the autographs are traded, each one having a variable market price.

Mayor Walker has requests for about 50 autographs daily. The most sought after feminine autograph is that of Ann Lindbergh. Gary Cooper leads among movie folk.

A gentleman from Arkansas informs me there is a Yell County in his state and the county seat is Yellville—a name deservedly applied because residents have a yelling signal system from one hill to another. It is handy when revenuers are snooping around.

The same informant tells me of complimenting a lanky Ozarkian on the beauty of his young daughter who peeped shyly from the cabin door. "She's all right, I reckon," he drawled, "but she has been cuted too much"—meaning too many of the admiring swains had told her she was cute.

For many years, in my quiet unobstructive way, I have been on the look-out for the fellow who upon receiving a string tied package does not pick at the knots until he breaks his finger nails. And who, just as he has the knot completely at his mercy, does not fly into a rage and slash the string with his knife. When I find him I'm going to let him walk my dog or something.

"Your daily articles," confesses T. E. S., Boston, "have a certain charm but they lack the studied dignity every writer should have because of their intimacy? You become too familiar."

I'm sorry. How are the folks.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

What is wrong with you that you can't enjoy your own company?

Why so restless when alone and seemingly dependent upon others for company?

Haven't you anything within yourself upon which to draw?

Have your lines of thought reached their limit to development?

Can't you evolve something new from subjects you have studied?

Is your whole line of knowledge shallow and superficial?

When you can't sit down quietly to read, study or work and must be up and on your toes, physically active, running hither and thither in search of excitement, it is time you took yourself to task for the reason.

There are so many interesting things in the world about which you know nothing and say you have never had time to learn.

If the truth were told you don't want to settle down long enough to add valuable material to your memory storehouse.

Who wants the company of a flutterbudget such as you prove yourself to be when you can't be quiet once in a while and at the same time be happy?

You are as tiresome to others as to yourself.

Never acknowledge your limit to be so meager that you cannot welcome a little time alone to develop and add to your mental equipment.
